Monopolies Charged in Auto Tires, Color Movies

8 Rubber Firms, Technicolor and Eastman Kodak Face Justice Suits

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Monopolies in rubber tires and color movies were charged by the Justice Department in two suits yesterday.

A New York Federal court was asked to break up a price-fixing setup, blamed on 8 rubber companies, 1 trade association and 10 rubber officials.

The Federal Court in Los Angeles was asked to break the hold of Technicolor and Eastman Kodak on color movies.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark said the two cases were part of the department's fight on monopolies in industry.

Price Fixing Charged

Clark charged the tire companies got together on prices, discounts, bonuses, warranties, types of tires and other trade practices, with the purpose of fixing prices and cutting out competition.

Those accused were:

Rubber Manufacturers Association, and A. L. Viles, president, and George Flint, assistant secretary.

Seiberling Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, and J. L. Cochrum, vice president.

Dayton, Ohio, Rubber Co., and I. Eisbrouch, vice president.

Lee Rubber & Tire Corp., Conshohocken, Pa., and A. A. Garthwaite, sr., president.

U. S. Rubber Co., New York, and H. N. Hawkes, assistant general manager.

Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, and Lee R. Jackson, executive vice president.

General Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, and L. A. McQueen, vice president.

B. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, Ohio, and J. J. Newman, vice president.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, and R. S. Wilson, vice president.

Other Charges Listed

Among them, these companies do a great part of the tire and inner tube business of the country. They also handle much of the rubber products business.

The Justice Department claimed that, besides fixing prices, they divide sales territories, limited output and agreed in other ways to cut out competition in the rubber business.

The rubber suit was started under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, which provides for fines up to $5000 and jail sentences up to one year, or both.

Named in the color movie suit were Technicolor, Inc., Technicolor Motion Picture Corp., and Eastman Kodak Co. They were accused of conspiring to dominate the color movie business and to keep other firms out of it.

Exclusive Deals Alleged

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett said Technicolor was doing over 90 per cent of all professional color movie business, and since 1934 had made the positive prints for all Class A pictures and for most of the shorts and animated cartoons.

Sonnett said Technicolor had made deals with Eastman to get exclusive use of patents, new developments and technical information. The suit asked the court to

U. S., Britain Urge Russia To Save Petkov

May Invoke Potsdam Agreement If Bulgaria Disregards Protests

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The United States and Great Britain yesterday called upon Russia to instruct the Bulgarian government to suspend a death sentence imposed Saturday on Nikola Petkov, famed Bulgarian liberal.

The American appeal was addressed to Lieut. Gen. Alexander Cherepanov, Soviet acting deputy chairman of the Allied Control Commission for Bulgaria, by Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, American representative on the commission.

A similar letter was sent to General Cherepanov by the British member of the Commission, Col. George Green, the State Department announced.

Petkov, an outspoken anti-Communist leader of the Agrarian Party, was sentenced by a Bulgarian People's Court on charges that he plotted to overthrow the Communist-dominated Bulgarian government.

Courses of Action Outlined

A United Press dispatch from Sofia last night said that Cherepanov is expected to reply to both notes that any Allied interference in the case would be interference with Bulgarian internal affairs.

In that case, it quoted "informed quarters" as saying, Washington and London may approach the Kremlin with the demand that the Big Three foreign ministers investigate the Petkov case as a violation of the Potsdam Agreement.

It also reported that as a last resort, the United States and Britain might refuse to recognize the Bulgarian government or accept the peace treaty with that former German satellite, keeping it in the status of an occupied former enemy state.

Petkov was first arrested June 6. The next day the American political representative in Bulgaria appealed on Petkov's behalf to the Bulgarian Prime Minister.

The Prime Minister told him, according to the State Department, "that intervention by foreign countries in Petkov's behalf would only arouse the suspicion that Petkov had underground connections abroad."

In spite of the fact that Bulgaria, a former enemy state, is operating under direction of the Allied Control Commission, the Prime Minister added that Petkov would be tried by the "sovereign conutry of Bulgaria and not in London or Washington."

"This is not the first time," the State Department said, "the Bulgarian Prime Minister, other

On-the-record approval, but some undercover griping, greeted the Government's first full-scale loyalty probe—launched yesterday.

The investigation, scheduled to touch the lives of at least 200,000 Washingtonians, began at the Civil Service Commission—which will administer the program. Most other agencies hadn't received the necessary forms.

At the CSC, the 25 or more workers fingerprinted in preliminaries to the pending mass investigation, took the interruption in their stride and with little or no fanfare. The only major surface complaints were about sticky ink-stained finger tips.

First of nearly two million workers over the country to be fingerprinted was Mrs. Evelyn Byne, 28, of 5142 11th st. S., Arlington.

Asked to comment on the probe, ordered by the last Congress at a cost of 11 million dollars, employes expressed diverse opinions.

Those asked to give their names indicated overwhelming approval of the investigation. Others, assured that their names would not be used, divided about 50-50 on the inquiry.

Virtually all agreed the probe was directed at Communism.

Here are some of the opinions:

James Henry Brown, jr., 24, of 301 Cedar Lane, Bethesda, an information assistant and former Navy pharmacist's mate, dubbed the probe "necessary" because "all signs indicate there are people in the Government who don't have its best interests at heart."

A CAF-13, whose name was not taken, said he'd, "never run into any evidence of disloyalty in the Government." He added:

"It's pretty much a question of how you define disloyalty."

Earl L. Hennigh, 52, of 2012 O st. nw., an editor, labeled the probe "all right if there are subversive elements in the Government—but I didn't think there were any."

A 20-year-old secretary told the interviewer:

"Naturally I think it's a good

Ireland, Portugal And Transjordan Are Blackballed

Lake Success, Aug. 18 (AP).—The Soviet Union cast its twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth vetoes in the Security Council late today to reject applications from Ireland, Portugal and Transjordan for membership in the United Nations.

The council also rejected Soviet-supported Albania and Outer Mongolia.

It then voted unanimously to recommend the admission of the Arab kingdom of Yemen and the new dominion of Pakistan. The two Moslem states will become the 56th and 57th members when given routine sanction by the General Assembly meeting in New York September 16.

Call Emergency Session

The council called an emergency session for tomorrow morning on the Indonesian question after Russia insisted in an implied slap at the United States that speedy action was imperative to thwart "diplomatic pressure."

Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko said the situation was serious not only because fighting had broken out anew but because pressures were being exerted to force the Indonesians to accept decisions "by-passing the Security Council."

Australian Delegate Col. W. R. Hodgson also appealed for speed.

May Withdraw Offer

[In Washington, Netherlands Ambassador Eelco van Kleffens tonight strongly reiterated his government's contention that the Security Council has no jurisdiction in the Dutch-Indonesian dispute, the United Press said.

[After an extraordinary 45-minute conference with Acting Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett, however, van Kleffens indicated the Dutch are still willing to accept the United States' offer of its "good offices" to mediate the dispute.

[The Indonesian government has also accepted the United States offer—but with reservations. There were indications the offer may be withdrawn unless the Indonesian reservations were removed.]

D. C. Enjoys Coolest Day Since Aug. 1

Mercury Hits 79 As Breeze Fans City but Midwest Heat Moves Near

Washington enjoyed its coolest day since August 1 yesterday with a high temperature of only 79 degrees at 4.24 p. m.

Fanned by a 10-mile breeze with cooling clouds overhead, the Capital stood in comfortable contrast to 98-degree weather reported in Chicago and other Midwestern cities during the day.

A rewarming, however, is expected today, with the mercury climbing back into the 80s.

Heat Moves East

The new Midwest heat wave, extending yesterday from Kansas and Nebraska to Michigan and Ohio, may start affecting weather here by tomorrow, the forecaster said.

The heat movement was gradually working its way eastward, but the Weather Bureau expected ocean winds along the East Coast to hold off its full effect until Thursday or Friday.

Corn Futures Rise

With danger of additional damage to corn crops as a result of the new heat wave, corn futures on the Chicago Board of Trade jumped yesterday the full 8-cent trading limit. Prices dropped, however, during the day, from profit-taking.

September corn sold for a top of $2.41⅛ a bushel. The all-time high is $2.42¾. The closing price yesterday was $2.38½ to $2.39 a bushel.

The Weather Bureau saw no sign of general rain for the area.

Driver Who Sped Beside Annapolis Death Car Sought

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—Anne Arundel County Police tonight continued their search for the driver of a car reported speeding along a West Annapolis street this morning alongside the automobile in which Quinten J. McDonald, 26, of Baltimore, plunged to his death.

McDonald's body was found in shallow water of Weems Creek at the bottom of a 100-foot embankment. Police said his car roared between two iron posts at the end of Annapolis St. in the early morning darkness today.

Police and firemen dragged the water for several hours this morning in search for other possible passengers. They found nothing but broken parts of McDonald's wrecked car.

Mrs. Edward Suit, who lives nearby, told authorities she had seen two autos speeding along the dead-end street. The second turned around and raced away, she said, after McDonald's sedan hurtled off the bank.

3 Md. Candidates Expended $16,000

By The Associated Press

The three candidates for last month's special election in the Third Congressional District of Maryland spent a total of $16,000 on their campaigns, reports on file with the clerk of the House of Representatives showed today.

Winner of the election to replace Thomas D'Alesandro, who resigned to become mayor of Baltimore, Edward A. Garmatz, reported costs of $8500.27. The regular Democratic candidate, Garmatz was opposed by Simon P. Jarosinski, an independent, and Edwin S. Pannetti, Republican.

Jarosinski reported expenditures of $4435.93 and Panetti $3150.59.

Only a Bridal Gown

Princess Elizabeth Forgoes Trousseau Due to 'Conditions'

London, Aug. 18 (AP).—Princess Elizabeth, cast by her country's troubles in the role of a "poor little rich girl," has been denied the heart's desire of every bride-to-be—a new trousseau.

In accord with the wishes of King George and Queen Elizabeth, and "owing to present-day conditions," Buckingham Palace announced tonight, the princess will go on her honeymoon without a single new traveling outfit, pair of bedroom slippers or frothy negligee.

The only "something new" when she marries Lieut. Philip Mountbatten in Westminster Abbey next November 20 will be her wedding dress, a Norman Hartnell creation which the princess selected from several designs with the counsel of her fiance.

Money No Object

It's not a question of money—Elizabeth gets $2000 a month allowance and has the prospect of much more when she marries—but of the clothing shortage. Dresses, shoes, stockings—practically everything—are strictly rationed. With some exceptions, the ruling against the princess appeared to disappoint Londoners.

"I can see their majesties' point—they want the princess to get along like everybody else, but it's a little rough on her, don't you think?" asked a middle-aged married woman. "She's sort of being punished in this way simply because she is an heiress to the throne."

An unmarried—but hopeful—stenographer viewed the situation as "outrageous," saying: "When I get married you can be sure I'll have a proper trousseau, and I don't see why the princess shouldn't. My parents would give up their clothing coupons for their daughter. Wouldn't the King and Queen?"

Fashion Writers Glum

Actually the Board of Trade has promised Elizabeth all the coupons she needs, and London fashion designers have been designing all sorts of honeymoon garments.

Fashion writers shared the general disappointment.

Hartnell's wedding gown design was as closely guarded as a state secret, and seemed likely to remain so until the eve of the wedding, lest competitors copy it.

Today's Evening News—admitting it was just guessing—said it probably would be of fine slipper satin: "A very full skirt, a tight-fitting bodice with long sleeves and a heart-shaped or square neck."

As usual, nobody gave so much as a passing thought as to what the bridegroom would wear.

Law Ends All Exceptions

New Nonresident Students Must Pay D. C. Tuition Fees

By Alfred E. Lewis
Post Reporter

The Board of Education has been advised by Corporation Counsel Vernon West that all nonresident students attending District of Columbia schools will have to pay tuition fees if they were not enrolled before July 25.

The ruling came at the request of Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning because of a limitation placed in the 1948 District of Columbia Appropriations Act by Congress.

There were 3000 students attending District schools from neighboring areas in Maryland and Virginia. Many of these students had been exempt from the tuition fee because of the exceptions to the law as it had applied in the past.

Previously nonresident students whose parents were employed in the District or Federal Government or were in the Armed Services were allowed to attend school free.

One other exception to the law was that any student or parent of a student who paid a real estate tax in the District, could be credited with the amount of that tax on his tuition charge.

The Board of Education has not yet decided what the tuition fees will be, but a committee composed of a member of the D. C. Auditing Department, a member of the District Budget Bureau and a member of the Board of Education will meet September 8 to determine the fees.

British Explain Flight Of American Billions As Conference Opens

Reason for Cabinet Meeting?

U. S. Is Reported Inquisitive On How Britain Spent Loan

London, Aug. 18 (U.P.).—Well-informed sources believed tonight that the cabinet rushed back from vacation yesterday to prepare new instructions for the British financial delegation in Washington because it had heard that the United States would "get tough" about what became of the $3,750,000,000 American loan.

Advices to the government were said to have been that the United States had taken some stock in the charge of Winston Churchill that the Labor Party had "frittered away" the loan until all but $850,000,000 has been spent in a year.

The United States, informed sources said, wanted details so it could make up its own mind about how the money was used. The cabinet was believed to have given new instructions to Sir Wilfred Eady, head of the mission, about how far he could go in telling the true state of Britain's plight.

Reports circulated that the Labor government was considering calling for a general election in November.

[Unverified reports of a forthcoming "high level" British-American confrence on Britain's dollar crisis circulated in Government circles today, the Associated Press reported.

[The London Evening News said such a conference was expected as the outcome of new instructions sent to the British treasury mission in Washington.

[One official source said he believed Sunday's cabinet meeting was called to consider an important message from the United States government on the dollar question. He did not appear surprised by the published prediction of a "high level" conference.

Easing of Loan Terms Ignored While England Reviews Crisis

By The Associated Press

The Anglo-American conference on England's dollar crisis opened yesterday with a British explanation of why her $3,750,000,000 loan already is more than three fourths exhausted.

A brief Treasury Department statement at the close of the initial 90-minute session made only glancing reference to the acknowledged theme of the negotiations—the possible easing of British obligations under the loan agreement—but it declared:

"The British officials sketched, in general, the economic developments of the British since the signing of the loan agreement."

This tallied with preconference reports that Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, chief American negotiator, wanted an accounting for Britain's spending of the borrowed dollars as well as a blueprint of future economic policies, before talking about any concessions.

Facts Well Known

Sir Wilfrid Eady, chief of the London delegation, did not disclose the nature of his remarks inside the conference room. He spoke for perhaps half an hour after Snyder called on him for a statement of the British situation. The facts he presented, an official said, were "pretty well known" to the American side of the table.

The Briton, it was said, gave no clew to the type of relief which England is seeking. The delegates on both sides, it appeared, are not planning to get down to brass tacks until technical discussions are held on such problems as England's lagging export trade, the slowness of her production rise and such plans as may be in mind for balancing her budget.

The Treasury statement said:

"The conference between British and United States officials opened today at 3 p. m. in the National Advisory Council room of the Treasury Department to discuss such British economic conditions as affect the Anglo-American loan agreement."

Martin Sits In

Then followed a list of the negotiators who gathered about a T-shaped table in the modest conference chamber. The statement continued:

"The initial meeting was of a procedural or organizational character. Arrangements for technical discussions were made.

"The British officials sketched, in general, the economic developments of the British since the signing of the loan agreement.

"Further discussions are scheduled for tomorrow afternoon."

Acting Secretary of State Robert Lovett turned up unexpectedly to welcome the British delegates. Export-Import Bank President William McChesney Martin, jr., interrupted his vacation to sit in.

Other American officials at the meeting were M. S. Szymczak, a governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and David Bruce, Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

Several of the British delegates, who arrived only last night by plane, were absent. Members of the United Kingdom treasury delegation in Washington filled vacant places.

It was understood that Snyder would delve into Britain's plans for boosting production and exports, and possibly—though American officials refused to discuss the point—into the soundness of Britain's policies for nationalizing basic industry.

One big question—whether Eng-

U. S. Proposal For Defense Is Supported

Cuban Favors Ban On Veto of Action Against Aggressor

By R. H. Shackford

Petropolis, Brazil, Aug. 18 (U.P.).—Two of the Western Hemisphere's leading statesmen wholeheartedly indorsed today the United States proposal that the inter-American defense treaty contain no veto over collective action against an aggressor.

Alberto Lleras Camargo, new director general of the Pan-American Union, and Guillermo Belt, Cuban, Ambassador to Washington, gave vigorous approval to the proposal by Secretary of State George C. Marshall that all American republics be bound—short of providing actual armed forces—by a two-thirds vote.

Lleras Camargo, 38-year-old former president of Colombia, said to the Inter-American Conference on Peace and Security:

"Here in Petropolis we must give shape to a security system devoid of the danger of the veto . . . and must accept the democratic criterion of the majority."

Bolivia Injects Economics

"The treaty which the Americans are framing here must be clear and precise and must be without escape clauses," Belt said in indorsing the Marshall proposal.

Belt and Luis F. Guschallo of Bolivia both raised the question of Western Hemisphere economic relations which the United States wants to keep out of this purely defense conference.

Belt spoke vigorously in support of Cuba's demand that the defense treaty contain a specific provision for protection against economic aggression by one nation against another—including one American nation against another.

"To consider a security and defense treaty here without considering economic aggression would be equivalent to trying to draft a world-wide disarmament treaty without considering atomic energy," he said.

Negotiations to conclude a peace treaty with Japan will not be delayed by the crash of the airplane returning Ambassador George Atcheson from the Orient, a State Department spokesman said yesterday.

This spokesman said Atcheson was not in possession of papers or other information which is unavailable to the State Department. He was being returned here for consultations with officials who will represent the United States in the peace negotiations.

He had been recalled, it was explained, because he was the logical man, with his intimate knowledge of Eastern affairs and his close acquaintance with General MacArthur, to assist in preparations for the peace conference.

A department spokesman added that William J. Sebald of Baltimore was next in line as possible successor to Atcheson on the Allied Control Council for Japan. A 1922 graduate of the Naval Academy, Sebald is now on Atcheson's staff.

Both Sides Claim Victory in Battles Outside Asuncion

Buenos Aires, Aug. 18 (AP).—Victory claims in the battle for Asuncion were put forth by both sides today in the Paraguayan civil war.

A government communique from the Paraguayan capital declared Loyalist troops were "advancing in all sectors in tenacious pursuit of the rebels, who are fleeing in complete disorder.

A broadcast rebel communique said their forces had taken the river port of Viletta, 18 miles south of Asuncion, thus completing the siege of the capital.

At Source of Aggression

U. S. Must Be Ready to Launch Air Offensive, Survey Says

The United States must always be ready to launch an air offensive "which will cripple any aggression at its source," according to a survey of aviation made public at the White House yesterday.

The survey was conducted by President Truman's Air Coordinating Committee, made up of Government officials and headed by Assistant Secretary of State Garrison Norton. It embraced both civil aviation and military aviation.

The committee, like others before it, upheld the policy of competition among United States airlines in the foreign field, and rejected the idea of a "chosen instrument" or community company to represent this Nation in international flying.

This issue was at the forefront of the recent investigation of Howard Hughes by a Senate committee. Hughes charged that Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) offered to call off the investigation if he would merge Transcontinental and Western Air with Pan American Airways. Brewster, avowed advocate of a merger of American foreign air lines, denied that he ever made such a proposition to Hughes.

The Air Coordinating Committee recommended to President Truman that aircraft plants in the United States be dispersed and urged that pilot "underground plants" be established.

The committee assumed that any future attack on the United States would be "delivered suddenly and with great force."

"The United States," it said, "should maintain military power sufficient in size and efficiency to make it unprofitable for another nation to embark upon a campaign of aggression against this country. This Nation's experience has dem-spokesmen of the Bulgarian government in the Bulgarian Parliament, the official Bulgarian press, and even Bulgarian prosecutors, in bringing charges of treason against other but lesser leaders in the struggle for the defense of political rights in Bulgaria, have insinuated subversive motives on the part of the United States Government."

U. S., Britain Urge Russia To Save Petkov From Death

In his letter to General Cherepanov yesterday, General Robertson declared this country "is concerned to prevent what, on the basis of the information thus far available, appears to be a gross miscarriage of justice.

Repercussions Feared

"Apart from the fact that Petkov was a signatory of the Armistice Agreement, this development is a matter of serious concern to the Allied Control Commission," the letter added.

"The trial of Petkov and the sentence of death passed upon him may well have repercussions on peace and order in this country for which the Allied Control Commission has a specific responsibility."

General Robertson urged an immediate reply from the Soviet officer. He also urged that if a special meeting of the commission should be necessary that he "arrange this at the earliest possible moment."

Petkov was an outspoken leader of opposition to the pro-Fascist government of Bulgaria during the war. After a long period of work with the pro-Allied underground, he was arrested and placed in a concentration camp.

After the liberation of Bulgaria, he headed the deputation to Moscow that signed the armistice.

Opposed Red Domination

As leader of the Agrarian Party, he joined in setting up the Fatherland Front, based on principles which, to use the terms of a State Department official, the "Russians claim to support."

However, in September, 1945, he quit the Fatherland Front, declaring it to be under complete domination of the Communists.

Long a friend of democratic institutions, he is listed as one of this country's best friends among Balkan politicians. Recently the State Department issued the following statement regarding him, shortly after his arrest:

"Mr. Petkov was a legally elected member of the Bulgarian Parliament. He has been head of the Agrarian Party and a leader of the opposition to the Bulgarian Parliament.

"His leadership of the Bulgarian opposition has evoked deep sympathy in the United States because he has openly fought for acceptance and perpetuation of civil liberties in his own country—principles that were agreed to at Yalta, that underlie the terms of the armistice with Bulgaria, and that Article II of the peace treaty signed with Bulgaria was designed to protect and assure.

"One of the foundations upon which democratic parliamentary institutions rest is the recognition and acceptance of a legal opposition. Mr. Petkov, who has fearlessly represented such an opposition, has now been denied the privileges and immunities which attach to that parliamentary position, and has been arbitrarily arrested by the organs of the governmental authority which he has lawfully opposed."

Petkov was referred to by Maynard Barnes, former Minister to Bulgaria, as an outstanding liberal, and one of this country's best friends in the Balkans.

On the Street of Liberation in Sofia, he said, one of two statues that mark the thoroughfare is that raised to Petkov's brother, who, with his father, was assassinated in 1923.

Barnes termed him "the most liberal" of Bulgarian leaders.

"He was the man who destroyed the old regime," Barnes remarked. "That's what makes this action so blatant."

Experts Confer on Britain's Dollar Crisis

land would ask for a new loan—was ruled out by both sides before Sir Wilfrid Eady and Snyder led the score of financial experts into the plainly furnished conference room.

Sir Wilfrid said a new loan "is not on the agenda." And American officials declared privately that any future British credit would have to be linked with the Marshall Plan for continent-wide European economic reconstruction.

The initial session was devoted to mapping the procedure for the talks.

A Late Arrival

On the eve of the meeting, the British cabinet held a hurriedly summoned Sunday session in London. Immediately afterward Sir Cameron F. Cobbold, deputy governor of the Bank of England, caught a plane for Washington to join the negotiations.

The incident created speculation whether Sir Cameron carried new instructions from Prime Minister Attlee's government leaders. But some of the British delegates shrugged off this idea with the explanation that Cobbold had been in southern France and was simply late in taking off.

Sir Wilfred, special assistant to Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton, conferred briefly with Snyder in the Secretary's office, laying out a program in advance of the opening meeting.

Previously, he had told newsmen he was ready to "discuss how it happened" that all but 850 million dollars of the 3750-million-dollar loan has been drawn. He forecast betterment of Britain's economic distress in a matter of months—and "then you will see that we have been a good investment."

"Convertibility" Blamed

The hottest issue of the conference may be the "convertibility" clause. Since July 15, Britain has been obliged by the loan agreement to exchange pounds for dollars when any country trading with England asks that its trade balance be paid off in dollars. The "convertibility" clause is blamed in part for Britain's heavy withdrawals in recent weeks on the loan. Treasury men now predict that the whole sum will be exhausted by October—instead of next June—if drawing continues at the current rate.

The question to be solved is: Can the convertibility clause be suspended temporarily without the approval of Congress? The loan agreement provided that the July 15 deadline might be delayed by mutual agreement but, now that the deadline has passed, it is uncertain whether the exchange arrangement can be dropped.

The British negotiators also are expected to seek permission to increase Britain's imports from her dominions, which could be paid foreign pounds, at the expense of purchases from the United States, which require dollars. American officials are reported "sympathetic" onthis point.

For Less Crowded Schools

Board of Education officials said that certain sschools would be designated for out-of-town students in areas where the schools are less crowded.

The limitation placed in the 1948 Appropriations Act reads as follows:

"No part of the appropriations herein made for the public schools of the District of Columbia shall be used for the free instruction of pupils who dwell outside of the District of Columbia: Provided, That this limitation shall not apply to pupils who are enrolled in the District of Columbia on the date of approval of this act."

West in rendering his opinion also construed the act to mean that taxes paid by any pupil or his parents may be credited on their tuition fee if the pupils were enrolled on or prior to July 25, the date of approval of the act.

treaty for mutual defense of the hemisphere, the Associated Press said.

[The American plan called for discussions on the "creation of a military agency and supply of forces," and included a proposal for broadening the discussion of armed attacks to include "other acts and threats of aggression."

[Senator Tom Connally (D., Tex.), member of the U. S. delegation, submitted the American proposal to the committee on principles, preamble and "other dispositions" soon after the leading conference committees elected officers.]

Carlos Morales, Venezuela, and Ernesto Alfonso Nunez, Salvador, pledged their countries' full cooperation in writing a treaty.

Marshall to Confer

Morales said that Venezuela desired that the questions of aggression by any nation outside the hemisphere against one in it, should be dealt with separately.

Bolivian Delegate Guachalla said that it was urgent that the American republics study the economic situation, "the prime need for the life of the inter-American system," and that if possible the study should be made before the Bogota Pan-American conference set for next January. The economic problem is on the program for that conference.

General Marshall continued to be the central figure of the conference. Next to him, perhaps, is Argentine Foreign Minister Juan D. Bramuglia.

Despite recent events there was every indication that the United States and Argentine delegations wanted to work together and an Argentine delegate said tonight that Bramuglia would confer with Marshall at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Marshall conferred this evening with Foreign Minister Jaime Torres Bodat of Mexico, starting a series of talks with chief delegates.

a year that Gromyko had invoked the special big power privilege in the council to upset majority votes on the admission of the three nations.

Poland joined Russia in opposing Portugal but abstained on Ireland and Transjordan. The other nine of the 11 council members supported the three.

The United States and Britain opposed both Albania and Outer Mongolia but the veto did not apply in this case because neither mustered the seven affirmative votes required for approval. Both were supported only by Russia, Poland and Syria.

Reject Russian Demand

The delegates then rejected a Russian demand for postponement of applications from Austria, Italy, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria on the grounds that the peace treaties had not been ratified. They will be taken up Thursday.

Gromyko said he opposed Portugal and Ireland because they did not have relations with Moscow and did not aid the Allies in the war. He objected to Transjordan because he questioned its "independence" in view of its former status as a British mandate.

Opposition to Albania centered on the Corfu Channel incident, where two British warships were blown up last spring, and Albania's failure to cooperate in investigating Balkan disorders.

Most U. N. Delegates Think Soviet Will Stick

New York, Aug. 18 (U.P.).—A poll of 60 United Nations delegates and high officials revealed today that 58 believe the Soviet Union has no intention of pulling out of the U. N. and 54 think it is "absolute nonsense to assume this U. N. is finished."

The poll, taken by the magazine United Nations World, showed that 24 diplomats are optimistic about the future or world cooperation, 12 are deeply pessimistic and six think the present impasse will lead to war. The remaining 18 think it's too soon to tell.

N. J. Standard To 'Hold Line' On Oil Prices

Local officials of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey said yesterday the company had not raised gasoline and oil prices here, and would continue to "hold the line."

While four other companies have increased the wholesale price of gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil a half cent a gallon in this area since August 8, the Standard company said it considered price boosts at this time "not in the best interests of either the oil industry or the public."

C. A. Newland, division manager for the District of Columbia, Maryland and Delaware, and E. T. Lemmon, division manager for Virginia, cited a July 24 policy announcement of Standard Oil that the company was not increasing prices unless such increases should tend to maintain or bring out additional supplies." Retail prices of gasoline are set by the service stations, however, they pointed out.

Companies which have increased prices during the past two weeks are Gulf Refining Co., Sinclair Oil Co., Independent Oil Co. (Cities Service products), and Socony-Vacuum Oil Co.

Canned Sympathy

Norman, Okla. (U.P.).—Garner Collums, director of housing for University of Oklahoma students, has had a card printed to help soothe troubled visitors to his office. It says: "Your story has touched my heart. Never before have I met anyone with more troubles than you have. Please accept this token of my sincere sympathy." Ex-GI's and others with housing problems feel better when they read the cards, Collums said.

cancel all these arrangements and open up the color movie field to all companies.

Profits Reported Double

Ben Cook of the United Press reported, from Hollywood that a survey showed that Technicolor will make 52 of 77 color features being produced this year.

Technicolor made 26 of the 49 color features last season. Other color processes used in the movies are Trucolor, which is controlled by Republic Pictures, Corp.; and Cinecolor.

Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, president and general manager of the Technicolor companies, said recently that business in the first half of 1947 was the best in history, and that profits were twice those for the same period last year. The firms reported sales of 13 million dollars, and profits of half a million, in 1946.

Besides its Hollywood plant, Technicolor has a plant in London.

Rubber Companies Will Fight Charges

E. J. Thomas, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, said in Akron, Ohio, last night that his company will "fight to the limit" price-fixing charges made by the Government today.

At the same time, Col. J. L. Cochrun, vice president of the Seiberling Rubber Company, who was named as a defendast by the Government, said "We strongly believe there is no justification for the charges."

"We are totally amazed that the Government has taken such action against the rubber industry," Thomas said in a written statement.

Thomas cited the rubber industry's parisg of the tire and tube prices to "below the 1939 level" and its war record in the use of synthetic rubber "after the enemy had seized the source of 90 per cent of our natural rubber."

He added:

"Ask any tire consumer if he thinks he has been gouged. We certainly are going to fight these charges to the limit."

William O'Neill, president of the General Tire and Rubber Co., said the Justice Department charges "just didn't make sense."

"The rubber tire industry is one of the few in the country which, despite constantly increasing costs, has not advanced prices," O'Neill said. "On the basis of present living costs as compared to 1941, the price of tires is down about 54 per cent. Tires are selling cheaper in the United States than anywhere else in the world, namely 2.4 per cent below their prewar level."

O'Neill said it seemed strange to him that the Justice Department fired "only verbal guns" at industries which are raising prices, but "files criminal charges at one of the few industries cooperating wholeheartedly with the President's fight against inflation."

onstrated concretely that peace will not be furthered by neglect of strength or lack of foresight or alertness. Those who contemplate aggression find encouragement in such neglect. Germany and Japan relied heavily upon it.

"Since control of the air . . . is a prerequisite to the success of military operations, the United States should maintain . . . aviation forces . . . sufficient in strength and effectiveness to launch an air offensive which will cripple any aggression at its source.

"Ability to control the air and to exploit that control by air power which include the military air strength, the manufacturing industry, air transport, and reserves of trained personnel and equipment."

Discussing the question of competition of American airlines in the foreign field, the committee said:

"Competition offers the greatest stimulus to development by the United States of new operating techniques and equipment, and the only means of keeping from the hands of one small management group the power to interfere in policies of great national interest.

The Air Coordinating Committee, headed by Assistant Secretary of State Norton, includes James M. Landis, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board; John N. Brown, Assistant Secretary of the Navy; William C. Foster, Undersecretary of Commerce; W. Stuart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War for Air; John J. Gillen, Second Assistant Postmaster General, and J. Weldon Jones, Assistant Director of the Bureau of the Budget.

President Truman transmitted the committee's report to the temporary Air Policy Committee, a group of private citizens appointed by him on July 18 to assist in formulating a National policy on aviation. Its members are:

Thomas K. Finletter of New York, chairman; George P. Baker, Cambridge, Mass., vice chairman; Palmer Hoyt, Denver, Colo.; Henry Ford 2d, Detroit, Mich., and Arthur D. Whiteside of New York.

Soft Coal Owners Charge Wildcat Strikes Increase

Soft coal operators said yestetrday wildcat strikes had increased under the "able and willing to work" clause of their contract with the United Mine Workers.

They said they have asked UMW Chief John L. Lewis to stop them. While an answer has not yet been received from Lewis, who is out of town, operators said district and local UMW officials have so far cooperated fully in bringing the work stoppages to an end.

The "able and willinng to work" clause is organized labor's model for avoiding damage and penalty suits under the Taft-Hartley Labor Law. It provides that agreement shall cover "persons employed in the bituminous mines during such time as such persons are able and willing to work."

Lewis forced the operators to include the clause in his new contract signed July 8.

Since then, one producer said, there were 17 strikes in 50 mines in his area in six weeks.

Dutch Urged To Capture Jogjakarta

Batavia, Java, Aug. 18 (AP).—An official Dutch spokesman said today a group of Netherlands East Indies officials had recommended privately to The Hague government that the Dutch capture Jogjakarta in order to ease the "intolerable" situation caused by nonobservance of the U.N. cease-fire order.

He did not name the officials, but said Dutch military and civil opinion favored a drive on the capital of the Indonesian republic.

(A dispatch from The Hague said the Dutch cabinet met in extraordinary session to discuss what authoritative informants described as the "alarming and critical situation" in Indonesia, and the international position of the Netherlands in connection with possible new steps by the U.N. Security Council.

Cabinet Disagreement Hinted

(Some reports indicated disagreement within the cabinet and said a crisis was possible. Prof. C. P. M. Romme, Catholic Party leader, urged the government to leave the Council because the Indonesians were admitted to the discussions. The Labor Party, copartner with the Catholics in the coalition cabinet, opposed such a move.)

The latest communiques from Indonesian and Dutch military headquarters made no mention of a drive on Jogjakarta.

The Indonesian bulletin said the Dutch were applying new pressure on the northern and western approaches to western Java, while the Dutch reported an Indonesian force broke into the Madoera Island capitol of Pamekasan yesterday, and were driven off after fierce street fighting.

Dutch Admit Casualties

The Dutch attacked Poering, on the south Java coast 62 miles west of Jogjakarta, and launched local attacks against six north central front villages between Salatiga and Ambarawa, about 37 miles north of Jogjakarta, the Indonesian communique said.

The Dutch admitted they suffered heavy casualties at Pamakasan. The Dutch said they lost 13 killed and 23 wounded in battles with the Indonesians yesterday.

Semiofficial Dutch dispatches from Dedan, in northern Sumatra, said from 4000 to 5000 Chinese had been burned out of their homes by Indonesian troops, and were isolated without food or shelter amid tombs of a graveyard at Pangalanbrandan, a short distance up the coastline north of Medan.

Dominica Asks Cuban Search For 'Invaders'

Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, August 18 (U.P.).—The Dominican government asked today that an international commission investigate its charge that armed Communists plan to invade the republic from Cuba. It was assumed the request will be brought before the Inter-American Conference in Petropolis.

President Rafael Leonidas Trujillo urged "some American governments"—none was specifically named—"to persuade Cuba to accept such an investigation before the situation explodes into "a war of great and serious proportions between Cuba and the Dominican Republic."

President Trujillo reiterated his charge that Cuba is serving as a training base for an international brigade, built around Communist veterans of the Spanish civil war, which is preparing for aggression.

The government based its request for an investigative commission on the allegation Cuba had failed to fulfill a pledge to look into the matter.

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 18 (U.P.)—President Ramon Grau San Martin said today he had "no comment" on the Dominican government statement.

Ruben de Leon, president of the House of Representatives, said the Dominican government was laboring under "a grave error" if it believed the Cuban government gave even indirect cooperation to the opponents here of President Trujillo.

Dry Ice Dropped By Aviator; Rain Falls on Richmond

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—Flying Instructor Brock Minor went up on a rainmaking flight today and landed just in time to get dampened by Richmond's first shower in two weeks.

But he made no claims beyond pointing to the pounding droplets with the remark:

"That's rain, isn't it?"

Minor's effort today was his second attempt. He scattered 50 pounds of crumbled dry ice into an enticing cumulus cloud at 8400 feet this afternoon and—coincidence or not—rain came down.

His first try yesterday failed when the ice solidified into one block again in the thin cold upper reaches.

He had the plane well heated for the rain run today.

Navy Loses Skirmish

Faulty Engine Is Blamed For Atcheson Plane Tragedy

By Ray Coll, Jr.

Honolulu, Aug. 18 (INS).—A faulty engine was blamed today for the tragic ocean crash of an Army bomber in which Ambassador George Atcheson, jr., and nine other persons perished in shark-infested waters a scant 47 miles west of Oahu Island.

Capt. T. L. Ryder, one of three survivors and navigator of the ill-starred B-17, said he was convinced tht an engine installed at Guam consumed an excessive amount of 3190 gallons of fuel after the plane left Kwajalein Island.

From his Pearl Harbor hospital bed the navigator also revealed that the plane came down for a "ditch" landing only 47 miles off Oahu instead of 75 miles as was reported previously.

Names of Dead Announced

[The Army officially announced the names of the dead, besides Atchseon, the United Press said. They included.

[(Bodies recovered) Col. C. A. Russell, Col. David Larr, Navy Capt. R. G. Boyer, Staff Sergt. K. L. Harrison, Tech. Sergt. O. F. McKee.

[(Missing and presumed dead) Pilot Capt. K. R. Still, Copilots Lieut. V. E. Carley, Captain Sigman (no first name available), Crew Chief Tech. Sergt. L. V. Bonesh.

[A fleet of air and surface units continued to scour the area around the crash, hoping against hope to find bodies.

[Surface vessels were ordered to keep a sharp eye on debris in hopes that diplomatic and state documents being carried to the capital by Atcheson and other officials could be recovered.]

Ryder, whose home is in Ponca City, Okla., and who is a veteran flier in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's squadron of headquarters planes in Tokyo, appeared rested and fresh after his ordeal.

Gas Shortage Reported

Ryder said the pilot of the plane, Capt. K. R. Still, came to his compartment about 30 minutes before the crash and asked him a few questions. Ryder continued:

"Then he asked me how far we were from Hickam Field, and also how far from the Barking Sands Field on the Island of Kauai, 90 mile north of Oahu.

"I told him we were about 92 miles from Hickam and said it would take us 50 to 55 minutes to reach the field.

"He told me we were low on gas, and I asked him how much we had left.

"He said about 31 gallons.

"This was very surprising as I had figured we had enough on board when we left Kwajalein for 15 hours' cruising.

"I expressed the opinion that the gas gauge might be faulty, and Ryder said he thought so, too.

"Still then decided to continue on to Hickam because he was more familiar with that field than he was with the barking sands field on Kauai.

No. 1 Engine Goes Out

"Northwards of Oahu, a short time later, our No. 1 engine conked out.

"This was the same one that had been changed at Guam the day before.

"Meanwhile, still had been contacting Hickah Field and getting his position.

"He also informed the field of Hiu apparent gas shortage.

"Just then another engine went out and our flight engineer was kept busy transferring what remaining gas there was from the spare tanks, but the other engines began going out, too.

"Still ordered me to prepare the passengers for either bailing out or for a ditching. Later he said he was going to ditch the plane."

"I asked Still how the passengers were taking it, particularly Ambassador Atcheson and he told me 'fine.'

Life Jackets Readied

"Crew members examined the Mae West jackets of the passengers. Mr. Atcheson's was not fixed according to regulation but that was takeen care of immediately.

"He was very cool, and remarked calmly that the accident couldn't be helped. His coat, hat and necktie were on the back of his seat.

"Just before we went down, I opened the top escape hatch, then went back to where Mr. Acheson was sitting and sat on the floor beside him and told him I was sorry it had to happen this way.

"The radio operator, sitting in front of me seemed agitated, and I quieted him down.

"Just then the lights went out, and we were losing altitude rapidly.

"Captain Still set the plane down tail first according to ditching procedure.

"One wing, however, struck with terrific force against a wave, causing the plane to do a cartwheel. Evidently the plane broke up in several sections.

"I don't remember anything after that until I came to in the water.

"I had a broken arm.

"There were three others with me, including the radio operator, Col. Harvey Huglin (Fairfield, Ia.) and Sergt. Lee C. Holland (of Comesneil, Tex.). Holland had a hole in his head.

"The radio operator started strangling and broke away from us. We clung to a gas tank and a piece of wing tip throughout the night.

"The three of us stuck close together until we were rescued in the morning by a destroyer."

Loyalty Check Launched Here

idea. You hear so much about communism in this country that you begin to wonder."

Contending there are "many people in Government who haven't had the type of investigation they used to give Government people," Mrs. Opal Reynolds, of 1126 11th st. nw., a mail reader, expressed the view the probe might uncover "a few things they didn't know about."

A position classifier, who felt the "majority" of Federal workers were "completely loyal," claimed the "great danger in this loyalty check is that it may develop into a witch hunt." She said Fascist as well as Communist leanings should be considered.

Another position classifier described the loyalty probe as a "good idea in general" but said "I do wish they had defined what constitutes disloyalty in a more specific manner."

He also urged a "definite appeal procedure in the courts."

Carol Constantino, 22, of 1118 Allison st. nw., a personnel clerk, who helped fingerprint the first batch of workers, commented:

"I think it's a good thing. It's one way to spot Communists—but not a sure way."

Some 1,900,000 Government employes will undergo the loyalty test, which includes fingerprinting and the disclosure of affiliations in all except political or religious organizations.

Any "derogatory" information turned up in the preliminary phase will be handed over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for a full-fledged probe in cases of suspected loyalty.

15 Senators Plan Europe Trip To Study Economic Conditions

By International News Service

Chairman Bridges (R., N. H.), of the Senate Appropriations Committee, announced yesterday that a bi-partisan group of 15 Senators will leave on October 1 for an extensive economic survey and inspection tour in Europe.

Bridges described the purpose of the trip as an effort to ascertain the results of American aid expenditures to date in European countries and "to determine the need of the continued large outlay of United States taxpayers' funds for the stabilization of Europe."

The Senators will sail from New York on the Steamship America, and several may be accompanied by their wives.

The tour will cover Great Britain, France, The Netherlands, Italy, the Balkan countries, Greece, Turkey, and occupied areas of Germany and Austria.

Senators, in addition to Bridges, who plan to make the trip included:

Republicans: Brooks (Ill.), Reed (Kans.), Ferguson (Mich.), Wherry (Nebr.), Cordon (Oreg.), Young (N. Dak.), Knowland (Calif.), and Dworshak (Idaho).

Democrats: McKellar (Tenn.), Thomas (Okla.), Russell (Ga.), McCarran (Nev.), O'Mahoney (Wyo.), and Green (R. I.).

Bridges said that specific subjects to be studied in Europe include:

1. Problems of economic reconstruction, agricultural and industrial recovery and the Marshall Plan.
2. United States aid to Greece and Turkey.
3. Duties and morale of United States military and civilan personnel stationed in occupied zones.
4. The question of displaced persons and immigration problems.
5. State Department offices and activities with particular reference to "Voice of America" broadcasts.
6. The Office of Foreign Liquidation with first - hand inspection of unliquidated surplus material stockpiles.
7. Use of special currency in occupied areas.
8. The Middle East oil situation.

The inquiries to be undertaken by the committee with respect to foreign aid programs will be in addition to those to be conducted during the summer by the special House committee headed by Representative Herter (R., Mass.)

A subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, headed by Senator Smith (R., N. J.), also is going to Europe in September to look into the question of State Department information activities.

Bloc-Voting Proposal Blasted by Va. GOP

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—A proposal to eliminate "solid shot" bloc-voting in Virginia was labeled today by Earle Lutz, executive director of the State Republican Party, as an effort by the Democratic "machine" to "force the voters to accept all Democratic nominees regardless of their qualifications or fitness."

Lutz said the proposal, made yesterday by Delegate Charles H. Phillips, was "in line with the ballot-stifling tactics through which the Democratic machine has perpetuated itself in power since the present constitution was rammed down the throats of the people in 1902."

9 Scouts Hurt In Jamboree Rail Collision

Moisson, France, Aug. 18 (U.P.)—Nine Belgian Boy Scouts were injured, some seriously, when two narrow-gauge trains which operate around the World Jamboree camp site here collided today.

The accident was the first to mar the week-long jamboree of scouts and scout leaders from more than 42 nations for their first international conference since 1939.

The injured scouts were taken to the camp hospital where doctors said "some are seriously injured."

Col. John S. Wilson, head of the International Burau, sadi that the conference would be "important" because so much time has elapsed since the last conference and because the war has raised new problems. The conference will elect a new international committee which will frame the policy by which scouts will be governed throughout the world during the next two years.

[The official closing ceremony in the stadium tonight included a pageant in which 25,000 massed scouts guarded a "world," 10 yards in diameter, from "evil forces," portrayed by another group of scouts, the Associated Press said.

[The Scouts then paraded through an intricate setup of overpasses and underpasses until tthey formed an enormous carrick knot, symbol of the jamboree and chosen for its lasting power as a tie.]

37 Stricken In Delaware Polio Epidemic

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 18 (U.P.)—Thirty-seven cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Delaware today and health officials termed the outbreak "well above" the epidemic stage."

The heaviest concentration was in Wilmington where the park commission ordered five public swimming pools operated by the city closed. Wilmington's YMCA and YWCA immediately closed their pools voluntarily.

Fifteen children striken with the disease are from the Wilmington West End district where police patroled open sewers in the area to prevent youngsters from wading.

Dr. George J. Boines, president of the Wilmington board of health, said the outbreak has reached epidemic proporations. Three cases were reported this morning.

The 37 cases, all but two of them children, are the highest number in the history of the State, Boines said. The previous high was 26 cases in 1944.

Eight new cases have been admitted to hospitals within the last 24 hours. The three admitted today were Barbara Moore, 8; Dorothy Floyd, 6, and Robert Evans, 9.

Idaho Also Hit

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 18 (AP).—Medical resources of Idaho and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis were mobilized tonight to fight an outbreak of the disease which officials say has reached "epidemic proportions" in southwestern Idaho. Twenty-two are ill here.

The malady which has stricken 60 Idaho persons this year compared with 11 in the same period of 1946. Three of the 1947 cases were fatal.

British Arrest Many Zionist 'Revisionists'

Jerusalem, Palestine, Aug. 18 (U.P.)—British troops today arrested scores of Zionist revisionists, a group that is supposed to back Jewish extremists.

The troops blocked off streets and screened several hundred Jews.

The government announced and then denied that four armed Jews had kidnaped two Syrians from a truck near the Jewish colony of Petah Tiqva.

British officials were cautious when asked whether the worst of the Jewish-Arab feud had passed. But, it was said, with fanatical elements being watched by the police, the Arab Najada "army" and the Jewish Haganah "defense army," the future seemed a little more reassuring.

Reliable sources said High Commissioner Sir Alan Cunningham would order the Jewish mayors of Tel Aviv, Nathanya and Ramat-Gan released tomorrow They were arrested about two weeks ago.

Refugees on Hunger Strike

Port de Boug, France, Aug. 18 (U.P.)—More than 4000 Jewish refugees aboard three British transports anchored off here today began a mass hunger strike to protest Britain's refusal to return them to Palestine.

The refugees, who have adamantly rejected all French invitations to rebark since their arrival three weeks ago, returned to the docks all food packages sent by Frenc haid societies. The packages delivered daily supplemented the regular rations provided by the British.

4 Vienna Buildings Guarded On Tip Irgun Planned Blasts

Vienna (Tuesday), Aug. 19 (AP). American security troops stood guard at four buildings in the American zone of Vienna early today as the result of a telephoned tip that Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization, would attempt to blow up the buildings at 12:05 a. m., but at 1 a. m. no sign of any attackers had been seen.

An anonymous call to an Austrian civilian policeman said Irgun members planned to plant explosives in the United States Legation and two power stations in the American zone of the city, and to discharge them at five minutes after midnight.

Notification of military police brought a heavy guard to those buildings and to the home of U. S. Minister John G. Erhardt an hour before the reported deadline.

Operations were directed from military police headquarters opposite one of the threatened power plants.

This was the first terrorist threat against American installations in Austria, although a British army leave train was derailed while passing through the American zone on August 12 and a British officer's hotel billet was damaged by a bomb earlier.

Plyers Mill Rd. Listed by County For Improvement

Plyers Mill rd. is on the Montgomery County road improvement program, members of the Oakland Terrace Citizens Association were told yesterday.

The citizens went on a tour of several roads with County Commissioner Brooke Johns, County Supervisor Irving G. McNayr and County Roads Supervisor J. O. Harvey. Plyers Mill rd. was included in the program at the request of County Commissioner O. W. Youngblood some time ago, McNayr said. The country will patch the bad spots until the surfacing program gets under way.

Other streets inspected were subdivision streets that have not been accepted by the county and a block of Old Bladensburg rd., which the State Roads Commission claims was turned over to the town of Kensington for upkeep, but which the town refuses to accept because of its bad condition.

The entire Board of Montgomery County Commissioners will be requested to authorize repair of the road as a relief to the citizens, it was decided.

Presdent Orders Country-Wide Campaign To Recruit Man-a-Minute for National Guard

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday ordered the National Guard to launch a Nationwide recruiting drive next month aimed at signing up a man a minute.

The first such drive in Guard history calls for recruiting 88,888 men between September 16 and November 16—roughly a man a minute—and boost the defense arm up to its prewar strength of about 200,000 men.

"A strong National Guard is necessary to the security of the United States," said Commander-in-Chief Truman, who began his military service a private in the Missouri National Guard in 1905.

The President declared in a statement that "the new National Guard" must be a "force in being, available for immediate mobilization and service." He emphasized that the objective of recruiting a man a minute during the two-month drive was "only an immediate goal," and added:

"It must be surpassed, and I am confident that it will be surpassed, to the end that the security of the United States may remain inviolate."

Strength of the National Guard on August 1 was 107,711. Mr. Truman declared that the job of rebuilding the Guard from zero a year ago to this total was "a remarkable achievement."

The ultimate goal for the Guard is 682,000. While many top Army leaders declare that this strength cannot be attained without universal military training, Guard recruiters are going on the basis the job can be done without it.

As an inducement for the latter, the President announced that the champion recruiter in each State and Territory will be brought here as the guest of the Secretary of War an dattend the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia. The champion for the District of Columbia also will be a member of the party.

The District National Guard, which now has a strength of 659, has been given a goal of 535 additional men during the two-month contest. Ultimate goal of the local Guard is 4071 officers and men.

Maryland hopes to add at least 1280 men to its strength of 1775. Ultimately it hopes to recruit to 9805 officers and men. The Virginia Guard, now 1921 men strong, aims at adding 1610 men during the drive and, eventually, to attain a strength of 12,302.

Representatives of the States, Territories and the District now are meeting at the War Department, mapping plans for "Operation 88,888"—the recruiting drive.

President Truman previously issued a proclamation designated September 16—seventh anniversary of the mobilization of the Guard during the 1940-41 emergency—as National Guard Day.

Cruiser, 8 Aboard, Found After Night Stalled on Bay

Dundalk, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—A cabin cruiser and its eight passengers, who spent a choppy night on the Chesapeake Bay despite two rescue attempts by the Coast Guard, were found stalled off Sevenfoot Knoll with the cruiser's ignition drowned out. Two of the women passengers were seasick.

The Coast Guard found the 49-foot cruiser about 10:30 a. m., after distress messages had been sent out from a nearby lighthouse.

Until 6:30 p. m. yesterday, said Capt. Samuel Cope, owner of the boat, the group spent a succesful day fishing. Coast Guard officials said they circled the lighthouse three times last night without finding the cruiser.

Governors Meet

And Daughter Injects Hint Of Romance

Santa Monica, Calif., Aug. 18 (AP). Virginia Warren, 18-year-old daughter of California's Governor, said today Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama was flying West for a vacation and she planned to see him, but disclaimed any romance.

Gov. Folsom

"My goodness," she exclaimed, "I've only seen him three times.

Virginia and her mother, Mrs. Earl Warren, said Folsom had telephoned of his plans but had not advised Virginia that he was arriving this afternoon. A police car spent the morning outside the Warrens' summer home, however.

Wired Flowers

Mrs. Warren commented that Folsom, 38-year-old widower and the father of two children, had wired Virginia flowers after they met at a recent Governors' conference in Salt Lake City and he squired her to several social affairs.

The Alabaman is a Democrat while Warren has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the 1948 nomination for President on the Republican ticket.

Governor Folsom, stepping out of his plane, headed quickly for a hotel.

He'll See Warren

"Of course I'll see Governor Warren," he replied to a query.

"Will you marry Virginia?" he was asked.

"No comment."

"Have you proposed?"

"No comment."

"Will you propose?"

"I never comment on affairs of the heart."

He did say, however, that he planned to spend two days in Southern California.

CAB Examiner Against Direct Hawaii Route

By The Associated Press

A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner said today a new direct air route betwen the Pacific Northwest and Hawaii should not be established.

However, the examiner, Warren E. Baker, proposed that the board launch an investigation to determine if the Pacific Northwest "is being subjected to discrimination because of different bases for fares between the cities of Portland and Seattle and Honolulu compared to Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Scheduled flights from the Pacific Northwest cities to Hawaii are now made by way of the California points involving more than 300 mile of additional travel than a direct route to Hawaii.

Examiner Baker also recommended that CAB institute a proceeding to determine whether United Airlines service between the mainland and Hawaii should be amended to provide nonstop flights between the Pacific Northwest and Hawaii, skipping San Francisco.

Baker's report was made after hearing the applications for direct Pacific Northwest-Hawaii service filed by Matson Navigation Co. which now provides such flights on a nonscheduled charter basis and by Northwest Airlines, Pan American Airways and Transocean Airlines.

Their petitions were supported by numerous chambers of commerce in the area which contended that "the present air service pattern between the United States and Hawaii is a discrimination against the Pacific Northwest area.

Tobey-McCarthy Fight Brews Over Chair in Housing Probe

By The Associated Press

A sharp contest over the chairmanship of the new Senate-House Committee preparing to investigate housing shaped up yesterday as the group gathered for its first meeting today.

Most of the backstage pulling and hauling centered around Senator Tobey (R., N. H.), who has a seniority claim on the top post, and Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.), a co-sponsor of the resolution that set up the joint committee for a $100,000 inquiry into the shortage and high prices of homes.

Tobey is understood to have been lining up votes, working from his New Hampshire home, in a move to assure that the chairmanship goes either to himself or to someone other than McCarthy.

Seeks to Bar Tobey

McCarthy, on the other hand, is known to be behind a drive to keep direction of the committee from Tobey's hands. He would like the chairmanship himself, but is willing to let it go to someone else—other than Tobey.

Both Tobey and McCarthy are members of the Senate Banking Committee, from which the seven Senate members of the housing group were selected. Tobey is chairman of the Banking Committee. Seven members of the House Banking Committee make up the rest of the joint housing group.

The chairman of a Senate-House committee usually goes to a Senator.

The rivalry between Tobey and McCarthy dates back to a series of differences during the recent session of Congress. Perhaps the sharpest clashes were on legislation to extend sugar rationing and over the Wagner-Ellender-Taft long-range housing bill.

Voted in Opposition

McCarthy voted against the latter measure in the Banking Committee, while Tobey lined up for it to give supporters a one-vote advantage. The bill, designed to encourage the construction of 15 million new homes over a 10-year period, was not acted upon by the Senate. Tobey, because of the illness of his wife, has not been in Washington since before Congress adjourned. Members of the Housing Committee understood he was planning to fly down from New Hampshire for today's organizational meeting.

McCarthy returned to Washington yesterday from a brief Wisconsin vacation. He declined to comment directly on the Tobey vs. McCarthy situation, but told reporters:

"Frankly, I hope the chairmanship goes to someone who will spend all his time on the housing investigation.

"I don't want to see it go to someone who won't, or to anyone who has preconceived ideas about the housing situation. And I don't want to see the investigation become a political issue."

The Wisconsin Senator said he was "not terribly interested" in getting the chairmanship for himself.

Australia wants to increase its population from 7½ to 20 million because of fear that Japanese militarism may rise again in 20 or 25 years.

Calwell

In a press conference at the Australian Embassy yesterday, Arthur A. Calwell, Australian Minister of Immigration and Information, gave this conviction as a background for his current activities in trying to arrange transportation for British subjects, European displaced persons, and American veterans, other than Negroes, will to settle "Down Under" within Australian government conditions.

Though refusing to criticize General MacArthur's policies in occupied Japan ("he's done a marvelous job"), Calwell asserted that five years' occupation "is not long enough to civilize, humanize or democratize those barbarians."

In his attempts to promote immigration from England to Australia, the Labor government minister has run counter to the urging of Winston Churchill that Britons should "stay and fight it out," he said. While Churchill and others seem to think England can maintain its 47 million people, Calwell added he believes only 30 million can be sustained there.

Caldwell described his immigration offer as applied to American GIs as follows:

Eligible for $140 subsidy (about half the cost of passage) and an equal amount for dependents, with women veterans also eligible. Like British immigrants, they are not required to stay in a given job. Of more than 2000 applicants, the first group of 32 veterans and wives will leave San Francisco September 2. Some 500 other GIs were discharged in Australia and about 1000 others went back after discharge in United States.

Asked about working conditions in his continent, Calwell pointed out that the United States has the highest standard of living in the world, and indicated that a worker's pay would not be as high there. However, he declared, prices are lower in Australia and rent is limited to one fifth the income of a worker. The government pays the difference if the rent is higher than that, he declared.

Nothing in Australian laws excludes Orientals or any other race as such, the minister asserted, but the required "dictation tests" for admittance "keep out those we don't want," he admitted. The basis of Australian immigration policy is economic, he said, and immigrants must be of more than half "European" blood.

Ex-Submarine Lookout Huses Polio Victims

Newburyport, Mass. (U.P.)—A white clapboard building used by the Coast Guard in World War II as a submarine lookout now serves as the Nation's "first purely vacation center" for boys and girls suffering from infantile paralysis.

Some 100 children are enjoying vacations at the camp financed by the Essex County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The vacationists ranging in age from 6 to 16, stay at the camp the former Coast Guard quarters fortwo-week periods Boys live in and girls bunk in converted barn.

The camp has been rented from the Coast Guard on a five-year lease.

Printer for 60 Years Still Runs Own Shop

Waukesha, Wisc. (U.P.)—Evan Thomas, 77, has completed 60 years as a printer, all spent in Waukesha except one year on a Superior, Wis., newspaper.

Thomas still directs a print shop here which he founded in 1906.

"There was no point system for type when I first began in the business," Thomas recalled. "If a printer wanted a set of spaces and quads, he had to send along a few letters to a type company so they could match them for size."

Noisy Protest Wins

Fort Worth, Tex., (U.P.)—Ten inmates of the county jail, all held on felony charges, protested having their shaving equipment taken away by pounding on their cell bars with shoes. Sheriff Sully Montgomery, who said the disturbance could be heard more than a block away, returned the personal items.

Whale Comes Back

New York (U.P.)—Coast Guardsmen at Rockaway Beach found a 700-pound whale, badly wounded on the beach. They used bullets to put it out of its miseryand towed it ou tto sea. A week later the whale was back on the beach again. The guardsmen towed it to sea once more and weighted it so it would sink.

Printers Urged to Arbitrate Disputes Under Labor Law

Cleveland, Aug. 18 (AP).—Voluntary arbitration of disputes arising under the Taft-Hartley Labor Act was urged strongly today by a representative of the commercial printing industry.

Carl A. Dunnagan of Chicago, president of the union employer section of the Printing Industry of America, reminded the eighty-ninth convention of the AFL-International Typographical Union, that printers had a "tradition of collective bargaining."

Dunnagan expressed the belief that it would be possible to find "within the limitations of the act a formula for continued cooperation" after the statute becomes a full-blown law on Friday.

ITU President Woodruff Randolph said he was not as "optimistic" as Dunnagan about the outcome. He predicted there would be no new contracts made after August 22.

Randolph and his top aides have recommended that the local unions come to unwritten agreements with employers rather than sign contracts which would restrain them—in his opinion—because of liabilities under the new labor act.

On the convention floor, all of the submitted "propositions" went through or were rejected in accordance with union administration recommendations.

Nevertheless, lengthy debate ensued over expelling members who failed to live up to executive council decisions pending appeal to conventions, and over creating a national working agreement to apply to Nation-wide publications, based on the very best terms existing anywhere.

Sponsored by John J. Fahey of New York Union No. 6, the latter proposal might make it possible for the comparatively high-paid New York units to get back work now farmed out by the big national magazines to plants in the Middle West.

No-Strike Clause Urged On Electrical Workers

By The Associated Press

Daniel W. Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), recommended yesterday that IBEW locals continue to agree to no-strike clauses in the public utility industry provided the company agrees to voluntary conciliation and arbitration of all disputes.

The international union also recommended to its locals continuation of no-strike clauses "where the employer in any industry has agreed to a legally valid closed shop or a real union shop."

Pending interpretations by the National Labor Relations Board, Tracy said, the IBEW has been unable to determine the security value of the "so-called 'union shop'" provided for under the Taft-Hartley Act.

For this reason, he added, IBEW "does not recommend at this time that no-strike clauses should be inserted in agreements which provide only this new type of union security."

Pennsylvania Railroad Wins $21,735 District Tax Refund

The Pennsylvania Railroad will be refunded $21,735.85 personal property tax for 1946, the District Board of Tax Appeals has ruled.

The railroad, in paying the tax January 31, protested on grounds the levy on rolling stock was not approved until December 15, 1945.

The assessment was for July 1, 1945 to July 1, 1946. Lawrence Koenigsberger, sole board member, said that because six months already had passed, the railroad could not fulfill the requirements insofar as the fiscal year of 1946 was concerned.

The tax assessor's office may carry the decision to the Court of Appeals.

Six Are Drowned Over Va. Weekend; One Was Boy, 10

By The Associated Press

Six persons were drowned in Virgina over the weekend, with one of the victims a 10-year-old child.

Leonard Leroy Himelwright, 10, was drowned on Saturday in Cedar Creek at Minebank Ford, where he had been playing with other children. Several hours of artificial respiration failed to revive the boy.

The bodies of Elmore Butler, 24, of Elmore, Northumberland County, and Wilbert Green, 38, of Regina, Lancaster County, were recovered yestarday from the Great Wicomico River near the village of Lillian on Route 200. Butler and Green were drowned on Saturday when the car in which they were riding plunged off Tiper's drawbridge into the river.

James W. Watkins, jr., 56, of Chester, drowned on Friday while fishing in Katview Park, in Chesterfield County. Another Friday victim was William B. Williams, 49, Newport News furniture dealer, who drowned in Mountain Lake while canoeing. Police said Williams probably suffered a heart attack and overturned the boat. He was vacationing at the lake with his wife and two children.

Mrs. Juanita Stone, about 25, of Richmond was drowned while swimming in theRappahannock River about 25 miles from Fredericksburg Sunday afternoon.

Jeep Crash Ends Aberdeen Escape

Coudersport, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP).—Two fugitives from the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., military detention center were under arrest today after their stolen jeep crashed and injured both of them.

State Policeman Robert Bowman said that Telbert Storm and Richard Golembeski, both 20, were injured when the car, driven by Golembeski, left the road near here when the driver feel asleep.

Bowman said the youths told him they escaped from the military center by climbing over a stockade and later stole the jeep owned by a Maryland car dealer.

Maryland Boy, 6, Killed by Truck

Frederick, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—Richard R. Lenhart, 6, was killed today whe nhe slipped on wet grass and fell under the rear wheel of an oil truck, State Trooper Bruce A. Bruchey reported.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude O. Lenhart of Lime Kiln.

Bruchey said the child had clung to the rear of the truck when it started off after making a delivery.

Peoria Man, 28, Pulls House Out of a Hat

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 18 (AP).—Harold Heitler pulled a house out of a hot today for his wife and himself, their two children and his blind mther.

The City of Peoria held a public drawing for a two-story frame house, which it had acquired as part of a right of way and then decided it didn't need.

Heitler, 28, won the drawing. He and his wife had been living in one room, his mother in another and the two children, 4 and 6 years old, had been boarded in another home.

Loyalty Check

The test of the Federal loyalty-check program that went into effect Monday will come in the operation of the loyalty review board provided for in the executive order. A 15-man part-time board is to be established by the Civil Service Commission to define principles and policies and hear appeals from decisions by loyalty boards of individual agencies. This board can be so constituted as to protect the rights of individuals against hearsay and unfounded complaints by anonymous accusers. Or it can function as an American gestapo, permanently stigmatizing innocent employes with no chance for them to defend themselves. The demarcation line is a fine one, but we have full confidence that the Civil Service Commission will follow the former course. The commission thus has a tremendous responsibility in choosing for the board persons who have a reputation for impartiality and can merit the confidence of Government workers.

No one can reasonably contest the right of the Government to protect itself against subversive influences within its ranks. The great dilemma, of course, is how to achieve this without trespassing upon the equally important rights of individuals. Investigations by the FBI need not violate constitutional principles; indeed, such investigations can serve a very useful purpose in weeding out real subversives and in barring others from Government employment. But the methods used, both in the investigations themselves and in evaluating the reports, are of the greatest significance. Filling out the interminable forms required for these loyalty checks is at best a demoralizing procedure. The Civil Service Commission can help mitigate the effects by publicly upholding a policy of scrupulous fairness toward the employes over whose destinies it presides.

Terroristic Methods

Every day seems to bring fresh evidence of the march of terror through the Balkans. On Saturday, for example, newsmen at Sofia reported the imposition of a death sentence upon Nikola Petkov, leader of the opposition National Agrarian Union Party, on a charge of having conspired to overthrow Bulgaria's Communist-dominated government. Athens reported the announcement of a Communist-guerilla government in what the conspirators call "Free Greece." On Sunday came a protest from the Department of State against the wholesale disqualification of citizens who had expected to participate in the election of national legislators on August 31, Soviet methods vary in accordance with the circumstances in the different countries, but the process of establishing minority control by fraudulent and undemocratic methods goes relentlessly forward.

In the peace treaty which Hungary and the United States have both ratified the Hungarian government guaranteed to the people the right to free elections. But that right is being circumscribed so as to produce a Communist victory. The non-Communist Hungarian press says that 70 per cent of the people in some districts have had their names stricken from the list of voters. Many aged women are put down as prostitutes, factory workers as landed nobility and Jews as members of Nazi organizations in order to disqualify them. Large numbers are listed as mentally deranged. It is said that one million persons, about 20 per cent of Hungary's voters, have been disfranchised. The Communists have also tried to prevent the other parties from freely listing candidates of their choice. Worse than that, their long record of subsequently stamping out even the docile sort of opposition that may be expressed silently in a voting booth may be expected to prevent any free expression of the popular will.

It is difficult for Americans to understand these tragic realities of the world beyond the iron curtain. Yet we must understand them and act on that understanding if the area of freedom is not to be steadily diminished until hostile totalitarianism encroaches upon our own shores. Our Senator Peppers may complacently assume that the Russians "are striving for what we have reached—democracy." But that self-deception seems to be contradicted by every news item as to what the Soviet government and its satellite regimes are actually doing. The grim fact is that democracy and terroristic methods do not mix. If we hope to preserve our liberties and the kind of a world in which they can flourish, we shall have to stop the spread of terroristic methods and not merely slick it over with euphemistic phrases.

A Russian View Of Us

One of Russia's leading economists, Eugene Varga, is trying to prove to his Pravda readers that the often predicted American postwar economic crisis is already at hand. That will be news to the people of this country who are currently enjoying an unexampled degree of prosperity, with employment figures breaking all peacetime records and corporate profits after taxes for the first 6 months of the year higher than for any full year before 1941.

Of course, there are weak places in the economic structure that give rise to concern about the future. Mr. Varga is undeniably right that many businessmen as well as a majority of professional economists in Government service and in private employment are worried about the recent sharp increases in living costs, fearing that rising prices will initiate a fresh round of wage increases. Like Mr. Varga, they realize full well that if the wage-price spiral continues its evolutions, consumers in large numbers, whose incomes have failed to keep pace with rising living costs, will eventually be compelled to cut their buying drastically. Then goods will begin to pile up on shelves and the dreaded depression will really be upon us. But these intimations of disaster ahead are still in the realm of probability.

The sharp increase in credit and installment buying, to which Mr. Varga refers, indicates that higher living costs have already made inroads on family savings and current incomes. That, too, has given rise to fears that buyers might go deeply into debt and ultimately be forced to contract their purchases. However, there is as yet no evidence that the expansion of consumer credit has reached the danger point. Indeed, the ratio of such credit to disposable consumer income is much lower than it was in the last prewar year.

It is true, too, that the physical volume of industrial production has recently slumped a bit, but it is currently being maintained at a higher level than in any previous peacetime year. It is likewise a fact that wholesale and retail inventories have been increasing, but the ratio of those inventories to sales are well below prewar levels. In other words, stocks are not backing up for lack of purchasers, as the Russian economist assumes. According to the President's Council of Economic Advisers, there is "little of the speculative condition in inventories and orders, which in some other periods of active business has created a point of vulnerability."

Granted that high prices of construction materials have discouraged construction, and aggravated the housing shortage, this really black spot in the current business picture has not yet affected employment or stifled production, although it gives rise to concern about what may happen when abnormally high demands for other types of durable goods have been met and we shall be in need of outlets for released labor and capital. Finally, the fall in stock prices, which Mr. Varga considers a symptom of crisis, is in good part a reflection of misgivings concerning our ability to sustain the prosperity we are now enjoying. But a pessimistic state of mind cannot be regarded as proof of disaster ahead.

Why, then, is an outstanding Russian economist so eager to convince his fellow countrymen that the United States is already confronted by a crisis? The answer seems to be that Mr. Varga's economic views are colored by his desires. He hopes for an American economic collapse, believing that it would result in "liquidation" of the Marshall Plan. Hence he has misread inconclusive storm signals in the hope of buttressing the campaign against it. In any case his reasoning is faulty. For to our way of thinking one of the most formidable obstacles to extension of further aid to Europe lies in the American business boom which has created abnormally heavy domestic demands for the foodstuffs, raw materials and equipment that Europe so badly needs. If the universal scarcity of dollars should lead to future sharp declines in our exports coincident with shrinking domestic demand for the output of our farms and factories, the drain on our resources resulting from shipments abroad would cease to be regarded as a sacrifice and would instead be looked upon as a welcome prop to sustain a high level of agricultural and industrial activity.

We conclude, therefore, that Mr. Varga is a victim of wishful thinking, or perhaps only a docile exponent of official propaganda, when he asserts that we are in the grip of a depression that will force a reversal of our foreign policy and consign the Marshall Plan to the scrap heap.

They Went West

Few Americans are yet aware of the profound effects of wartime migration within our own country. Most of us have known in a general way that millions of war workers left their homes to work in new environments. But only when the Census Bureau comes along with its well-buttressed estimates of population changes can we begin to understand the extent of the changes that have taken place. They are not merely shifts in population from farm to city but great regional migrations that may be expected to influence the growth of the United States through the remainder of the present century.

By far the most phenomenal development recorded in the current census report covering the period from April, 1940, to July 1, 1946, is the 3,338,000 increase in the population of the Western States. In six years the West has expanded its population by nearly one fourth. A large part of this growth went to California, which had a 36.2 per cent increase in civilian population; but the States of Oregon and Washington were not far behind. Arizona contributed a 24 per cent increase; Nevada, 21.3; and Utah, 13.3. Some Western States lost heavily, notably Montana and Idaho, but the general picture is one of remarkable growth. New sources of raw materials and power have been tapped. New industrial plants, such as the gigantic steel mills at Geneva, Utah, have been built. In this postwar period the West is looking toward not only the manufacture of many of the products needed for its own use but also toward production of industrial goods for other parts of the country and for foreign markets. Its vast resources of coal, oil and iron ore strongly buttress these plans.

By comparison with the West all other areas have been static since 1940 so far as regional changes in population are concerned. The Northeastern States had a gain of only 2.7 per cent — about half the national average of 5.3 per cent. The North Central States experienced a 4 per cent gain, and the South lagged behind with only 2.6 per cent. Within these regions, however, some very notable shifts are evident.

Some areas in the South, notably Florida, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and Texas made striking gains. The same is true of Michigan, Connecticut, Indiana and Ohio. Population was naturally pulled to war industries in these States, and, while many war workers have now returned to their old homes, the conversion of war plants has provided new jobs for great numbers of men and thus insured the permanency of some population shifts originally made on an emergency basis.

The area that has suffered most from these mass migrations is the farm belt of the Middle West. North Dakota lost more than 16 per cent of her population in six years and South Dakota nearly 15 per cent. Smaller losses were sustained by Nebraska and Missouri and a number of States in the South. Apparently the happy trend of population southward in the decade before the war has been reversed. That is an especially unfortunate consequence of the war, for the South is urgently in need of industrial growth to raise its standard of living. The growth of the West, even though it was a consequence of war, is a salutary approach toward a better geographical balance in our industrial system. It will be a happy development if, with the return of peacetime, the South is able to resume on a larger scale the industrialization that so many of her people are seeking.

George C. Atcheson, Jr.

The loss of George C. Atcheson, jr., in a Pacific plane accident is doubly unfortunate because of the key role he was to have played in the forthcoming peace treaty with Japan. At the time of his death Mr. Atcheson was on his way to Washington for consultations with the State Department over details of treaty drafts. As the senior American civilian representative in Japan with the rank of ambassador, he would have borne, along with General MacArthur, much of the responsibility for executing and implementing the peace.

To Mr. Atcheson must accrue considerable credit for the fact that Japan has not been paralyzed by the same bickering and delay that has blighted the peace treaties in Europe. After General MacArthur appointed him American chairman of the four-power advisory council for Japan, he consistently stood up against the disruptive tactics of the Soviet Union. This was made evident in his firm position last year on the Communist-inspired farmers' demonstrations. He made it clear that, while the United States supported the rights for all parties including the Communists, it could not condone the favor for one particular group which the Russians were attempting to bestow on the Communists. He was not anti-Russian; he sought fair play for the Russians but no more. Undoubtedly it was largely upon his recommendations that the United States decided to go ahead on the peace treaty without Russian participation after negotiations with the Soviet, particularly over reparations, had proved fruitless.

As a Foreign Service officer, Mr. Atcheson was grounded from youth in the affairs of the Far East. He had a rich background of experience in China where, incidentally, he saw first-hand the outrages of Japanese militarism. He was on the Panay when it was sunk by Japanese bombs in 1937. He came briefly into the limelight in 1945 as counselor of the embassy in Chungking when Ambassador Hurley in a theatrical rage charged him with going behind his (Mr. Hurley's) back and with being overly sympathetic to the Communist cause—a charge which Mr. Atcheson's work in Japan eloquently disproves. Mr. Atcheson was upheld by Secretary Byrnes and shortly afterward was transferred to General MacArthur's staff in Tokyo as an adviser.

Perhaps Mr. Atcheson's outstanding usefulness stems from his broad grasp of the relation of the Japanese economy to the Far East as a whole, a concept which underlay his work toward the peace treaty. In no sense an appeaser, he sought to demilitarize and democratize Japanese institutions so that Japan could quickly resume a place in restoring not only herself but the other ravaged countries of East Asia. While the United States cannot ignore the past, he said, in a speech at Shimoda shortly before he left for Washington, it is more interested in Japan's future under the principles of the United Nations. A reticent man not given to detailing his own accomplishments, George Atcheson, according to a more fortunate companion, went to his death with the same quiet smile that characterized much of his work.

What Is "Charity"?

One reason for the confusion among those who have been studying the Community Chest is that words are used without definition and so have different meanings for different users. The most important of these confusing words is "charity.' This word was the basis of the report by that minority of the Citizen's Study Committee which advocated dropping some of the Chest agencies because they do not give food, clothes or other material relief to the needy; the assumption being that almsgiving is, with some stretching, the be all and the end all of charity.

So question as to the meaning of "charity" was raised at the meeting of the Chest trustees on August 11, and the Biblical conception was contrasted with the "narrower" (this was the word used by the chairman of the meeting) conception adopted by the Federation of Citizens Associations: the first being described as beautiful and inspiring, the latter as sterile and demoralizing.

St. Paul seems to have had much the same idea for he said (First Corinthians, Chapter 13, third verse), "And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor . . . , and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing." "Charity," he said, "suffereth long and is kind," . . . "vaunteth not itself," "rejoiceth in the truth"—the proscribed agencies believe they are seeking the truth. Charity, according to St. Paul, is spiritual, and he says that if one has not charity he becomes "as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal."

So, having told what charity is, having said that without charity it profits one nothing to give "all" one's goods to feed the poor, he ends with, "and now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three: but the greatest of these is charity."

Freedom Train

There has been considerable talk in liberal circles of the "Freedom Train" which will tour the United States to remind all Americans of the terrific sacrifice the boys made during the last World War. This action is to be commended wholeheartedly in view of the fact that many Americans have placed the last conflict in the back of their minds.

The train should make a lengthy stop in Washington to remind the citizens, especially those members of the Metropolitan Police who have displayed such misdirected force upon some of our citizens, that the rights of all people must be respected at all times, and that injustice in any form will not be tolerated in the least. Let this train pass also to the great Southland where the cry of "States' rights" muffles completely any thought of liberty and democracy for Negro Americans.

Our conduct as regards our minority element is one which demands the utmost pity, and subsequently causes real Americans a profound sense of shame. May your worthy newspaper continue its fine work in exposing all forms of injustice and malice to our fellowmen. Congratulations to you and your staff!

Police As Builders

In your issue of August 15, you carry an article entitled "Six Policemen Help to Build Municipal Building Quarters," written by your reporter, Alfred E. Lewis. Congratulations to Major Barrett for getting the work done within his own department when he could not secure the men or materials from the District, AFL or CIO.

It seems that not more than three or four weeks ago I read in the local newspapers that Major Barrett was taking steps to put more men in uniform by relieving the boys from the swivel chairs who had been assigned to light duty by orders of doctors because of injury in line of duty.

Now when there are so many unsolved murders and unsolved robbery, general assignment and sex cases which had been pocketed, it seems a mighty poor time to take detective sergeants who could be out solving and clearing up these cases and put them in overalls in the basement of the Municipal Building. High-Hat Shirt

Recently I called off my buyer's strike and made the rounds of the men's shops and department stores, trying to find an old-time shirt that hadn't gone high hat. Finally, I bought a plain white short-sleeved sport shirt for $3.50. Bringing it home and taking out the pins, I discovered a small tag attached to a button. The tag read: "OPA retail ceiling price, $2.60."

Question of Geography

In one of the last stories carried by The Washington Post about the Hughes investigation conducted by a subcommittee of the Senate there appeared the following paragraph:

"This is not the first time that the peripatetic press agent has been difficult for the committee to locate. The nickname of 'Patagonia Johnny' derives from the fact that when the committee initially sought him for public hearings he was supposed to be in Patagonia, down near Cape Horn at the extreme end of the Argentine."

Only for the purpose of correcting a matter of geography and without wishing to give the error in the paragraph any importance, I believe it necessary to point out that Cape Horn is the southernmost extremity of the American continent, to the south of the island of Tierre del Fuego, and that Cape Horne as well as the islands and region around it, with the exception of the easternmost part of Tierra del Fuego, are Chilean territory. The greater part of Patagonia became Argentine territory by the arbitral award of His Britannic Majesty; but this lies north of the Straits of Magellan and, therefore, quite a distance from Cape Horn. Judicial Legislation

On August 16 you printed an interesting letter by Mr. Phillip Cortney, president of Coty, Inc., in which he made the following points, among others: (1) That judicial legislation is dangerous, particularly in administrative law, (2) that the interpretative power of the Supreme Court has been used to thwart the intent of Congress, (3) that the root of the difficulty lies in laws that are "loosely drawn and badly written" or that "fail to provide definite standards for their practical application," and (4) that the solution is to be found in more painstaking legislative drafting and the establishment of a permanent joint congressional committee "to study the operation of the law and recommend legislative remedies whenever they prove necessary."

That there is room for improvement in the drafting of Federal legislation, no one will dispute. The statutory enunciation of complex policy determinations calls for a thorough understanding of the subject matter of the legislation, and a certain amount of legal skill in discerning and clarifying ambiguities of conception and of language. Much of what becomes law is drafted initially by individuals lacking in one of these two basic requirements.

Furthermore, even bills which are well drafted initially may become peppered with poorly drafted amendments adopted in the course of the debate. As Mr. Cortney suggests, congressional committees can be helpful in reviewing current legislation to see that the implementation is in accord with policy, and, where not so in accord, to trace the reasons why and recommend remedial legislation.

It is doubtful, however, whether it serves any purpose to establish a permanent joint committee for each administrative statute. Certainly, in the case of the Taft-Hartley Act, the joint committee established by Title IV will speed remedial legislation, if any is deemed desirable. The keen interest of the Congress in the provisions of that act explains its willingness to provide for continuous study of the operations of that law, but the legislators themselves would balk at the extension of that technique to all legislation in the realm of administrative law.

Lawyers well schooled in modern legal thought no longer develop apoplexy, as their fathers did, when the phrase "judicial legislation" is mentioned. To the elders it connoted a usurpation of functions. Now we know that it is naive to suppose that words in any language can be used so skillfully as to eliminate all ambiguity concerning their meaning.

Unfortunately, perhaps, it is not meaning which becomes a law—it is words. When called upon to clarify, interpret, or explain a law, it is axiomatic that the court will not concern itself with meaning (or intention) unexpressed; it will examine the words used in the contexts in which they are used, and ascribe to them their ordinary meaning. Since the latter process often reaches results which were unanticipated by the Congress it is conveniently labeled "judicial legislation."

It follows that since the Supreme Court does not interpret intent, it cannot thwart the intent of Congress. That is done by the Congress itself, when it fails to use words which, in context, suitably embody its intention. It is not judicial legislation which is bad, but the quality of statutes which give rise to so many interpretative problems. Judicial legislation is descriptive of the judicial process. It is not a usurpation of a legislative function.

To the extent that judges (and administrators) recognize that the meaning of words is to be found in their consequences, and that in resolving ambiguities, they are ascribing meaning to the words of a statute rather than searching for a pre-existing meaning, they will weigh carefully the policy implications of their decision. A detailed discussion of these problems is to be found in the essays of the late Justice Cardozo and the late Dr. Morris Raphael Cohen.

The lay protest against judicial legislation as "dangerous" is readily understandable, particularly because the rational bases of judicial decision have received so little recognition at the hands of the judiciary, and the members of the bar in general, until recent years. It would be most unfortunate if a protest against ill-drawn legislation should be misdirected into a complaint against the judiciary who have the unavoidable function of attaching meaning to words, even in the case of well-drafted legislation.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Kaiser Steel

NO FIGURE in what is laughingly called private life has stirred more controversies during the past 10 years than Henry J. Kaiser. He has been called everything under the sun by practically everybody. Yet with his massive, all-encompassing drive, he seems to go right on.

Seeing him in action, he reminds you most nearly of a bulldozer. Kaiser uses the bulldozer technique in clearing his way through the industrial woods, which is probably why he stirs so much violent reaction of one kind and another.

The heart of the charge against him is that he used political pull to further the growth of his industrial empire. Specifically he is accused of riding the New Deal comet to favor and fortune.

The whole controversy has been revived by an action just taken by the Reconstruction Finance Corp. In a letter to Kaiser, that agency said it could not take responsibility for scaling down Kaiser's loan on his Fontana, Calif., steel plant.

To Kaiser's enemies his request to the RFC for a reduction looked like a pure and simple request for an 85-million-dollar handout. But passionately, persuasively and persistently, the driving westerner with the massive hands, the big head and the hunched shoulders makes it sound like something else. And quite obviously, his own conviction of his righteousness is deep and abiding.

KAISER BASES his case on what he claims to be a precedent set by the RFC in selling a steel plant at Geneva, Utah, to the United States Steel Corp. The plant at Geneva was built by the Government and operated during the war by Big Steel. The company bought it from the RFC for a price equivalent to about 20 cents on the dollar.

The difference in the Kaiser case is that the Kaiser Co. borrowed the money directly from RFC to build the Fontana plant. This, in the Kaiser view, is merely a technicality.

Both plants, so the argument runs, were built as part of the war effort; to forgive four fifths of the cost of the plant acquired by Big Steel while making Kaiser pay 100 cents on the dollar is patently unfair.

Kaiser still owes 105 million dollars on Fontana. At present steel prices and capacity operation, he can pay both interest and the installments due on the loan. But with even a slight decline from the present boom-time prosperity Fontana would be in trouble.

The irrepressible Kaiser pushes this even further. He says he wants to show the steel industry some real competition by bringing down prices on the West Coast. In his spacious, large-handed way, he talks about Fontana being owned eventually by its employes and its customers. How this would be spelled out is not clear.

RECOGNIZING what a long shadow the decision will cast, the RFC directors passed the buck to Congress. Congress alone, the agency held, can decide.

That puts it right into politics in an election year. Fontana will be a hot issue for the Republicans to face next winter.

There will be powerful pressures to make Kaiser pay up. In the steel industry, mavericks with ideas about competition and lower prices are about as welcome as a boa constrictor at a picnic.

But equally powerful pressure will be exerted on the other side. Evidence is accumulating that in the West they regard this as not just a matter of Henry Kaiser's personal fortune. Major business interests in the West are resentful of Eastern domination. They have high ambitions for their own burgeoning industrial empire. An independent steel plant fits into that empire.

Here is a sensitive spot for the GOP. Western resentment over deep slashes in reclamation and power appropriations is said to be burning. That resentment could mean political steam behind the Kaiser proposition.

To charge Kaiser with playing politics for favors sounds a little funny. Politics played a part in deciding where the railroads should run and how they should be financed. Politics is part of the airlines battle. To rule out a newcomer on this score is to say that things as they are shall stay as they are. It is the same as saying that the big league is forever closed to new talent. We haven't, let's hope, reached that stage yet.

Loyalty Probe

The news item in The Washington Post of August 11, regarding the loyalty probe which the FBI started on August 18 is interesting in that it takes in only the employes in each of the Federal Departments. Are the German scientists, who were brought here by the War Department for research work, to be included in this probe? The public has a right to know what they have accomplished since they have been here and whether their presence in the United States is a threat to our security.

And how about the Congressmen and Senators? Are they all above suspicion If we are going to have a loyalty probe let us begin on top and work downward. The poor little clerk sitting at his desk does not have much chance to play around with politics. If we intend to clean out the subversive elements in the Government why not be honest about it and let the ax fall where it will do the most good. In the final analysis, who is going to judge the judge?

Peace With Japan

By Sumner Welles

Division Among The Victors

GENERAL MacARTHUR urges an early peace treaty with Japan. The British Commonwealth nations are to discuss terms at Canberra on August 26. The State Department wants a peace settlement to be formulated tentatively in Washington next month, not by the four major powers alone, but by all of the 11 allies that took part in the war against Japan. Russia, however, remains altogether relcalcitrant.

Mr. Hoover now calls for "a drive to an immediate peace with Japan whether Russia cares to join or not."

Contrasted with the appalling fiasco in Germany, our occupation of Japan appears superficially to have achieved its immediate objectives. General MacArthur has been helped to display his outstanding administrative abilities by the fact that he is in supreme authority. Nor has he had any zonal problems to hamper him.

The Japanese people in free elections have adopted a new and democratic constitution. There is a recognized government with which the Allied powers can deal. General MacArthur tells us that "even were there no external controls, Japan could not rearm for a modern war within a century."

Urgent economic considerations also prompt the early conclusion of a peace treaty. Japan's present measure of industrial activity is largely due to the stocks on hand at the end of the war. These stocks are now exhausted. Unless Japan can export enough to pay for the food and raw materials she needs, such imports must be shipped in by the United States. The economic revival of Japan can only be based on internal stability and we are told that this depends upon a peace treaty.

IN VIEW of all this, why should we not have an early peace? If Russia refuses to conform, why should the other powers not agree at once upon the terms of a treaty and then let Russia take it or leave it?

The answer is, first of all, that much of what the American public is being told about the occupation of Japan is wholly misleading.

We know that the Japanese have adopted a democratic constitution. But we are not told that this constitution was written for them by the American occupation authorities. Not by the widest stretch of the imagination can that constitution be regarded as any spontaneous expression of the will of the Japanese people.

It is true that religious tolerances exists, that land distribution has been carried out, that industrial and financial monopolies have been broken up, and that education has been liberalized. But here again, every one of these measures has been imposed upon the Japanese people. The meaning of democracy is as little understood by the vast majority of the Japanese people as it was 10 years ago.

WITH ALL due respect for the authority with which General MacArthur assures us that "Japan could not rearm for a modern war within a century," are we to forget that this same poor country, without natural resources, and only recently emerged from her medieval isolation, was able within two generations to become one of the world's greatest military powers? Need we forget the greater glory of their nation? Must we suppose that the Japanese have already forgotten Hiroshima, or that their defeat came about at American hands?

Can we safely assume that the Japanese people will henceforth pursue that path of peace without being subjected for many years to continuing external controls? Are we to be blind to the fact that such controls can never be adequate unless they are jointly exercised by all of the major powers?

Mr. Hoover and his followers are urging us to repeat precisely the same mistakes as those made by the English-speaking countries in their policies toward Germany after the first world war. The prevailing assumption is that, because of a brief two years' occupation, Japan has become a truly democratic and submissive satellite of the United States and that she can be utilized, once a peace treaty is signed, as a buffer against the Soviet Union.

JAPAN'S political leaders are counting upon the present contest between Russia and the United States as a means of obtaining lenient peace terms. If Russia refuses to take part in a peace treaty, how much more readily can Japan's nationalists and militarists take advantage of Soviet-American rivalry to further their own ambitions?

Germany was able to nullify the provisions of the Versailles Treaty, and to rearm, because she was able to divide the victorious allies. If Russia refuses to join wholeheartedly with the other major powers in the enforcement of such controls as a peace treaty may impose Japan will be able, after the occupation forces have been withdrawn, to play off the United States against Russia even more successfully than Germany played off the English-speaking powers against France a quarter of a century.

A Japanese peace treaty that fails to satisfy the strategic and economic needs of all of the Pacific countries, or that is considered by the Soviet Union a threat to her legitimate security, can make for no lasting peace.

Until Russia is willing to participate in such a treaty, and to cooperate with the other major powers in the Security Council of the United Nations, a peace treaty with Japan would prove to be a continuing menace to the American people.

Two-Thirds Rule

By Barnet Nover

Sidetracking The Veto

RUSSIA'S exercise of her veto power in the Security Council has been an enormously disturbing phenomenon. It has tended to reduce the United Nations to futility and has widened the already dangerous split between the Soviet Union and the West.

NOVER

However, Russia's action in this field has produced its inevitable reaction. Unwilling to give sanction in any way to Russia's willful and arbitrary misuse of her legal rights, the other great powers have thus far scrupulously refrained from using their veto power. They have thus placed on the Kremlin the sole responsibility for preventing the Council from performing its great function.

More important, it has led one nation—the United States—to reverse its historic stand on voting procedure at international conferences.

INDEED, the position taken by the United States at Rio and with respect to the formulation of Japanese peace terms represents nothing short of a revolution in American policy.

At past inter-American conferences this country was a champion of the unanimity rule. This meant that any one of the 21 republics of this hemisphere could, by casting a negative vote, block the passage of a resolution or a convention favored by the other 20.

At Rio, however, the United States has proposed that the unanimity rule be dropped. The contemplated inter-American security pact would be applied against an aggressor provided two thirds of the signatories approve.

It must be pointed out that, under the American scheme nations which did not approve the application of sanctions against the particular aggressor would not be bound to employ military measures. The reason for that exemption is to be found in the provision of the Constitution of the United States and the constitutions of other American nations which give their respective congresses the sole authority to declare war.

However, even nations that had voted against the resolution to apply the Treaty of Rio would be obligated under the American plan to assist their neighbors with equipment and transport and economic measures.

THE FLAW in this scheme is not that some nations can contract out of obligations morally if not legally binding on all when and if the security of any American nation is threatened. The real flaw is to be found in the circumstance that eight American nations—one more than a third of the total—can prevent the others from carrying out a program of collective security.

Conceivably this might mean that Panama, Costa Rica, Honduras, Nicaragua, Paraguay, the Dominican Republic, Salvador and Uruguay—nations with a combined population of only 10,557,000—could frustrate the desires of 13 nations with a combined population of around 260 million.

However, while such a development is theoretically conceivable it is practically remote. At any rate, under the old unanimity rule any one of the American republics—little Panama for instance, with a population of around 635,000—could block action.

THE UNITED STATES also intends to apply the two-thirds rule at the coming conference to draw up peace terms for Japan, a conference to which all the nations participating in the Far Eastern Commission have been invited to send representatives.

Nine nations have accepted the American invitation. Russia has refused. She proposes instead that the terms of the Japanese settlement be drawn up by the United States, Great Britain, China and the Soviet Union on the basis of rules which apply at meetings of the Council of Foreign Ministers.

This would mean, in effect, Russian dictation of the Japanese peace terms since nothing that the Kremlin opposed in the way of a treaty stipulation would get in and only what she approved could be incorporated in the final terms.

In view of the very minor role which Russia played in the Pacific war, this would be giving Russia far more authority than she deserves. Moreover, in view of what happened at earlier conferences that dealt with peace terms, it would mean either a badly botched treaty or none at all.

The United States has rejected the Russian proposal. The announcement has been made that this country and the other members of the Far Eastern Commission will go ahead without Russia if Russia is unwilling to join the conference on the basis of the conditions to which ten nations have now agreed.

The veto which on behalf of the Kremlin and at its orders Andrei Gromyko has employed with such light-hearted abandon is now kicking back in Russia's face.

Voting Abuses Exaggerated, Hungary Says

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 18 (AP). An American Legation official said today that Prime Minister Lajos Dinnyes had told United States and British Government representatives that reports of abuses of Hungarian election laws were "greatly exaggerated."

Selden Chapin, United States Minister, and J. M. Walsh, British first secretary, saw Dinnyes today after their governments messaged them that "great concern" was felt over Budapest reports of abuses under the new election law, including disenfranchisement of voters.

The Prime Minister said his regime was "taking measures to correct any abuses."

[Chapin said he was "not prepared to say" whether Dinnyes' statement would be satisfactory to Washington, but added, "We received the assurances we asked for," the United Press said.

[A Hungarian communique said Dinnyes in a talk with Chapin "denied false and unfounded news published by foreign press and radio concerning loss of suffrage and declared that the will of the Hungarian people will be freely and fairly expressed."]

Reports of disenfranchisement for the August 31 election continued. A Hungarian doctor told an American officer only two of 40 doctors in a certain clinic would be allowed to vote and that there were continuous efforts to make all doctors join the Communist Party. Fairly prominent people were reported being deprived of the vote on accusations of prostitution, insanity, loss of private employment and ownership of too much land.

[Officials of the Communist-dominated government said today that Father Stephan Balogh, leader of an opposition party, was under investigation on a charge of misappropriating 240,000 forints (about $22,000) while he was undersecretary of state, the United Press reported.

[Balogh, who resigned last May during the Communist coup that ousted Premier Ferenc Nagy, recently organized the Independent Hungarian Democratic Party. According to the charges, he misused the prime ministry's "minority" fund which he administered under two prime ministers.

Balogh Laughs at Charges

[Balogh laughed at the charges. ["I am not a bit worried about those charges," he said. "I have not reduced an ounce because my conscience is clear." (He weighs 300 pounds.)

["The whole thing is a political maneuver to ruin my reputation," he charged. "That fund was to be used for any purpose I thought most helpful for the country."

[A spokesman for the foreign ministry said Balogh would not be arrested.

["He knows too much," the spokesman explained.]

'Free Greece' Seen as Part Of Red Plan

London, Aug. 18 (U.P.)—Greek Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris said tonight that the setting up of a "free Greece" government in the mountains, Russian obstruction in the United Nations of the Greek border investigation and new border incidents were all part of a Communist master plan that would soon bring more trouble to the Balkans.

"I foresee that the Yugoslavs, Albanians and Bulgarians will recognize Markos' 'government' to give it the form of legality under which they can come to the assistance of the Communist guerillas, he said.

The "Markos" to whom he referred is "Gen. Markos Vafthiadis, the guerilla commander in chief who announced the formation of a "free Greece" military government on Saturday. The British foreign office said today that it understood the "free Greece" radio operates from Nish, Yugoslavia.

"The new government might well operate within the shadow of that station," a foreign office spokesman said.

Socialists Ask French Crop Requisitioning

Lyons, France, Aug. 18 (U.P.)—Moving to avert what it described as "certain famine and financial catastrophe," the thirty-ninth congress of the French Socialist Party; adopted early today a motion, asking the government to requisition wheat and other crops if farmers continue to hoard their harvests.

The motion, unanimously approved at the conclusion of the four-day convention, also called for establishment of a government-owned wheat purchasing monopoly through which all the nation's wheat purchases would be made.

Also included in the motion were demands for far-reaching controls over industry and finance which would:

Outlaw production of "secondary" products, halt imports of "unnecessary" consumer and industrial products, prohibit opening of new commercial enterprises, adjust salaries to cost of living, but temporarily halt spiraling prices, authorize the government to force circulation of hoarded bank notes, partly pay increased salaries and bonuses in government reconstruction bonds.

The demands represent a virtual order to Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier to seek government approval of them and carry them out.

"The Socialist Party affirms that all of these measures, even if some of them appear unpopular, are indispensable to avert famine and financial catastrophe," the motion said.

The congress also adopted a motion proposed by Leftist elements, over one submitted by Ramadier's supporters, which asked Ramadier to return to a more orthodox form of socialism.

[In Paris, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, criticizing home rule proposals on Algeria now before the National Assembly, declared toright that Algeria must and will remain a part of France, the Associated Press reported.]

Two British Officers Admit $30,000 Graft at Trieste

Trieste, Aug. 18 (U.P.)—Two British army officers today pleaded guilty to charges of accepting bribes of between $30,000 and $45,000 while helping administer the Venezia Giulia American Military Government public works.

The officers, Maj. John Roderick Squire and Capt. Douglas Arthur Wilde, were on trial before a British army general field court-martial. Squire pleaded guilty to 10 charges and Wilde to four.

Both officers were involved in the AMG public works division graft-and-bribe scandal which culminated in the arrest also of two American officers and 31 civilian employes.

The trials of the two American officers—Maj. E. H. Richardson, former head of the public works division, and Thomas Cockerham—are scheduled to be held shortly before a U. S. court-martial.

Blames Americans

Squire, in a voluntary statement, maintained that corruption was "rampant" in the civilian staff brought to Venezia Giulia by AMG officers from Italy and that it "later increased with the arrival of U. S. Maj. E. H. Richardson."

According to his statement, when Squire reported cases of civilian staff members accepting presents from contractors to Richardson, the U. S. major allegedly replied: "This is customary in Italy."

In his statement, Squire admitted he accepted gifts of wine and small presents from contractors and "followed Richardson's example" in accepting an apartment from one.

Squire's beautiful Austrian secretary, 24-year-old Anita Nueber, said in a statement read to the court that she had an agreement with Squire that all proceeds collected by her or Squire would be equally divided. She said she deposited seven million lire—approximately $31,200 at the then legal exchange rate—in her bank account and spent 1,500,000 lire.

Miss Heuber, is now under arrest awaiting trial.

"Takes Heed" to "Occasion."

Squire's statement also described visits by a Mr. Griffiths, identified as the president of an American engineering company, who was introduced by Richardson and allegedly offered to open an account for Squire in Knoxville, Iowa.

Wilde, in a statement to the court, admitted collecting 10 million lire from March to June, 1947. He said he realized early this year that the "public works department was thoroughly crooked" and went to Squire, who told him that such "an occasion comes only once in a lifetime."

Wilde said he "took heed" and made arrangements with his Italian secretary similar to those made between Squire and Miss Hueber. He said that his secretary, Adriana Luzzato, charged a flat rate of 10 per cent on all contracts passing through his hands, most of which concerned repairs to United States troops barracks.

British Leader Plans U. S. War Dead Tribute

London, Aug. 18 (INS).—One of Britain's most noted elder statesmen, Viscount Trenchard, disclosed today plans for a war memorial to American troops who were killed in England during the war.

Lord Trenchard, 77-year-old founder of modern airpower and one of Britain's most pro-American leaders, said a chapel will be built at St. Paul's Cathedral dedicated to the 13,000 Americans who died in Britain during World War II.

Baby Teetering On Windowsill Causes Sensation

A 13-month-old baby who chose a fourth-story windowsill to survey the city's traffic sent office workers in the vicinity of 11th and F sts. nw. into nervous fits yesterday morning.

Maur Donahue, an auditor in the GAO building, described how the diapered boy, Gregory Sutherland of Red Springs, N. C., appeared to be teetering on the window's edge of an apartment across the street—with both knees up on the ledge.

Donahue and GAO Employes G. L. Bottiger and Clifford Wright rushed across to the apartment building at 523 11th st. nw.

While scores of spectators lined windows of opposite office buildings, the three men found the correct apartment and the child's aunt, Miss Virginia Stephenson.

Her explanation: "Gregory's mother (Mrs. Edward Sutherland, 21) was watching him. He likes the street cars, you know."

Canada Can Sell 3.5 Billion Bushels Of Apples in U. S.

Canada will be permitted to sell 3,500,000 bushels of apples in United States markets during the 1947-48 season, the Agriculture Department announced yesterday.

These shipments will be allowed under an agreement bteween the Canadian and United States Departments of Agriculture reached at Detroit last week.

Under the agreement, 65 per cent or 2,275,000 bushels may be packed apples, and the remainder for processing.

Midshipmen See Undersea Team

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—Cadets and midshipmen from West Point and Annapolis undergoing a program of training in amphibious warfare witnessed a demonstration by an underwater demolition team this afternoon at the Little Creek amphibious base.

Charges of explosives planted under the water and on the beach were detonated in simulation of supporting shellfire from heavy naval airships before the team came ashore and attached explosives to obstacles on the beach, which were later blown up.

Tomorrow the young men of the two service academies will continue their training program, designated Operation Camid II, by observing beachings of LST's and the docking and launching of small landing craft by an LSD (landing ship, dock).

Big 3 Parley On Germany To Start Soon

London, Aug. 18 (AP).—British and United States diplomatic officials reported today that vital British-French-American talks on reviving Germany's war-wrecked industry would begin in London late this week.

The talks, designed to set a higher level of industry for western Germany, were expected to deal principally with traditional French fear of a reindustrialized Germany.

The United States Embassy announced Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas would be the American representative at the London conference. Both British and American sources said the talks would begin late this week.

British officials, who declined to be quoted by name, said the three-power meeting was "loaded with dynamite" and might conceivably imperil the "Big Four" Foreign Ministers Conference on a German peace treaty in November, or the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

Well-informed British sources made these points:

1. If France, Britain and the United States agree on raising the level of western Germany's industry, prospects for Russian assent to a German peace in November might be further darkened.

2. If France's long-standing opposition to revival of western Germany resulted in a breakdown of the three-power talks, the effects might be disastrous to the Marshall Plan.

America Needs Change in Values, Bishop Contends

Massanetta Springs, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—America needs to rediscover "those imperishable values of life which cannot be shaken," Bishop Arthur J. Moore told some 1200 ministers and Christian workers attending the Massanetta Springs Bible Conference tonight.

Bishop Moore, one of 22 religious leaders from this country and abroad who are slated to address the conference, declared that America's only hope "lies in the rebirth of the Christian church."

"We need men whose lives have been touched with a sense of God and the world's needs," he told delegates. "Our regular society with its antagonisms, its materialism and false values is about to crash about our heads."

Bishop Moore's address inaugurated a week-long program which wil linclude addresses by Dr. H. T. Donaldson of Dundee, Scotland; Dr. D. Elton Trueblood of Stanford University; Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of New York; and Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes.

General Lee Calls Charges 'Misleading,' Asks for Probe

Leghorn, Italy, Aug. 18 (U.P.).—Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, acting Allied Supreme Commander in the Mediterranean, announced today that he had asked the War Department to investigate a columnist's charges that he had set himself up a luxurious domain at the expense of the American taxpayer and was maltreating enlisted men.

Lee said in an official statement that the charges by Robert Ruark, a writer for the Scripps-Howard newspapers were "misleading" and "completely unwarranted attacks." Furthermore, he intimated that Ruark had hardly spent enough time in the Mediterranean theater to know what he was writing about.

Spent Week in Rome

His statement said: "I have read the recent articles criticizing the Mediterranean theater which I command. The author of these articles spent 19 days in this theater.

"He spent 16 hours in Leghorn, did not go to Viareggio, spent approximately 48 hours in Venezia Giulia, one week in Rome and eight days on the island of Capri (where there are no military installations).

"As a result of this meager visit, the author has seen fit to write misleading articles which have been presented to the public. I am always pleased to have correspondents' frank criticism of my command and assist them in their efforts to obtain facts.

Invites Reporters

"However, unwarranted attacks reflecting on the character and integrity of my officers and the enlisted men and women now serving in my command and their families, through articles which present a completely distorted view of conditions in this theater demand refutation from outside this command.

"I have, therefore, requested the War Department to send an investigator from the United States to inquire into the charges made. Likewise, in accordance with my long-existing policy, I have again invited all American correspondents stationed in Italy, many of whom have been in this area for an extended period of time, to investigate the charges and freely express their views."

General Wyche Leaves To Investigate Reports

By The Associated Press

Maj. Gen. Ira T. Wyche, War Department inspector general, left yesterday by plane to look into published reports of low troop morale and high living by officers in the Mediterranean theater command of Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee.

Wyche is making the inspection trip at the direction of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff.

Also on a trip to inspect military installations in Europe is Gen. Omar Bradley, often spoken of as the next chief of staff.

Wyche was accompanied by Col. Eugene L. Miller and Lieut. Col. Richard P. Tipton.

Grenade Hits Home

Berlin, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—A rifle grenade shell, fired from an unknown source, exploded on the roof of a house occupied by an American family here, the United States provost marshal's office disclosed today. Occupants of the house were not injured.

Lebanon Paper Suspended

Beirut, Lebanon, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The Home Ministry suspended the daily newspaper Albayrak today for prejudicing public order. It gave no details.

India, Pakistan Agree to Quell Punjab Riots

New Delhi, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—The new dominions of India and Pakistan have decided to put down all communal disorders in the Punjab "firmly and immediately," and to support all officers in "any action they take" to quell the rioting, the All-India radio announced tonight.

The decision was taken by Prime Ministers Jawaharlal Nehru of India and Liaquat Ali Kahn of Pakistan in a meeting at Lahore with the premiers of East and West Punjab.

Violence in the Punjab during recent weeks has been attributed to fears of Hindus and Moslems of losing important areas in the division of the province. A boundary commission's decision on the division was announced yesterday.

A. C. Bhatia, Hindu assistant editor of the Lahore Tribune, one of the oldest English-language newspapers in India, said he was in Lahore and Amritsar last week when boundary force soldiers opened fire on each other with rapid-fire weapons to protect refugees of their respective religious communities who were being evacuated by train.

Bhatia described Lahore as a city of terror. He said violence forced suspension of his newspaper.

Polish Spy Court Told U. S. Envoy Got Data

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 18 (U.P.). One of 17 defendants being tried on espionage charges today told the military court of Crakow that he had given "secret information" to former American Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane.

The defendant, Eugenius Balski, was liaison officer in the intelligence section of an underground movement. Balski said he acted on instructions of his chief, who also is on trial.

118 Cases Continued In Racial Disorders

Chicago, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—One hundred and eighteen persons arrested during disturbances at a housing project where several Negro families were moving in were given continuances until October 21 today, the court said, "to think over their actions."

The arrests resulted from catcalling, stoning and other disturbances at the Fernwood housing project, 105th st. and Emerald ave. on the South Side.

ABOUT THE PRICE OF MEAT

Less than a cent a pound

The United States makes no coin small enough to represent the meat packing industry's average net profit on a pound of meat. This always has been less than a cent.

Actually the net profit (after all expenses) is less than 7 cents a week if you buy for the average family of four. Yet it covers the meat packing companies' total net earnings on all of these services to you and your family.

Buying livestock and paying out millions of dollars daily for it.

Operating plants, machinery and equipment (employing over a quarter million people).

Preparing fresh meat, ham, bacon, sausage, canned meats, etc.

Delivering meat, under refrigeration, a few blocks or a thousand miles, to your store.

The profit for these services makes no appreciable difference in the price you pay for a pound of meat.

Meat prices, whether up or down, are determined by competition. Just as the more than 4,000 separate meat packing companies compete with each other in buying livestock and selling meat . . . so millions of shoppers select meat daily from the available supply.

And at retail, when meat cuts are in large supply, prices are lower than when they are in limited supply. The supply of one meat or another may change greatly from week to week or season to season. This results in meat prices going up or down.

New Idea Offered For British Movies

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—Paramount will produce another superduper western in color. It has bought "Story of Laredo" by Norman Reilly Raine, writer of those delightful "Tugboat Annie" stories. Why wouldn't it be a good idea to bring Annie back to the screen? I've missed her . . . John Garfield will make Ring Lardner, jr.'s, story "The Great Indoors" for Enterprise. It's about a fellow who hates exercise until he meets an athletic beauty, a la Jinx Falkenburg, who sends him outdoors pronto.

Orson Welles is still set to act in "All the King's Men" for Columbia . . . Carl Brisson, vacationing here, is feeding half of Beverly Hills. He has been catching king lobsters (that's right, too, he sent me one almost as big as a cow, and delicious). If he keeps this up, Carl can quit singing and sell lobsters . . . The Paul Hollisters are holding forth at Cheever Cowdin's home while the Cowdins are in London. Paul is New York public relations head of RKO, and his beautiful Carole produces the Theater Guild's air show.

A Fair Exchange?

A realistic proposal by a notable American economist is en route to Whitehall suggesting that the trade balance in pictures be reestablished by the immediate reparation of 75 per cent of British actors, writers, and directors who have fattened off American film salaries during the war. All those delivered their military services during the period 1939-1945 are, of course, to be exempt, with highest honors. But the 75 per cent quota can be amply and practically filled by those who made no war contribution, and whose annual "take" from the studios during the war period is conservatively estimated by the economists as exceeding 75 million, or 21 million dollars in excess of the sum which the British now claim as their dire need and the prime cause of the 75 per cent confiscation tax. . . .

Jack Larue, who had difficulty getting parts here, cabled me from London that since the 75 per cent tax went into effect he had been swamped with offers. He has already signed for two films at $75,000 per. . . . Doris Cline writes from London that they're winding up "Oliver Twist" over there, and Ann Todd is set for H. G. Wells' "This Passionate Friend." The producer is searching the empire for another Leslie Howard to play opposite her.

Hughes Resuming "Vendetta"

Mel Ferrer tells me Howard Hughes' "Vendetta" goes into another month's shooting in September. David Backin, who composed the song, "Laura," will write music for it. . . . Since that Hughes-Brewster investigation is over for the time being, at least, who is going to start investigating the investigators? It's an idea for a comedy if someone has the courage to make it. . . . Irene Dunne wants a musical without mothers, which she has played in her last two pictures. . . . Myrna Loy's work in "The Best Years" added $50,000 to her salary. She now gets $200,000 a picture.

Brian Donlevy played George Washington in a picture some years ago. Now he'd like to produce the life of Washington as an independent. Bob Mitchum's brother Jack, a heavyweight boxing champ in the Pacific during the war, makes his screen debut in "The Prairie," and he's a dead ringer for Brother Bob.

He's Still Pitching

Leo Durocher may sign up as manager of Bing Crosby's Pittsburgh Pirates. Meantime, Bing is off to Jasper Lake for more fishing. Dixie and the boys remain on the ranch until school opens. Bing's mother says: "For a supposedly lazy man, Bing's the most active son I've got. When he wasn't doing anything else, he went out and helped pitch hay" . . . A friend of mine, unable to take a vacation, bought a trailer, parked it in her avocado grove, and sleeps there. She hung this motto over the door: "Enjoy yourself. It's later than you think." Some friends from the Middle West stopped by, had cocktails in the trailer, loved it. The husband said to his wife, "Let's buy one." They put in an order next day. But he never saw it. Three days later he had dropped dead of a heart attack . . .

Ty Power says, wouldn't you know it would happen? He chartered a yacht for a week's sailing. After one day out, an abscessed tooth kicked up and he had to put pack to have it lanced. Ty is busy getting passports for himself and friends for his flight to Egypt next month.

Jennifer Reneges

The La Jolla playhouse was entirely sold out for the week of August 26, when Jennifer Jones, Gregory Peck and Eve Arden were announced for "Voice of The Turtle." So what happens? Jennifer Jones gets scared, backs out. Now they'll get Greg Peck and Loraine Day in "Angel Street," a complete anticlimax. It had a long run on Broadway, San Diego saw a road company, and Metro made a picture of it titled "Gas Light." However, La Jolla fans may get Leo Durocher's autograf. . . .

Jan Kiepura writes from Rome that it's hot. You can buy anything which is different from Paris where prices are frightful. But both he and his wife will be happy when they finish their picture and can return home to Beverly Hills . . . Olivia DeHavilland and Marcus Goodrich are tossing a theater party for friends on the reopening night of "Gone With the Wind." . . . Judy Garland writes friends from the East that she's better. Expects to be home the end of September. . . . Sorry to hear Una Merkel is seriously ill again. . . . Don Barry, Joan Crawford's late boy friend, is playing a safe-cracker in "Slippy McGee."

IT'S RUMORED that Joan Bennett lives a nice, quiet life off the screen. Not so in the movies, for here she is, pretty upset, in her latest film, "Secret Beyond the Door"

Unbelievable!

Hollywood.—John Hoyt, a well-known New York night club entertainer, claims to have spent but 45 minutes in Hollywood nighteries since he invaded Hollywood a year ago to make his fortune in motion pictures! "Too busy," said Hoyt, who has a featured role in Ann Sheridan's latest Warner Brothers' starrer, "The Unfaithful."

Build Elevator

Authentic replica of a Midwestern grain elevator was constructed on a studio stage for drama of wheat harvesting, "Wild Harvest," starring Alan Ladd, Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston.

Not Job to Pine For

Holllywood.—Property men had to hose down an acre of pine and aspen trees recently for a scene in "Roughshod," now on location in the Sonora Pass country of the High Sierras.

The big wash job was necessary to get the dust off the needles and heaves, and provide highlights when the sun hit them.

7 White Men Freed On Bond in Negro Lynching Attempt

Jackson, N. C., Aug. 18 (U.P.).—Seven white men went free on bond today to await a hearing September 2 as the State moved to reverse a grand jury's action and bring them to trial in the attempted lynching of a 24-year-old Negro sawmill worker.

The men, all from nearby Rich Square, N. C., were rearrested yesterday on charges of conspiracy and breaking and entering a jail with intent to kill or injure a prisoner. They were freed immediately on $2500 bond each.

Gov. Gregg Cherry ordered Superior Judge J. Paul Frizzelle to investigate the case, sit as a committing magistrate and bring the men to trial.

A preliminary hearing for the men will be held in Jackson September 2.

Group Urges Scenic Beauties Be Preserved

Frederick, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—Members of the Confederation of Maryland Communities, Inc., today urged the "preservation of the scenic and natural beauties" along the new Frederick-Hagerstown hwy on a cooperative basis.

The group, headed by James H. Gambrill of Frederick, called for the designation of "commercial" and "protected" areas along the 24-mile route, now under construction.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Mystery Investigation Flusters Inner Circles

By Robert S. Allen

(While Drew Pearson is on vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

Latest mystery flustering inner Capital circles is a very hush-hush Federal grand jury in New York that is apparently probing another New Deal trail.

This much has been definitely learned:

The jury is made up of a highly select group.

Two Justice Department attorneys are directing the proceedings.

More than 25 witnesses have already been interrogated.

Practically all these witnesses are Government employes or former employes, connected with the Treasury, Foreign Economic Administration, and the Office of Strategic Services.

The investigation has nothing to do with the atomic bomb.

Significant clew on the big-name individuals the grand jury is interested in is indicated by some of the questions tossed at witnesses. They have been asked:

"Do you know Henry Morgenthau?" (Former Secretary of the Treasury and intimate of the late President Roosevelt.)

Morgenthau

"Do you know Gen. William J. Donovan?" (Congressional Medal of Honor winner in World War I, founder and commander of the OSS in World War II, and a trusted Roosevelt adviser on foreign problems.)

"Do you know Bernard Baruch?" (World War I production czar, close Roosevelt friend and adviser, and author of the U. S. plan for international control of the A-bomb.)

"Do you know Harry White?" (Assistant Treasury Secretary under Morgenthau, brilliant monetary expert, and mastermind of the Bretton Woods Conference that resulted in the establishment of the World Bank.)

Another mysterious question asked witnesses who were former OSS men was: "Did General Donovan ever warn you that you might be investigated some time and tell you never to divulge anything about the OSS?"

Most of the witnesses have departed from the jury room knowing little more than when they entered as to just what is being probed. However, several have reached this conclusion:

That the investigation is directed at the Morgenthau Plan, under which Germany's industry (and war potential) would be cut to the bone and the country's economy put on an agricultural basis. Roosevelt approved this plan over the opposition of the State Department and powerful business and banking interests.

Biggest Secret Service headache in guarding President Truman is his insistence on traveling by plane. The Secret Service is very uneasy about this; constantly is trying to figure out ways to keep Truman on the ground.

Reason they've had no luck is his fatalism.

He has an unshakable view on that. He explained it to a friend.

"When your number's up," the President said, smiling, "it makes no difference whether you are in a plane, a train, an auto, or a skiff. If it's up, it's up and that's that."

Tall, friendly Attorney General Tom Clark got himself smash headlines throughout the country with his announcement of a Justice Department probe of high prices. But the moot question arises when the amiable Texan will find the time to make this probe.

In recent weeks, he has spent much of his time traveling about the country making speeches.

The following is a partial list of Clark's talks: The Rotary International Convention in San Francisco; Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va.; National 4-H Clubs citizenship ceremonies in Washington; Elks' National Convention in Portland, Oreg.; International Sunday School Convention in Des Moines, Iowa.

Kim Ho, leader of the Korean Legislative Assembly, has made a profound discovery. He has uncovered what makes governments go round. He explained it to Maj. Gen. Archer Lerch, U. S. Military Governor of Korea.

"I have learned," said Kim Ho, "that it takes a lot of talk to run a government."

With the loyalty check of Government employes in full stride, the Army is unhappily sitting on an awkward wartime boner. It has discovered that it drafted a Soviet citizen and kept him in the service for a year.

Actually, it wasn't the Army's fault. It was a mistake due to the carelessness of a local draft board and, apparently, the ignorance of the Russian.

He was a native of Big Diomede, and at the time was visiting on Little Diomede. Both are islands, about 10 miles apart, off the coast of Alaska. But there is this big difference between them: Big Diomede belongs to the Soviets; Little Diomede to the U. S.

When the draft board arrived at Little Diomede it found no records available on which to act. So the board simply lined up the 10 huskiest young men and told them, "You're it!" The Russian from Big Diomede, apparently, didn't know what it was all about and raised no objection.

He was inducted and served as a U. S. soldier for a year.

Like the weather, everyone talks about the tragic displaced-persons problem, but few really do anything about it. President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall repeatedly and urgently pleaded with Congress to open the door to some of these helpless war victims. But all Congress did was to authorize junketing committees to go to Europe to "investigate the situation."

The Senate committee, headed by Senator W. Chapman Revercomb of West Virginia, is getting ready for an early departure. As part of his preparations, Revercomb is hiring "experts" to accompany the committee.

One of these so-called "experts" under serious consideration by Revercomb is Percy L. Greaves, jr. Greaves is a former associate of Merwin K. Hart, head of the virulently isolationist National Economic Council, and author of a Hart-sponsored pamphlet entitled "Operation Immigration," that denounces labor, DPs, and certain racial groups.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

IF A 190-POUND MAN can look skinny and underfed, well, that's what the new Dutch Leonard looks like in the uniform of the Phillies. His former Washington teammates gaped yesterday at the sylph-like figure of the once paunchy Leonard who used to be the unjolly fat man of the Nats' pitching staff.

POVICH

"He doesn't even look healthy," said Stan Spence, as Leonard walked across the field after paying a call at the Washington dugout.

"He looks pretty good in those box scores," said Buddy Lewis, and there was unanimous agreement on that point.

The Natinoal League box scores this season have, indeed, reflected Leonard as the picture of health. His latest effort was a 6-hit shutout of the Giants, supposedly the most murderous hitting crew in the league. That was his fourteenth victory for the eighth place Phillies.

The Phillies came up with the best $10,000 bargain of the year when they bought Leonard from the Nats at the waiver price. The only pitcher in the league to win more games than Leonard is the redoubtable Ewell Blackwell, of the Reds.

IT NEVER WAS QUITE clear why the Nats unloaded Leonard so cheaply, despite the fact he could only break even in 20 decisions for the Washington club last year. Clark Griffith always did complain, however, that the large fellow wasn't doing right by the club; that he wasn't keeping in shape and that he ate too much.

"You know," said Leonard yesterday, "Mr. Griffith was probably right. I used to get down to 208 pounds and think I was in shape. I took off 20 pounds this year and it helped me in a couple of ways. That broken ankle that used to bother me doesn't any more. The weight I took off helped it."

Dieting made the difference, said Leonard. "I cut out all those starches, potatoes and bread and butter, and those night snacks the ballplayers like before they turn in. I went to bed hungry, but I got used to that. I was compensated for it, though, when I looked in the morning papers and saw that wonderful line in the box score—'Winning pitcher, Leonard'—that was a great substitute for the food I didn't eat."

YEAH, THERE'S A difference about the National and American Leagues, Leonard says he discovered, "but it isn't the difference I thought it would be. All my life I've heard that the American League had the most power hitters, but I don't think that goes this year. We have more tougher guys to pitch to, more fellows who can knock the ball out of the lot than they do in the American. You've got to be awfully careful."

The Phillies' catchers, Andy Seminick and Al Lakeman, do pretty well with his knuckleball, Leonard said. "I know it's tough on 'em, but they box it pretty well. It gets away occasionally, but I'm resigned to that. It's my bread-and-butter pitch and gets me out of a lot of jams with men on third and less than two out. It's liable to cost me a run if it gets away from the catcher, but I always did say I live and die with my knuckler."

At 37, he's headed for his best year since 1939 when he won 20 games for the Nats. There's a nice, new contract awaiting him at the end of the season. Twenty wins for a last-place club, quite possible for Leonard, would be a mark of distinction surpassing any pitching record in the American League. Last year at this time, he was thinking of retiring to his Auburn, Ill., bowling alleys.

LEONARD'S FOUR-YEAR limp on his broken ankle is no longer noticeable. The manner in which he fractured his ankle is something of a tip-off on the zest with which he plays the game. Trite as it is, you'd have to call him a ballplayers' ballplayer. He got hurt that day trying to beat out an infield hit with a slide into first base. Imagine that, a pitcher sliding into first.

There was a somewhat amusing sequel to Leonard's fracture. He didn't pitch from April to September, but finally he returned to the mound with the Yankees at Griffith Stadium. Before the game, as the Yankees passed the Washington dugout they stopped to chat with Leonard, quite solicitous of his broken ankle, apparently.

"Glad to see you back, Dutch. Hope the ankle's all right. They say you get around pretty well on it." That's the way the Yankees talked. "They're nice guys," said Leonard to a nearby baseball writer. A few minutes later he wondered. The first four Yanks he faced bunted to his bad ankle side.

Nats Find Team They Can Lick: Phils, 3-0

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The Nats found somebody they could lick, and won a ball game yesterday, but unfortunately it was unofficial. They beat the Phillies of the National League, 3 to 0, in a special exhibition before 3200 fans who contributed $3000 to the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund.

Giving evidence that they have been operating in the wrong league all season, the Nats battered their way out of a scoreless tie in the eighth inning and swatted home all three of the game's runs.

Nats Jump on Chapman

Until Manager Ben Chapman, with commendable spirit but bad judgment, took over their pitching, the Phillies were getting no worse than a draw. An old pitcher himself, Chapman made an unadvertised entrance into the ball game in the eighth and it was against him that the Nats unloaded their three-run uprising.

The ball game was a very racy affair, completed in one hour 26 minutes. Rookie Scott Cary breezed through six scoreless innings against the Phils and then Sid Hudson took over to pitch three hitless innings in what was a pleasing test for his recently sore arm. One man reached base against Hudson, on an error.

Rookie Fred Schmidt shut the Nats out for four innings and then Tom Hughes shut 'em out for three more, without a hit, but with the appearance of Chapman the Nats got going. Johnny Sullivan greeted him with a two-bagger to left center and after Mancuso flied out, Hudson beat out an infield single. A walk to Yost filled the bases.

Sherry Robertson got the first run home with a fly to center and then Joe Grace provided the big hit—a double to left that scored Hudson and Yost.

Wynn Steals Side Show

The fans were treated to a jolly pregame show with Nick Altrock clowning all over the place and Early Wynn displaying unsuspected talents as an Altrock mimic, even simulating the Altrock paunch . . . Nine-year-old Tommy Baker gave another of his exhibitions from the pitching mound, with Chic Pieretti as his batting stooge . . . Wynn produced the big laugh when he lassoed Altrock with unerring aim and dragged him from the field, a version of the Cherokee rope trick . . . The customers got a belt out of the proceedings when 48-year-old Benny Bengough, catcher-coach of the Phillies, moved into the game as Chapman's battery mate and responded to the applause by doffing his cap and displaying baseball's most beautiful head of skin . . . Harry Walker of the Phils didn't dally long in demonstrating why he is the National League's leading hitter. He beat out a bunt in his first time up and in his next he lashed a double off the right-field wall . . . Johnny Sullivan, playing second base, started a fancy double play that got young Cary out of trouble in the sixth inning.

Brooklyn Wins First Game, 7-5 Second, 12-3

BULLETIN

Brooklyn, Aug. 18.—The Brooklyn Dodgers won the second game of their doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals, 12-3, tonight, to increase their National League lead to 6½ games over the Redbird, having won the first game in the afternoon, 7-5.

Brooklyn, Aug. 18 (AP).—Having conquered the St. Louis Cards 7-5 in the first game of their afternoon-night doubleheader, the National League-leading Brooklyn Dodgers were out to make it a clean sweep tonight before a crowd of approximately 33,000 fans.

Manager Burt Shotton selected Harry Taylor, his righthanded rookie hurler with a 9-5 record, while Eddie Dyer, Redbird leader, nominated Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, winner of 14 games against six defeats.

The Cards, 5½ games behind following the afternoon loss, counted on Brecheen's wizardy under the lights. The little southpaw had won nine games and lost only one in night game competition. He had a 2-2 record against the Dodgers.

Taylor had won two out of three from the Cards including a three-hit, 4-0 shutout in St. Louis July 29.

This was the playoff of the disputed July 20 game, which the Dodgers won in the ninth 3-2, only to have the St. Louis protest upheld by Ford Frick, National League president.

Everybody including club officials and writers paid to see tonight's game, with the receipts going to the Brooklyn War Memorial Fund.

Brecheen Chased

After scoring two runs on three hits in the second frame for a 2-1 edge, the Brooks belted Brecheen off the rubber in the third inning with a four-hit attack that produced as many runs and they added another marker off reliever Red Munger.

The Brooks batted around in the five-run third with the big hits being furnished by Carl Furillo and Pee Wee Reese. Each doubled with the bases loaded to drive in two runs apiece. Brecheen left the game with Reese on second and Bruce Edwards, big gun of the afternoon game with two triples, on third.

Munger purposedly passed Spider Jorgensen to fill the sacks and after getting Brooklyn hurler Harry Taylor t ohit into a force at the plate, walked Ed Stanky to force in a run.

St. Louis Catcher Del Rice protested the play and was ejected from the game. Jackie Robinson struck out to end the inning.

The Cards went ahead 1-0 in the first on Whitey Kurowski's twentieth homer of the year. Brooklyn toow its 2-1 margin in the second on Furillo's single, Edwards' double and a single by Jorgensen.

The Cards added two more in the sixth as Enos Slaughter slammed a homer with Terry Moore on base to make the score 7-3. Brooklyn got one of these tallies back in the last of the sixth when Taylor was hit by a pitched ball, was sacrificed to second and scored on Furillo's single.

Lombardi Hurls Victory in Opener

Brooklyn, Aug. 18 (AP).—Little Vic Lombardi demonstrated today that his nerves were as steady as his stout left arm as he pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to the 7-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of the afternoon-night doubleheader.

The spunky southpaw, with the help of "old reliable" Hugh Casey, checked the desperate Red Birds with eight hits, allowing only three safeties after the third inning before tiring in the ninth. Only an hour before game time, Lombardi learned that his wife had to under-

Yarosz Easy Winner Over Washington

Tommy Yarosz, Pittsburgh's ranking middleweight contender, boxed and clouted his way to a ten-round decision over Bee Bee Washington last night at Griffith Stadium before 2522 paying fans who contributed a gate of $5981.

Outstepping Bee Bee and scoring with two-fisted flurries to the head, Yarosz won nine of the ten rounds. The two fighters weighed in at 163 pounds.

The fancy stepping Pittsburgher took the first round by a slight margin, and hooked solidly to Washington's head to pile up more points in the second round. Bee Bee's long lefts, however, were keeping Yarosz at a distance for most of the fighting.

Yarosz Shots Tell

Bee Bee was winning the third-round until the final seconds when he was clipped with two hard rights to the head after missing a left. Washington, bolder as the round opened, banged two hard left hooks to Yarosz's head and hurt him with a right to the body to make the Pittsburgher hold on.

The action continued fast in the fourth round with Yarosz again taking command and belting Washington with hooks to both body and head.

Bee Bee Wins Sixth

After being belted freely at the outset of the fifth without throwing a punch in return, Bee Bee lashed at Yarosz with both hands to make the Pittsburgher retreat. But the sharp-shooting Yarosz bounced back with punching flurries to win his fifth straight round.

With new fury Washington came out punching at the start of the sixth and landed solidly to Yarosz's head with repeated lefts. They stood toe to toe in midring as the crowd whooped it up at the frenzied action. A hard right to the head failed to slacken Bee Bee and Yarosz held on. It was Washington's round.

Tommy Piles Up Points

Washington was willing again in the seventh but was pelted with punches by the clever Yarosz. He slowed Bee Bee with a hard right to the head midway in the round but Washington returned to the attack in the final minute. It was Yarosz' round.

Yarosz stabbed Bee with jabs in the eighth and Washington was fumbling in his attempts to reach the Pittsburgher. Bee Bee landed a hard left hook to the body in the final minute but took a harder left hook to the face before the bell, as Yarosz continued to pile up points.

Yarosz used all his tricks to befuddle Washington in the ninth, sticking the local fighter with jabs, dancing out of reaching of Washington's counter-punching and tieing Bee Bee up when they clinched. Bee was holding his own in a free-swinging setto at the bell.

Finding Bee Bee still willing to mix it in the tenth, Yarosz continued to pelt him but without great damage. Washington landed solidly to the body but took three hard rights to the head in return. Washington was missing with wild swings at the final bell.

Charley Toler, Washington 143-pounder, featured the preliminary card with a third-round technical knockout of Billy Untz, also of Washington. Toler floored Untz with a left hook in the first round and put him down three more times before the fight was stopped.

Angry Frick Orders Phils, Bums to Resume Game

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP).—President Ford Frick of the National League today ordered that yesterday's second game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies at Shibe Park be replayed as a "suspended game," starting at the last half of the seventh inning with the Dodgers leading, 5-4.

Seething after receiving a report from his umpires, Frick called the game which was halted by the 7 o'clock Pennsylvania curfew a "farcical exhibition which was a disgrace to baseball and a complete travesty of all the rules of sportsmanship."

The game was called at 6:59 p. m. by Umpire George Barr shortly after Harry Walker, first Philadelphia batter in the last of the seventh inning, had taken his place at the plate. The count on him was two balls and one strike, and that is precisely where the clubs will resume play on September 25.

* * * *

FRICK was angered by the report that the Phillies deliberately stalled for time after the Dodgers scored what might have been the winning run in the first half of the seventh. They told Frick that the Phils made no attempt to put out Brooklyn base runners, and otherwise employed means of "beating the clock."

"This office cannot and will not tolerate such tactics, nor can it condone the resultant profit which would accrue to the two clubs involved as the result of replaying this game from its beginning," Frick said.

The remaining 2½ frames will be played off before a regularly scheduled game between the two clubs on September 25.

'Skins Undergo Stiff Drill on Pass Defense

Los Angeles, Aug. 18.—Extremely mindful of the Los Angeles Rams' successful passing attack engineered by Bob Waterfield in their last two games—and defeats—the Washington Redskins took an overdose of aerial defensive work today at Occidental College as they prepared for their clash with the Rams at the Coliseum on September 5.

Not only was the Redskins' secondary getting a lot of practice covering receivers, but Coach Turk Edwards also had his big, right tackle, John (Tree) Adams, barging in to give the throwers a rough time.

Adams was one of the best in the league on this type of work last year and it appears likely that he will be even better this fall. Six feet seven and one-half inches tall, Big John weighs in excess of 255 pounds and still can handle himself with speed.

Delights in Smashing

It's discouraging for a thrower to see Adams suddenly towering over him and the fromer Notre Dame star counts that game lost when he falls to make a T quarterback's life miserable.

Naturally, he was letting Sammy Baugh and Jim Youdel off lightly today, but that's because of orders. The boys say Adams just naturally hates passers, like a Texan hates a side-winder.

Assisting him this year will be Ed Cifers, 6 feet 2 inches and who has been moved to tackle. Ed thinks the new work will be most interesting and enjoyable.

Waterfield completed 6 of 14 passes for 286 yards over the Redskins last year, including a 22-yard throw to Fred Gehrke for a touchdown.

Injuries Jinx Colts' Squad

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 18.—Two more gridders were added to the Blatimore Colts' hospital list as Quarterback Owen Goodnight and Guard Bill Hempel were banged up in today's rough workout prescribed by Coach Cecil Isbell to ready the Hosses for their first taste of outside competition, Friday night at Hershey Stadium against the Buffalo Bills of the All-American Conference.

Goodnight was thought to have fractured his thigh in nailing All-America End Bub Bachtol with a vicious tackle, and was removed from the field in an ambulance.

Suffers Dislocted Hip

X-ray examination later disclosed that he had suffered a dislocated hip. Thta there was no break was small consolation but Owen will be sidelined just as long anyway. He will not see action for more than a month and perhaps for the rest of the season.

A wrenched knee put Hempel out of commission. Trainer Fitz Lutz reported that the Hoss guard, recently converted from tackle, will be inactive from eight to ten days.

Fullback Don Reece is still on the sidelines as the result of a similar injury suffered in last week's intrasquad game.

One Cripple Returns

On the credit side of the "cripples" Ledger was the reappearance for light duty of Tackle George Hekkers, injured i nthe same tussle last week.

Emile Fritz, University of Maryland guard who dislocated his shoulder more than two weeks ago, is also working out more actively each day and is figured to be just about ready.

The Kids Come Through Again

IT WAS JUST ANOTHER one of those phone calls that turned into a story . . . and because of it Clark Griffith, Chairman of the local Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund committee is in for a little surprise.

The kid on the other end of the line had this question:

"We had a carnival out at our house today and raised $13, and we want to give it to the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund. What do we do now?"

We quickly told the voice Mr. Griffith's address and the money was to be put into the mail.

Nine-year-old Stephan Friedlander, of 1304 Sheridan st. nw., was the carnival host—having talked his parents into having the house converted into the "neighborhood midway."

The kids sold lemonade, koolade and candy; peddled comic books and held games of quoits and skeeball. In addition to the actual receipts from the carnival, several neighbors donated money to the fund.

The other kids who performed and worked under the "big top" are Harriet Hyman, 12, of 1331 Rittenhouse st. nw.; Lillian Scanlon, 12, 1326 Sheridan st. nw.; Patsy Simms, 12, 1330 Sheridan st. nw.; Robert Friedl, 12, 1324 Sheridan st. nw., and Marvin Kay, 13, of 1310 Sheridan st nw.

Kids? Maybe in size but not in the size of their hearts.

Richmond Gets Steeler Fullback

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—The Richmond Rebels, of the Dixie Pro Football League, announced today they had acquired Steve Veravica, former college of the Pacific backfield flash, on option from the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Veravica, 220-pound fullback, is the fifth player to be optioned to Richmond by the Steelers. Others previously sent to the Rebels include Tackle John Waters, End Melvin Bevon, and Backs Lou Furlong and Johnvalita.

Finns Probe Pro Charges Against Distance Runner

Helsinki, Aug. 18 (AP).—The Finnish Athletic Association today denied a published report that Viljo Heino, famous Finnish middle distance runner, had been disqualified for life, but acknowledged it was conducting an investigation of his amateur status.

Heino, holder of the world record for six miles, 10 miles and 10,000 meters, has been accused by newspaper of having received 50,000 Finnmarks for running at Rovaniemi in northern Finland.

Lions Buy Pair From Rockets

Philadelphia, Aug. 18 (AP).—The Philadelphia Rockets of the American Hockey League today sold John Muretich, a center, and Defenseman George Pearson to the Washington Lions in the same circuit. Washington is returning to competition in the American loop after an absence of several years.

Weary Nats Face Indians

The Nats, with reason to be road-weary even before they hit the road, entrained last night for a Western tour starting at Cleveland today, where they are faced with the first of five consecutive double-headers.

They play twi-night twin bills with the Indians today and tomorrow, then move to Detroit for two double-headers in a row, and after a single game on Saturday they open at St. Louis with another double-header, their fifth in six days.

Manager Ossie Bluege is frankly worried about where all his pitching is coming from. He will work Masterson and Scarborough against the Indians today, but all of the nine pitchers on the staff will see heavy duty the rest of the week.

There was a pleasing item for Bluege yesterday. Hudson, in his three innings of toil against the Phillies, not only had no reaction from his recently sore pitching arm, but held the Phils hitless. He declared after the game that his fast ball was faster than at any time this season.

Against that comforting item, however, was the news that Early Wynn was found to have a chipped elbow bone. Wynn was examined by a doctor yesterday and was told the injury was not serious. His last two starts, in which he suffered defeats by a pair of 2-1 scores, did not indicate that Wynn was suffering greatly.

Another thing the Nats took into the West with them was a seven-game losing streak.

Herberts Win Mixed Doubles

George and Willie Herbert teamed to win the Recreation Department tennis mixed doubles championship by downing Col. Nick Powel and Slinor Shaw, 6—3, 7—5, yesterday on the 16th and Kennedy st. courts.

Mrs. Herbert had previously captured the women's singles crown, while Powel was the men's singles winner and Miss Shaw a member of the winning women's doubles team.

Bell Plans to Use 5 Officials a Game

Philadelphia, Aug. 18 (AP).—Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, today announced 33 men, operating in crews of 5, will officiate the 1947 campaign.

Bell said in addition to the regular referee, umpire, head linesman and field judge, a fifth official—the back judge—will be assigned to detect rule violations committed by the offensive backfield.

Johnson School's 'Little Series' Opens Today

FOUR GAMES today open the Little World Series at Griffith Stadium.

Champions of four classes in the Eastern and Western Divisions meet in a three-game series to determine the champions of the Walter Johnson Memorial Baseball League.

At 9 a. m., the Takoma Black Cats, boasting a 7-0 season record in Western division play, meet the Anacostia Eagles, champions of the Eastern Division, whose record stands at 15-0, in a 12-year-and-under contest.

The second game will be between the Banneker Yellow Jackets, Western division kings, who stand 9-1 over the season, and Kelly Miller, Eastern division titleholder with a 10-1 slate. This is also a 12-and-under game and begins at 11 a. m.

Two afternoon clashes in the 13-14-year division will complete the first day's play.

The Takoma Yellow Jackets face the Rosedale Indians at 2 p. m. and the Francis Bugs meet Parkside at 4.

Takoma racked up seven straight victories without a defeat in Western Division competition, while Rosedale had a 12-0 league mark in the Eastern half.

The Francis Bugs (Western Division) won nine and lost one, their opponent, Parkside (Eastern Division) captured seven games against a single loss.

The second games will be played tomorrow with the same starting times for each game. If third games are necessary in the series, they will be played Friday.

Officials have been picked from neutral playgrounds and scorers will be supplied by the Recreation Department.

Clark Griffith, owner of the Nats, has donated his ball park for the series. Griffith was one of the most enthusiastic backers of the Walter Johnson Memorial Baseball School which preceded play in the Johnson leagues.

Admission to the series is free.

Out Fishing...

By Jack Bell

WHITEFISH, MONT., AUG. 18.—Glacier National Park as compared to Yellowstone Park, offers a different brand of scenery and fishing.

Driving over "Going-to-the-Sun" highway which links Browning on the east crossing the continental divide at Logan Pass (elevation 6670 feet) and on through to the west entrance at Bellon, Mont., we were impressed by the height and ruggedness of the snow-covered mountains many with glistening glaciers.

Brown and black bears already have become as common to us as rabbits along Maryland and Virginia highways. Mountain goats and mountain sheep also were a novelty to us. Enroute we have found ample opportunity to observe with field glasses a number high up on the Rocky cliffs of Glacier Park.

NOTHING STRIKES one more than the great purity of the water in the lakes and streams we have fished. One has to be careful while wading; depths are most deceiving. We left Great Montana Friday, August 15, making short stopovers at Shelby and Browning.

Visiting the reservation of the Blackfeet Indians at Browning, the Indians put on a colorful show for the touring outdoor writer.

Your reporter and little Andy Anderson of Houston, Texas, were initiated into the Blackfeet tribe. Andy, well known for his work with disabled veterans, was named "Little-Fish-Big-Talk."

Your reporter was named "Four Bears" and made an honorary chief of the tribe, making him a chief of both North and South American Indians. While in Brazil it was our privilege to become adopted into the tribe of the Parnentintin of the upper Amazon.

TODAY WE CAME out of the Spotted Bear section of Montana which adjoins western Glacier Park. Driving 50 miles from Coram over rough lumbering roads to the "Knl" ranch. There we spent three days away from telephones and chambers of commerce fishing for trout in a primitive area. Cut throat and Dolly Varden trout in unlimited numbers are in the south fork of the Flathead River.

Sunday, through the courtesy of the U. S. Forest Service, we flew in an old Ford trimotor plane over 150 square miles of the wilderness area of both Marshall National Forest.

Flying at 10,000 feet, we saw many mountain goats, sheep and herds of elk that use the high country. This afternoon we leave by motor car north through Glacier Park for Waterton, Alberta, Canada, for six days' exploration of Alberta's trout streams and lakes.

Brewers Stave Off Rally in 9th

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Heurich's Brewers fought off a last-inning FBI rally to edge the G-Men, 2-1, and remain undefeated in the City Ceries before 3000 fans yesterday on the South Ellipse.

The victory gave Heurich a record of 3-0 in the series and dropped the previously unbeaten FBI team into second place with a 2-1 record.

Two unearned runs in the third inning appeared to give the Brewers a comfortable margin going into the last half of the ninth. Pitcher Harry Krouthamel had handcuffed the G-Men with one hit, and seemed to get better as the game moved along.

But F. B. I. got going in the ninth. Third Baseman Joe Brewer beat out a single off Krouthamel's glove. The Heurich pitcher bore down and struck out clean-up hitter Will Hust for the third time, but Bud Murnin singled deep to short, Brewer stopping at second.

Rally Falls Short

Krouthamel forced Player Manager Walt Morris to fly to right for the second out, but Catcher Stan Blaszek laced a clean single to left, scoring Brewer. Murnin moved to third on the hit and when the peg from the outfield got past Second Baseman Willie Kaufman, Murnin broke for the plate.

Krouthamel, however, raced over, picked up the ball and whipped it to Catcher Knocky Thomas. Thomas tagged Murnin out to end the game.

Heurich scored its brace of runs in the third as Krouthamel and Giegerich reached base on errors and scored on Bernie Good's double to left center.

Krouthamel Victor

Krouthamel, who struck out eight men and walked only two, went all the way for Heurich to receive credit for the victory.

Bob Cullen pitched seven innings for the G-Men, gave up all five Heurich hits and walked one batter. Paul Schaeffer mopped up for the losers, striking out two and holding Heurich hitless in his one inning on the mound.

League Head Urges Batter's Headguard

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 18 (AP). Even though major league players called it "sissy," a special headguard for batters may be made mandatory for American Association players.

President Frank G. Lane said he intended to make the suggestio nto club owners as a result of the beaning of Bob Ramazzotti, St. Paul shortstop, in a game here, August 7.

"I sincerely feel all batters should be made to wear a head protector for their own good," Lane said.

British Stars Upset Victims

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 18 (AP).—The national doubles tennis competition got away to an eyebrow-raising start today when Mrs. Magda Rurac of Romania and Mrs. Marjorie Buck of New York, an unseeded team, eliminated the top-ranking foreign entry, Mrs. Jean Bostwick and Mrs. Betty Hilton of England, 4—6, 6—2, 6—1, in a first-round match in the women's division.

The first-seeded male foreigners, Jack Bromwich and Colin Long of Australia, had an easy assignment, however, gaining the second round with a 6—3, 6—2, 6—2 triumph over Dick Hart of Miami and George Pero of Coral Gables, Fla.

Bob Falkenburg of Los Angeles and Tom Brown, jr., of San Francisco kept pace with the Australian Davis Cupsters by eliminating Jan Peten of Belgium and Armando Vieira of Brazil, 6—3, 8—6, 8—6, to uphold their fourth domestic seedings.

In other early first-round play, Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., and George Larned of Chicago advanced with a hard-earned 5—7, 6—3, 6—1, 4—6, 6—2, triumph over Brookline's Leonard Steiner and Sidney Shcwartz, and Francisco (Pancho) Segura of Miami and Enrique Morea of the Argentine sidelined unseeded Britishers Tony Mottram and G. L. Paish, 6—2, 6—4, 7—5.

Showers Halt Pub Parks Tennis

Indianapolis, Aug. 18 (AP).—Intermittent showers today delayed the opening of the National Public Parks Tennis Tournament today and only one match was completed in the morning men's singles round.

Seymour Greenberg of Chicago eliminated William Taylor of Columbus, Ind., in straight sets, 6—1, 6—2, 6—1.

Dick Cohen of Elizabeth, N. J., was leading Ted Hainline of Rock Island, Ill., 7—5, 5—2, when a downpour halted the match.

Feller Won't Cancel Tour; Talks With Veeck Tomorrow

Cleveland, Aug. 18 (U.P.).—Bob Feller, pitching ace of the Cleveland Indians, said today he had "no intention of canceling my barnstorming tour," and Tribe Head Bill Veeck added he had "no intention of asking him to do so."

"Ive got to go through with the two-week postseason schedule in the United States," Feller said. "I have obligated myself to other players and to businessmen. I certainly have no intention of hurting mystelf on the tour—it's half as long as last year's."

Meanwhile, Feller put off his talk with Veeck concerning his postseason plans for more urgent business in Waukegan, Ill.

Manager Lou Boudreau gave Feller permission to stop in Waukegan to be with his wife who is expecting the birth of their second child momentarily.

Feller and Veeck are expected to confer here Wednesday.

Veeck, still in Cleveland Clinic where he is undergoing treatment for his recently trimmed leg amputation, denied that he had any other purpose in talking to Feller than to establish a closer relationship so he could advise him on public relations.

"It's just a matter of not being able to win 30 games," Feller said. I'm sorrier than everybody else that I haven't. All the rest of this business doesn't mean a thing if I can win regularly."

Feller admitted in response to questions that his pitching is definitely below par this year."

"I don't want to say that I've lost my fast ball or anything like that," he said. "There's a lot about pitching that people don't understand."

Asked if he would call off the postseason touring if he were certain that last season's tour hurt his pitching this year, Feller said, "I'd be a chump not to if I thought that."

"What good am I and who would want me if I couldn't win up here?" he asked.

Next starting assignment for the hurler will be Thursday night against the Yankees in Municipal Stadium here.

DODGERS—From 14

go an emergency operation for a burst appendix.

Manager Burt Shotton, aware that the strain might prove too much for the 5-foot, 7-inch hurler, offered to alter his pitching rotation so that Lombardi could rush to his wife's bedside, but the gamester insisted on taking his regular turn on the mound.

Fans Behind Him

It appeared that the frenzied 32,781 fans who thrilled at the tight struggle realized Lombardi's position, although actually no one in the near-capacity crowd knew it, as they gave him a tremendous ovation when he trudged off the mound in the ninth with nobody out and the potential tying runs on first and second base.

Casey threw only three pitches in retiring the side. He threw two strikes to Batter Red Schoendienst. On the second pitch, Bernie Cregar, a pinch runner, wandered too far off second base and was cut down, Catcher Bruce Edwards to Third Baseman Johnny Jorgessen.

Schoendienst bounced the next pitch back to Casey who started a game-ending double play, Pee Wee Rees took Casey's toss to force Ron Northey at second and threw to first for the twin killing.

The victory, the Dodgers' fourth in a row over the Cards, evened their season's series with St. Louis at eight wins apiece.

Fourth in Row for Bums

Edwards, the stockily built receiver, was the Dodgers' batting star. He slammed two tremendous triples to drive in three mates and scored once himself. It was his second three-base hit, which featured a five-run fifth inning off Howie Pollet and put the Dodgers ahead to stay. That drove the Card lefthander from the mound.

The Brooks jumped on Pollet, one-time ace of St. Louis' mound staff, as if they were unaware that he had beaten them three times in four starts this season.

After Enos Slaughter had made a spectacular leaping one-hand catch off leadoff man Ed Stanky's screaming drive, Jackie Robinson slammed Pollet's first offering deep into the left-field stands for his ninth home run of the season. Edwards followed a walk to Pete Reiser with his first three-bagger, a drive over Terry Moore's head in deep center field.

'Drives Them Batty'

Colts Out to Fool Opponents With New 'Upsy-Downsy' Line

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP).—Coach Cliff Battles and his Brooklyn Dodgers in the All-America football conference can have their no-stoop, no-squat line—the Baltimore Colts are going to use a new one called the "upsy-downsy" line.

Coach Cecil Isbell, at present whipping the newest members of the conference into shape here, says he's going to show something new in football when the Colts meet the Buffalo Bills in an exhibition game at Hershey Stadium Friday night.

The upsy-downsy line really is simple, Isbell explains. The linemen don't move their feet, as in a shift, but raise and lower their bodies at odd moments between the time they line up for play and the snapping of the ball.

It is calculated to disturb the peace of mind of opposing linemen, and might draw them offside if they're not careful.

The quarterback will control the thing, giving instructions in the huddle. One or several linemen may do the upsy-downsy business, the linemen might be up, and start down, or be down and raise up—or just assume the orthodox stance and stay that way until the ball is snapped.

There'll be no rhythm that an opponent could figure out and follow.

Isbell says the only trouble is that the Colts sometimes have fooled even themselves with the up-and-down manipulations. He expects them to have it mastered, however, before long.

Freak shifts that befuddle opposing linemen have been ruled out, but the rules say nothing about this upsy-downsy business, declares Isbell.

Brooklyn linemen are bending only enough to put their hands on their knees, and Battles believes his "high line" permits his players to charge faster and get downfield quicker.

Dampness Halts Utah Speed Tests

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Aug. 18 (AP).—Excessive moisture on this saline track today forced Drivers John Cobb of London and Ab Jenkins of Salt Lake City to revise their plans for assaults on world automobile speed records.

Cobb's attempt to shatter his world record of 369.7 miles per hour was tentatively scheduled for Saturday. He had hoped to test his car early this week, then make his official run Friday.

Jenkins, whose car, driven by Designer Bud Winfield of La Canada, Calif., surpassed the American record for the kilometer on its initial test run yesterday, was forced to postpone his long distance record run from tomorrow until probably Wednesday.

'Battery' Case At Hagerstown

Baltimore, Aug. 18 (AP).—The State Racing Commission received a report today that Jockey Philip Kirkpatrick had been suspended by stewards at Hagerstown track when a battery was found in his possession after the seventh race last Friday.

Kirkpatrick was up on Strolling Lee, which won the seventh and paid $5.60, $3.40 and $2.40 for $2.

Western Open Deadline

WINTER'S AHEAD...

. . . And there's no time like the present for seeing that your coal bin is filled, ready for the first chill day that heralds harsher weather to come! Have your dealer take your order now — don't wait until leaves fall, when the "last minuters" and "Johnny-order-latelies" swamp supply and delivery!

Coal in your bin is just like money in the bank — it's there when you need it. And "Fuel Satisfaction", the all-purpose bituminous coal mined along the Norfolk and Western Railway, because of its superior quality, is money in the bank that pays extra dividends of comfort, convenience and economy.

For the winter ahead, call for coal — but remember "Fuel Satisfaction"!

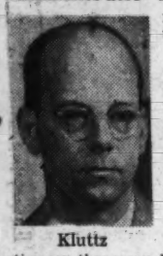
Dormitories at Langston, Potomac Park May Close

GOVERNMENT GIRLS: A tentative decison has been made to close several large Government girl dormitories here—if the occupancy rate continues to nose-dive.



Kluttz

On the list slated for closing are all the dormitories in the West Potomac Park area behind the Navy buildings, and several dormitories for Negro girls at Langston. Action on these can be expected reasonably soon.

The 800-odd girls in the West Potomac dorms would be moved across the Potomac to Arlington Farms. The Arlington Farms have a capacity of 4275, but only about 3000 girls now live there. Officials say these dorms could easily take care of the 800-odd girls in the more convenient West Potomac project.

It isn't planned to close out completely the Langston project as has been rumored. Several dormitories, however, would be closed and the girls in them would be moved into vacancies in the dorms to be kept open.

Housing officials say a consolidation of the girls into fewer dormitories will cut operating costs.

The only possibility that could change present plans and keep all projects open is the recentralization program. Several agencies that are to be moved back here within the next few months have requested rooms in the dormitories for their girls. But officials believe the projects can be closed and the influx of new girls accommodated elsewhere as the occupancy rate is declining steadily.

LOYALTY: The Civil Service Commission plans to hold the first meeting of its 15-man loyalty review board the last Friday in September. It now plans to have the President announce the membership of the board by September 15.

It's a good bet that the board chairman will be a retired Federal judge, and that two of its part-time members will be: Earl Harrison, a Republican lawyer from Philadelphia, who formerly was commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and Charles Fahy, former Solicitor General and general counsel of the State Department.

STATE: Undersecretary Robert Lovett has brought in Col. "Tic" Bonesteel to be his special assistant. The colonel is on leave from the War Department where he formerly worked with Lovett.

Lovett also has brought in on a temporary assignment Tex Thornton, who is director of planning for the Ford Motor Co. Thornton will work on procedural problems for about 30 days. He was in the War Department during the war.

Harry Kurth has resigned as director of budget and is planning to return to his old job as deputy director of the Bureau of Federal Supply. Carney Howell is acting chief.

PEOPLE: Paul Herzog, the NLRB chairman, returns to his desk today after a month's illness . . . William Covington, an attorney, is the new personnel officer for Interstate Commerce . . . Barney Mullady was sworn in yesterday as information chief at the Federal Works Agency . . . Ernie Hall will resign as executive officer of Federal Works to take over an Iowa construction firm. Another good man lost to Government.

LABOR: The Wage and Hour Division will now handle administration of child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. Congress directed its transfer from the Division of Labor Standards. Elizabeth S. Johnson will be chief of the new office, and Elizabeth B. Coleman the child labor adviser in the field operations branch.

PERSONNEL: New personnel ceilings for the second quarter beginning October 1 were announced yesterday by Budget Director James Webb. The ceiling for all agencies is 2,020,832, a figure believed to be greater than present employment.

Webb said the Postoffice Department had been given an increase of 45,700 during the quarter to handle the rush of Xmas mail. The decrease for all other agencies totals 28,300.

COMMERCE: A "break" for laid-off career people is near in this department. Piled up at Commerce are displacement certificates of 300 career people. The department has promised to make placements if the Civil Service Commission will permit it, to:

1. Give it greater "flexibility" in finding jobs now held by war service and temporary employees, and,

2. Allow its personnel assignment board to handle the cases in competition with all other commerce employees.

Civil Service has tentatively approved the program. Commerce officials argued—and with some justice—that the laid-off career people should not be given an advantage over its own career employees. Also, that it was a better judge of its own jobs than Civil Service and, furthermore, that Civil Service was trying to force it to take the bulk of the laid-off career people—300 of 1400.

$115 Stolen By Burglar From Church Donation Box

Christ's Episcopal Janitor Awakens In Time to See Thief in Flight

A burglar early yesterday stole the Sunday collection of Christ's Episcopal Church, 3108 O st. nw.

The Rev. John B. Anschutz, rector, told police the intruder entered the church through a side window, ransacked first-floor offices and a second floor study.

The burglar, the minister said, took the collection of $115 from a box in the study and $20 additional dollars from a desk drawer.

The minister said the church's janitor, Nelson Brown, was sleeping on the third floor. Awakened by a noise, he descended a stairway only to see a man run from the building.

Complete Furnace Stolen

Among other items taken by thieves, burglars and holdup men was a complete furnace.

Catherine Hublar, secretary of Associated Contractors, Inc., 1514 Benning rd. ne., told police the coal-fired furnace and three radiators were taken from the front of 1230 Delaware ave. se., where they were to be installed. The loss was valued at $249.

Pete Theodor, owner of Alfa Sandwich Shop, 106 H st. nw., reported the shop entered early yesterday by burglars who broke a side window. Missing was $40 in cash, 150 cartons of cigarettes valued at $200, 15 boxes of cigars valued at $60 and a small steam table valued at $25.

Restaurant Robbed

Anthony D. Laganis, proprietor of St. James Restaurant, 1724 Pennsylvania ave. nw., reported $283 in cash taken from a cash register. He said the restaurant was entered by a fire escape to an adjoining building and a connecting door opened by removing hinge pins.

Reed A. White, 23, 105 7th st. ne., told police two teen-age boys approached him Sunday midnight as he awaited a streetcar at 7th and Adams sts. sw. As one asked him for a match, the other put what he believed a pistol in the small of his back. They took $63 in cash and a wrist watch valued at $10.

George Hansborough, 1249 C st. se., a merchant marine, told police two men, one of them weighing about 200 pounds, took his billfold containing $20 in cash and his seaman's papers about 1:30 a. m. yesterday as he walked in an alley in rear of the 700 block of Jackson pl. nw.

Radio Is Stolen

Frank Earl Smallwood, 44, 336 14th st. ne., said he also was robbed by two men. It happened, he said, on Gordons ave. ne. He lost, he said, $20 in cash and two diamond rings valued at $175.

Clyde K. Warren, manager of Hudson Sales Corp., 1509 14th st. nw., said two boys entered his establishment about 8 a. m. yesterday and ran off with a radio and three sets of seat covers, all valued at $117.

Police to Close Clegg Inquiry By Saturday

Chief of Detectives Floyd A. Truscott said yesterday he hoped to complete this week his investigation into charges that police beat and illegally detained Julius Willie Clegg, 26, Negro war veteran.

Truscott declined to reveal any results of his investigation thus far. Upon completion, his report will be sent to the corporation counsel to determine if the findings are adequate for Police Trial Board action.

Clegg charged he was illegally detained without charges being placed against him from 6 a. m. August 2 to 5 p. m. August 3. Through his attorney, Roger Robb, he accused sex squad detectives of beating him after a police lineup the night of August 2 at which no one could identify him for any crime.

Clegg was held 22 hours after the lineup without charges at the First Precinct. He said he was not permitted to telephone to his wife or employer, The Washington Post, during his arrest.

County Clerks Elect

Virginia Beach, Va., Aug. 18 (AP). The Virginia County Clerks Association had a new president today in William E. Sandridge of Amherst County. Sandridge was chosen to succeed H. Elmer Kiser of Tazewell.

Named to serve with him were Charles H. Purdy of Richmond, first vice president; James Ashby, Stafford County, second vice president; William Hodges Baker, Portsmouth, third vice president, and George R. Walters of Prince George County, secretary-treasurer.

Road Plan Proposed

Frederick, Md., Aug. 18.—The Confederation of Western Maryland Communities, Inc., has suggested a program to preserve "scenic and natural beauties along the new 24-mile Frederick-Hagerstown Highway.

The organization, led by James H. Gambrill of Frederick, urged the designation of "commercial" and "protected" areas along the highway, suggesting "protected" areas be restricted from billboards and roadside stands.

Bank Robberies Up Since War But District Area Undisturbed

Bank robberies throughout the country have increased steadily since the end of the war, the Department of Justice reported yesterday.

The national increase, however, was not reflected in the Greater Washington Area, where no bank robberies were recorded during the past year. The last attempted bank robbery hereabouts occurred at the East Falls Church branch of the Falls Church National Bank, on January 6, 1945.

The Justice Department announcement did not go deeply into the nature of postwar bank robberies but it can be noted that they havent's been the spectacular, derring-do type of forays by "Depression Desperadoes," of the 1930's.

105 Convictions in Year

Figures released yesterday by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, showed 105 convictions under Federal bank robbery statutes in the fiscal year ending June 30. The figure compares to 53 in the previous fiscal year.

Sentences on the convictions totaled 1081 years, five months and eight days, while fines, savings and recoveries amounted to $131,407, the released statistics showed.

Among the more spectacular cases recorded last year was one in South Dakota, where a lone bandit robbed a bank of $5243 and made his getaway by running two police road blocks. The FBI got the man, $5110 loot still in his possession, and he received a sentence up to 25 ye arinsipso. nCMFWYPW 25 years in prison.

Statistics for Year

But, getting back to statistics, the FBI reported that during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1946, daylight bank robberies rose to 57 over 42 for the year 1945. Robberies jumped to 96 in 1947. Burglaries rose from 51 in 1946 to 102 in 1946 and declined to 79 in 1947.

In the January 1945 attempted bank robbery in East Falls Church, the FBI was unable to pin the crime on suspect J. Paul Shelton, then a 27-year-old Arlington automobile salesman. Shelton, however, was convicted on two other charges and given concurrent sentences up to three years' imprisonment.

Storks Arrive Ahead of Time But Volunteers Save Babies

Two impatient storks probably fearful of overexposure to Arlington humidity hastily delivered their bundles Sunday night and departed as rookie midwives came to the rescue.

The first rapid delivery came at 10:45 p.m. to Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. W. Jerome Hagerty, 3413 S. Wakefield st., Arlington. Surprised by the schedule-jumping arrival, the commander called Bethesda Naval Medical Center for an ambulance.

With the ambulance still blocks away, several neighbors, including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Farrington, sighed happily as they viewed their handiwork (a girl). Yesterday Comander Hagerty summed up the situation, "She just caught us off base."

At 3:30 a.m. yesterday, a second stork streaked out to Shirley Homes, Arlington, with a boy for Mrs. Dorothy Chamley, of 2673 S. Nash st.

A doctor could not be located and when the family called police for an ambulance, Police Sergt. Lynn Smith and Officer Russell Runyon responded.

Police Barred From Working As Craftsmen in Jail Project

No more policemen will be employed in construction work on the new addition to the police cell block at the Municipal Building, Inspector Walter Thomas, acting chief of police, said yesterday.

"The District Repair Shop has been called and they are going to give us an estimate on how soon the work can be done and how much the job is going to cost," he said.

Last Friday The Washington Post disclosed that six policemen were working, on police time, as carpenters, bricklayers and plasterers to build two office additions to the cell block in the Municipal Building preparatory to moving No. 1 Precinct there.

After the story appeared, labor representatives called Inspector Thomas and District Commissioner J. Russell Young and protested the use of policemen on that type of work. Work on the construction was ordered halted immediately.

Commissioner Young said yesterday that he had no previous knowledge that policemen were working on the job. He said he had approved the recommendation of Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police, that the precinct be moved. He said he had no idea that policemen were going to be used to build the additions.

Teamsters Accept 7-Cent Wage Rise

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—Approximately 75 teamsters of seven local freight transfer companies have voted unanimously to accept a new two-year contract which gives them an estimated 7-cents hourly wage hike effective September 1, and an additional 3 cents increase for the second year.

Companies expected to sign the contract tonight or tomorrow are Cumberland Motor Express, Charlton Brothers Transfer, Novice Transfer Co., Lenn-Morris, Chaney Transfer Co. Crites Transfer Co., and the Maryland Motor Co.

Vepco Told Smoke Must Be Curbed

Case Continued 60 Days Pending Installation of New Equipment

There won't be any rationing of electric current in Alexandria yet, but the local power company must "proceed posthaste" to install new equipment and abate the smoke nuisance.

This was the sense of an order issued in Richmond yesterday by the State Corporation Commission, ordering a 60-day continuance of the Alexandria case pending installation of new equipment at the Virginia Electric Power Company's Alexandria plant.

Acting City Manager Joseph M. Pancoast and three members of the Alexandria City Council conferred in Richmond yesterday with Corporation Commission members prior to issuance of the order. They attempted to get some immediate relief from the smoke nuisance which has plagued residents in the southeast section of the city.

Must Report Each Month

H. Lester Hooker, chairman of the State Corporation Commission, in announcing the order, said that VEPCO must report to the commission each 30 days on progress of its smoke abatement control. The order also authorized State Corporation Commission engineers to investigate and make reports on progress of the work.

Yesterday's development followed on the heels of issuance late last week of two warrants, one against Superintendent Debny P. Hardy of VEPCO, and the other against VEPCO, charging a violation of the city's smoke ordinance.

In civil and police court, the case was ordered continued until September 9 after counsel for the defense asked for more time in which to prepare its case.

Reopened During War

The VEPCO plant was reopened during the war to provide additional power in Alexandria. Nearly a year ago, the city was informed by plant officials that mechanical precipitators would be installed in the near future to check the smoke.

However, Alexandria Smoke Control Engineer John J. Kelly admitted last week that he had recently received complaints from over 75 people in the neighborhood. On order since last October have been five "dust collectors," designed to catch cinders before they reach the stacks.

VEPCO Vice President J. W. Howard said that one of these collectors has arrived, and installation will take from two to three weeks. Shipment had been promised five months ago, he said.

Action Delayed Over Free Movie Protest

District Commissioners yesterday delayed taking any action on the plaint of motion picture theater owners here against showing free movies to playground children.

In so doing the Commissioners virtually accepted the stand of Harry S. Wender, chairman of the District Recreation Board, that the owners were "going over the head" of his board to register their protest directly to the Commissioners.

Wender further challenged the jurisdiction of the Commissioners in the matter.

Program Is Defended

The board chairman defended the free-movie program charges that the pictures were shown "under uncouth and unsanitary conditions"; that the 30-year-old program was "unfair competition to commercial movies," and that the "impact of commercial films on youthful audiences is subject to serious objection."

The last named complaint was made specifically against the showing of an educational film on tobacco, the title of which promoted a certain brand of cigarette.

The complaints were made officially by the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Metropolitan, D. C., who were represeented at yesterdays hearing by A. Julian Brylawski, Carter Barron and Fred Kogod.

Wender admitted that in three "isolated places" the movies were shown in play streets, or an alley or court playgrounds on which the Recreation Board conducts and supervises a recreation program. These include Snow's Court," located in a heavily-pupulated colored community lacking other public recreation facilities," he said.

In disputing the owners' contention that the programs are unfair competition, Wender pointed out that no full-length pictures are shown and only one showing is made. Most of the shorts, he said, are of a sports nature or animated cartoons.

"Parent-Teacher, citizen and civic leaders have pleaded with the Recreation Board on numerous occasions to provide recreation activities and supervision on play streets and vacant lots so as to reduce delinquency and fatalities and provide wholesome forms of recreation for children and youth," he declared.

He was backed up in this assertion yesterday by Mrs. Gertrude Parks, chairman of the department of welfare, D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs.

Ax Wielder Is Charged With Murder

Two Other Victims, Daughter, Nephew Still 'Critical,' Hospital Reports

Arlington County police last night formally charged Purley Gayle, 47-year-old confessed ax-wielder, with murder in the death Sunday of his 10-year-old son, Leslie.

The county refuse department laborer had previously been held without bond on a charge of felonious assault of three children, the other two still unconscious and in critical condition in Arlington Hospital.

All three were bludgeoned in their beds Saturday morning at the Gayle home, at 1955 S. Kenmore st., Arlington.

The two in critical condition are Gayle's daughter, Sarah, 6, and his nephew, visiting at the time, Joseph Woolford, 9.

Police said Gayle stated he had intended to kill his entire family, including his wife and oldest son who fled the predawn attack, "because I didn't know how I could take care of them."

The defendant, a county employe for the past nine years, who received $35 a week, was described yesterday by friends and acquaintances as a mild-mannered man who "would even walk away from an argument."

Police said he had never been arrested before to their knowledge.

The court has appointed T. J. Houston, attorney, to represent Gayle, it was announced by Judge Hugh Reid, of Arlington County Court.

Sen. Bricker's Sniper Goes To Hospital

William L. Kaiser, 49, former Capitol policeman, who fired two shots at Senator John W. Bricker (R., Ohio), July 12 in the Capitol subway, yesterday was ordered committed t oSt. Elizabeths Hospital.

The commitment was decreed by Associate Justice Richmond B. Keech, District Court, after a jury found Kaiser to be of unsound mind. The panel deliberated only 15 minutes.

Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeths, and Dr. Amino Parretti, senior psychiatrist of Gallinger Hospital, testified that Kaiser was suffering from an organic brain disease.

Kaiser's lunacy hearing had been ordered by Associate Justice Edward N. Curran, acting on a petition filed by United States Attorney George Morris Fay and Assistant U. S. Attorney Sylvan Schwartz.

Kaiser, whose shots missed their mark, had been indicted for assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon.

Sewer Contracts Let

Awards of contracts for water and sewer construction to serve approximately 30 new GI houses in Montgomery County were announced yesterday by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

The Road Machinery Rental Co., of Hyattsville, won two contracts, one for $8150 for construction in Hobson st., Kensington Heights, and one for $11,951 involving Noyes lane, Woodside. A $19,392 contract was let to Nickles Brothers Co., Hyattsville, for work in Dexter ave., Carroll Knolls.

Held in Trolley Fight

Roosevelt Robinson, 25, of 1236 7th st. nw., was held in $500 bond for the grand jury on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon yesterday.

The charge stemmed from a fight aboard a streetcar in the 1200 block of 7th st. nw., Sunday. Daniel Reed, 915 N st. nw., was treated at Freedmen's Hospital for cuts of wrists, knees, back and scalp. Robinson also was ordered held in $300 bond for a continued hearing on a charge of simple assault on Emily King, 1033 21st st. nw., last Friday.

$25,000 Traffic Suit

Hagerestown, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—A $25,000 damage suit was on file in Circuit Court today for Charles Flair, jr., 8, as a result of injuries he suffered when struck by a Troy Laundry Co. truck.

His parents, Charles L. and Janet Flair, contend the boy suffered permanent and serious injuries. He is in a hospital with a fractured skull and pelvis, they said.

Dog Stabbed; Man Held

A man alleged to have stabbed a police dog after threatening the dog's owner was held in $800 bond yesterday for jury trial October 10. Charged with cruelty to animals and threats was Weslie Wylie Johnson, 31, 1706 New Jersey ave. nw. Complainant in the case was Mary Austin of 1700 New Jersey ave. nw.

Tournament Tomorrow

A jousting tournament will be held at Marshall Hall Park, Md., tomorrow afternoon and evening, with spectators traveling to the affair either by auto or one the Mount Vernon steamer leaving the 7th st. wharf. The boat leaves at 10 a. m., 2 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. returning at 12 noon, 5:30 p. m. and 10:45 p. m.

Commissioners End Cafe Fingerprinting

Approve Proposal To Drop Identity Cards for Waiters

District Commissioners yesterday approved amendments to Alcohol Beverage Control regulations eliminating the requirement that waiters serving drinks be fingerprinted.

The action was taken at the request of Alan Payne, ABC Board chairman, who termed the identity check requirement "a needless burden on the FBI, the Police Department, and the Alcohol Beverage Control Board."

He said further that such identification cards already issued possibly were "being used for an improper purpose," adding, however, that if so he had "no idea what that purpose might be."

Payne said that in the past three years "less than a dozen" applicants for the identity cards were found to be ineligible because of past convictions on felony counts. Such applications, he said, average 7000 yearly, with an additional 1000 a year for "renewals" of cards purportedly lost or destroyed.

"Many people who applied and received the identification cards did not go to work at the establishments for which they stated in their applications," Payne added.

Under the amendments to Sections 31 and 35 of the regulations, the responsibility for the employe's past criminal record is passed on to the operators of liquor-dispensing establishments. Management is not permitted to hire waiters or waitresses with records of conviction for felony.

Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West, in recommending adoption of the amendments, stated:

"The board has frequently ascertained from licensees that persons who obtained identification cards from the police on the claim that they were at work at such and such places had never actually worked there, nor were they ever known to the licensees.

"From this and other sources, the board has occasion to believe that the fingerprint cards have been issued to persons of possible unsavory character who never used the cards as bona fide identification for work purposes in Washington, but may have used them for questionable identification elsewhere."

Under the former system, applicants for the identity cards received them from the ABC offices, were fingerprinted through police department facilities, and were checked by the FBI through its fingerprint files for past police records.

Payne also disclosed yesterday that a squad of "more than 50" ABC inspectors toured Washington taprooms Saturday night to check on service to minors—and found there was none.

The inspection tour, which took in 60 taverns, including both popular ones and the less-frequented, was made to discover whether a recent ruling by Corporation Counsel West had any noticeable effect on local drinking. West ruled that it was no violation of ABC regulations for minors to drink in public places providing the drinks were purchased and served to an accompanying adult.

Payne said his inspectors found that tavern keepers were refusing to permit minors to drink in their establishments. He said that in only one place was there anyone under age. In one Georgetown bar, he said, a minor was present but was not drinking.

First Complaint

Dog's Death Blamed on Rabies Shot

A Washington dog-owner yesterday declared that her dog had died of paralysis after receiving a vaccination at a Dealth Department rabies clinic early this month.

Mrs. B. K. Voorhees, 1673 Myrtle st. nw. said she believed its death was caused by the vaccine being injected into a muscle instead of the skin. Paralysis began in the dog's leg, and traveled through its body, finally hitting the brain, she said.

Officials in the District Health Department Food Inspection division said yesterday that they had received no complaint on operation of the rabies clinics this summer. They explained 24,813 dogs were vaccinated, and the death of Mrs. Voorhees' dog was the "only complaint registered in any way."

An official spokesman pointed out that the vaccine used in the rabies shots is a sterile vaccine which probably would not make the dog sick. It was pointed out that the dog "might have died anyhow."

A local veterinarian, who declined to give his name, said he had heard of two instances in which dogs vaccinated at the health clinics this summer had died of paralysis.

The Health Department employs private veterinarians to make the rabies vaccinations.

Fleeing Man Caught After Police Shots

First Precinct Scout Car Pvt. A. S. Mode aimed two shots at a fleeing suspect yesterday, then had to club him with the butt of his pistol to make the arrest.

At First Precinct station, the man gave his name as Daniel Singleton, 23, of 1144 4th st. ne., a painter. He is being held for investigation.

His arrest followed an anonymous telephone call to First Precinct at 11 a. m. yesterday that a man, representing himself as a Veterans Administration representative, was soliciting money near 1st and K sts. ne.

As a scout car approached the location, Singleton ran, police said. Mode leaped from the car, called for him to halt, then fired. After a short chase, he and Mode engaged in a brief struggle in which Mode used his pistol butt.

The Veterans Administration last week warned Washingtonians against paying money to any person claiming to be a VA collector. Numerous reports have been received by police that a self-styled VA "agent" has been calling on families of veterans in northeast and southeast, promising monthly pensions or other benefits for payment of sums varying from 80 cents to $5.

Baltimore Boy, 17, Accused of Killing Woman With Brick

Baltimore, Aug. 18 (AP).—A 17-year-old high school student was charged tonight by Northeastern District police with assaulting with a brick and killing Mrs. Mina Taylor, 32-year-old New York City waitress.

The youth, identified as Charles F. Masek, lives one block from the street corner where Mrs. Taylor was found unconscious early Sunday. Police found a blood-stained brick under a nearby hedge.

Mrs. Taylor died in a hospital eight hours after she was found by area residents attracted by her moans.

The police earlier today released a man who accompanied the woman here from New York. Mrs. Taylor arrived here Saturday evening to visit a sister, Mrs. Dora Whittington, who identified the victim. Mrs. Whittington said both her sister and her New York companion left after "a little party."

Fire Damages Hotel

Baltimore, Aug. 18 (AP).—The basement and dining room of the Claremont Hotel were badly damaged early today by a fire that forced 20 residents to flee into Union Stockyards, where the hostelry is located.

Two men spent the rest of the night in their car because of the smoke in the hotel, and a third was taken to St. Agnes Hospital after being overcome with smoke.

Va. Chick Output Up

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—The State Cooperative Crop Reporting Service revealed today that Virginia's commercial chick hatcheries turned out 2,368,000 chicks last month, an increase of more than 50 per cent over the output of July 1946.

Dealers to Convene

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—The Virginia Food Dealers Association will hold its annual convention here September 7-10. As added attractions a food show and equipment exhibition will be staged for the retail food dealers.

Man Accused Of Robbery He Reported

A Washington man who reported to Mount Rainer Police that thieves had robbed his friend found himself charged with the larceny and held for grand jury action in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday.

The robbery was said to have occurred August 5 after the accused man, Paul J. Shepard, 27, 147 Carroll st. se., had been drinking with a fellow employe of a Washington tire sales firm, John R. Combs, 109 Darrington st. nw., at a Mount Rainer tavern.

The money, which was said to have been the tire company's property, was in Comb's possession prior to the incident.

Shepard told police that he and his friend were held up by two other men and that he, Shepard, had fled when attacked with a knife. Police testified that Combs was in a drunken condition when they entered the case.

Later, under questioning by Washington police, Shepard admitted to Detective Sergt. George Cooper of the Robbery Squad that he had told the story to cover himself.

He admitted, Cooper said, that after robbing Combs he had buried the money while supposedly fleeing the mythical knife wielders. All but $25 was recovered from where he had buried it.

Rockingham 6th Best Chicken Area in U. S.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—When it comes to producing poultry, Rockingham County is up near the top of the list in the United States.

It stands sixth in production of chickens and tenth in turkey production in the Nation's counties.

The results of the Federal Census Bureau's 1945 survey as reported by the Virginia Crop Reporting Service listed Southampton County as tenth in peanut-producing counties, Frederick fifth largest in apple production and Pittsylvania ninth in both acreage and pound production of tobacco.

It's a Laugh

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—Miss Marion Stewart, 24, felt much better tonight. But she wasn't laughing about it.

Laughing caused her distress yesterday. She started chuckling when a friend told her a joke. She kept right on howling until an Emergency Hospital doctor furnished a dose of quieting medicine.

Mrs. Morris Stewart of Camp Parole, Marion's mother, said usually a splash of cold water douses her daughter's laughing spells. The habit is inherited, she explained. Mr. Stewart is quite a laugher, too.

Drum Corps to Compete

Baltimore, Aug. 18 (AP).—Between 20 and 30 junior drum and bugle corps from throughout Maryland are expected to compete at Baltimore Stadium on Labor Day in the annual championship contest.

The event for church, civic and veterans' organization musical units will be sponsored by the Maryland Drum and Bugle Corps Association. The winner, in addition to the State title and a $100 prize, also will receive the Ensign C. Markland Kelly, jr., Memorial Trophy for one year.

Bus Seat Suit Filed

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—A suit for $10,000 damages against the Atlantic Greyhound Corp. and Earl Blankenship, a Burkeville police officer, was filed today in Richmond Law and Equity Court by a Negro woman who alleged that she was forced off a bus when she refused to change her seat.

The plaintiff, Grace Burton Knox, declared in her complaint that she bought a ticket in Winston-Salem, N. C., for passage to Newark, N. J., and was ordered by the bus driver to take a seat in the rear of the bus when it stopped at Burkeville.

When she refused to change her seat, she declared, the driver summoned Blankenship, who, the complainant alleges, first commanded her to move and then attempted to drag her from her seat. The suit charged that Miss Knox was arrested without a warrant and added that no charge subsequently was placed against her.

Food Transport Offered

Easton, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—An offer to provide transportation for surplus potatoes if they are granted to the Children's Home of the Eastern Shore was made yesterday by the Rotary Club of Easton.

Club President Albert T. Dawkins made the offer after Representative Miller (R., Md.) said he had been unsuccessful in attempting to get an allotment of the surplus from the Government. Miller said lack of transportation facilities was given as reason for the refusal.

Richmond Rainmaker

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—Flying Instructor Brock Minor is considering taking on a sideline profession today.

Yesterday Minor sailed off into the skies, his plane laden with shaved dry ice and his heart set on breaking the heat wave in Richmond. He tossed the ice into a cumulus cloud at 8400 feet and headed back for earth.

He'd hardly reached land when the skies opened and rain—cooling, heartening, rain—fell on Richmond. Now he thinks a sideline as semiprofessional "rainmaker" might be a good thing.

Treasurers Pick Speaker

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 18.—State Senator John S. Battle of Charlottesville will be principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Treasurers Association of Virginia here Friday and Saturday. Battle will address the annual banquet Friday at 7 p. m.

Mayor Richard T. Edwards will welcome the city and county Treasurers at the opening session Friday at 10:30 a. m. Tax matters and collections will come up for discussion that afternoon, and election of officers is scheduled Saturday morning.

X-Ray Unit at Fair

Ellicott City, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—The mobile chest X-ray unit belonging to the Maryland State Health Department will be at the Howard County Fair this Wednesday and Thursday, the Maryland Tuberculosis Association announced. Visitors and exhibitors will be invited to drop in for a free X-ray.

Auto Dumps Driver

Hancock, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—Motorist Millard McCusker of Hancock is a lucky man, State Trooper Harold Basore said today.

McCusker received only minor injuries here Saturday when, as his car rounded a curve, the door popped open and McCusker was thrown out on the highway. The driverless car crashed into a pole down the street, Basore said.

Baby Beaten With Bottle

Baltimore, Aug. 18 (AP).—Police today awaited the recovery of a man they identified as Hobert Taylor, 24, to serve a warrant charging him with beating a baby with a feeding bottle.

Taylor, who police said was shot Saturday night while hurdling a fence as a patrolman attempted to serve the warrant, was pronounced in "satisfactory" condition with a bullet wound in his shoulder.

The warrant was issued on the complaint of Mrs. Virginia Lois Clifton, 19, who said Taylor had struck her baby, Ollie, 2, with the baby's milk bottle.

Baby Found in Alley

Baltimore, Aug. 18 (AP).—A newborn boy, rain soaked and protected only by a shopping bag, was found yesterday in an alley by Mrs. Marie Morris, who was attracted by the infant's cries. Police said the baby was only three hours old when found. It was taken to a hospital for treatment for exposure.

Pastors Given $10,000

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 18 (AP).—An anonymous gift of $10,000 has enriched the approximately 250 pastors of the Peninsula Conference of the Methodist Church by $40 each.

This type of a donation never has been made before in the history of the Methodist Church to the knowledge of the Rev. Dr. Hamilton P. Fox, superintendent of the Wilmington district. The conference comprises the State of Delaware and the eastern Chesapeake Bay shore counties in Maryland and Virginia.

Ammonia Tank Explodes

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—A 25x8-foot ammonia tank being dismantled for a junk dealer exploded today, damaging a section of the W. B. Tilghman fertilizer plant and smashing a dozen windows in four nearby homes.

Fire Marshal F. A. Grier said he believed the fumes were ignited by an acetylene torch. No one was injured and there was no fire.

2 Trade Board Chairmanships Are Announced

Two new chairmen of standing committees were announced by the Washington Board of Trade yesterday.

Thomas Somerville 3d, president of the Thomas Somerville Co. and the Washington Brick Co., will head the committee on industrial and wholesale interests. Bernard J. Nees, partner in Johnston, Lemon & Co., is new chairman of the committee on forums.

Somerville, a director of the Board of Trade, is a native Washingtonian, and was educated in local schools and at George Washington University. He lives at 130 Brookside dr., Chevy Chase.

Nees was born in East Liverpool, Ohio, and received his education in the Hyattsville, Md., public schools and at National University here.

He is a past president of the Washington Junior Board of Commerce and is active in Community Chest work, both in Prince Georges County and in the District. He lives at 2904 Allison st., Mount Rainier, Md.

Auto Buyers Warned to Eye Sale Contract

Purchasers of new cars here, the fortunate few, were warned yesterday by the Keystone Automobile Club to "carefully consider" new, "well-intended" sales contracts in which the dealers require options on the car's resale.

A spot check survey of new car dealers here could find none who used the contract forms singled out by the automobile club for its warning.

The special contracts, it was outlined in the "Keystone Motorist," official club organ, are being offered by many dealers throughout the country to prevent the flow of new cars to "new-used car racketeers." The article expressed doubt as to the validity of the contracts.

One such contract asks the purchaser to agree to be liable up to $500 for breach of the agreement not to resell or assign his new car for a period of 12 months without written consent of the dealer. The $500 is noted on the title as an encumbrance and the title thus retained by the seller for the year.

The second contract in use, the club said, gives the dealer an option to repurchase the car within six months if the owner desires to dispose of it within that period. Repurchase price is set at the original price less three per cent for normal depreciation.

Under either contract, the club pointed out, the purchaser might run into difficulties if he needed to borrow on his car.

Honor Distresses 1st Woman Called For County's Jury

Towson, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—The victory won by Maryland women this year in a long campaign for the right to serve on juries wasn't shared today by Miss Ramelle T. Rolley, Catonsville secretary, when her name was the first to be drawn at the Circuit Court here.

"I am distressed about this and hope I do not have to serve," she said when informed of her "honor."

"I don't see how I can get away from my office and have no interest whatever in politics or serving on juries," commented the first woman in Baltimore County to be called for duty. "Jury service is a man's business, and I wish I had been exempted from serving."

The Postwar Hobo Looks For Work

By Thomas Hardie
Post Reporter

The postwar model of the classical hobo stopping off at Washington represents a drastic change.

Gone are the bewhiskered shins, the droopy pants, and the outstretched palm at the back door, a recent survey of local missions and park benches showed.

Instead, the men finding their way to charitable missions here, officials and "guests" both claim, ar earnestly looking for jobs and not simply bumming around the country "for their health."

No More "Jungles"

Typical are the remarks of E. B. Barnes, whose home is the "South and Southwest," and now a temporary resident of the Central Union Mission, 613 C st. nw. "The days of the hobo 'jungles' are gone," he says. "Instead of mulligan stew, seasoned with socks and old shoe leather, we are now enjoying good, sanitary food."

Barnes s a shoemaker by trade who has found "time to do a little traveling between jobs" and is now working for his room and board, plus a weekly wage, at the Central Union Mission.

The Hobo Association of America's oath of allegiance, attributed to Otis Rodgers, the "Justice of Kangaroo Court," expresses this new movement:

"Yes, there is a difference.
"A Hobo will work.
"A tramp won't work.
"A booze-fighting bum can't work."

9 of 12 Married

The old-timers of the profession, their numbers fast dwindling, holds nothing but contempt for the newcomers. Ben Hobo Benson, perennial "Knight of the Rails," declares the newcomers are mostly "phonies," and "to be a bona fide hobo, you got to be on the bum half the time, absolutely pay no fare and positively to be a single man without a wife."

Out of 12 men questioned last week in the basement dining room of the Central Union Mission, nine admitted to being married.

The hobo appearing in Washington today also differs from his predecessor in that rail travel has fallen out of favor. Most, like Eugene Horner, who was passing through last week en route to take in the last two weeks of the Atlantic City "season," say that hitch-hiking is not only safer but also quicker.

Few of those questioned while awaiting rides on Baltimore blvd. had much respect for freight train facilities, especially that afforded by the brakebeams under the cars—a favorite means of travel at the height of the depression.

Many Are Veterans

What is responsible for this postwar face-lifting? Maj. E. B. Henderson, assistant director of the Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center, 526 1st st. nw., points out that there has been a large turnover in personnel, with a different type of "migratory worker" coming here since the end of the war.

The hobo old-timers either died off during the war, are too old to travel, or found a more permanent life through defense jobs, and so have changed their ways, he says.

The present crop includes many coming to file Government claims, especially veterans seeking aid from the Veterans Administration, he continues. They are here for a purpose.

But a warning was sounded by officials of the Central Union Mission, the Salvation Army, and the Volunteers of America, all operators of missions. Their figures point to a steadily rising rate of applications for aid—especially in the last six months.

Navy Pilot Dies In Crash Into Caroline Swamp

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—A Navy pilot crashed to his death this afternoon near Gatesville, N. C., an hour after taking off from the Naval Auxiliary Air Station at Oceana, Va.

Ffith naval district headquarters reported that the pilot, flying a Corsair Fighter, was on a high altitude flight with two other planes.

The flier was attached to a squadron of the carrier Midway. The unit is temporarily based at the Oceana field.

At Gatesville, Mrs. L. F. Overmanman, wife of the sheriff of Gates County, reported that rescue workers had been unable to reach the plane an hour after the crash was reported. She said the craft was almost buried in a swamp.

Senator Bilbo Waging Hard Fight for Life

New Orleans, Aug. 18 (AP).—Sixty-nine-year-old Senator Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi, a veteran of political wars, was waging a hard fight today at Foundation Hospital.

A late bulletin from the hospital, which described his condition as being "very good," indicated he had gained some ground.

The hospital reported that the surgeons had performed a minor operation to remove a blood clot on the lungs. This consisted of tieing off a vein where the clot, known as pulmonary embolism, had occurred, thus blocking it off from the heart.

Bank Looted of $100,000

Toronto, Aug. 18 (AP).—Loot believed to total more than $100,000 was taken during the weekend from 33 safety deposit boxes of the Dunas and Chestnut st. branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, Toronto police said today.

Only 8 Bids Offered for 5 School Jobs

The Montgomery County Board of Education had only eight bids to open yesterday for construction of five county school additions.

Board officials attributed the small number to unsettled building conditions.

Two projects received no bids. They were for the Rockville Elementary School and the Westbrook Elementary School.

Keller Bros. of Jfferson, Md., was the lower of two bidders, with $94,356, for the construction of two classrooms, teachers' room, kitchen, corridor, new boiler room and heating plant and two lavatories at Glenmont Elementary School. The same firm was low bidder of two with $83,795 for construction of two classrooms and an activity room at Potomac School.

Harold Jones, 2 Clifton ave., Silver Spring, Md., with a bid of $28,900 was low bidder of 4 offered for construction of two-classrooms addition to North Four Corners Elementary School.

Opening date for bids on an addition to Kensington Elementary School was advanced to August 28 4 p. m. The board met last night to discuss the bids and will announce awards within a few days.

Nonpartisan Voting Asked In Alexandria

The Republican Women of Alexandria yesterday urged nonpartisan election of city officials by eliminating the primary election in the case of each elective city office.

In a resolution adopted Sunday night, they declared that not since Reconstruction days has the election of city officials involved party issues. Putting these elective offices on a party basis is "ridiculous and absurd," they said.

"We believe Alexandria is entitled to have its municipal affairs administered by the most capable men available," the resolution said. "Because a candidate for office is a party nominee does not in any sense mean that he qualifies from the standpoint of administrative ability and experience."

They pointed out that a change to nonpartisan elections would admit to participation thousands of Federal employes who, under the Hatch Act, cannot run for office or actively support a candidate in a partisan election.

The group, recognizing itself to be a partisan organization, called for the formation of an independent body in the city to press for legislation in this direction. They also reiterated their plea, first stated last week, for election-at-large of all city councilmen.

Russians Seize 2 More Austrian Key Industries

By Seymour Freidin

Vienna, Aug. 18.—Soviet authorities have seized two more key industries in eastern Austria as reparations although high Austrian government sources asserted tonight there was virtually no German ownership in the expropriated properties.

Disclosure of the seizure of a zinc mine and a textile factory was almost simultaneous with an American announcement that Joseph M. Dodge, chief United States representative on the four-power Austrian treaty commission, will fly to Washington on Thursday for consultation.

In the last two weeks, Dodge and British representatives on the treaty commission have protested strongly against Soviet seizure of property when the commission was discussing so-called German assets to solve the reparations problem.

The latest expropriations under what western Allied officials describe as unilateral interpretations by the Soviet command of German assets brings to 30 the total of the industries seized by Russia since Secretary of State George C. Marshall proposed his continent-wide self-help plan for the rehabilitation of Europe.

Falls Church Provides for Playgrounds

Falls Church City Council last night approved a new subdivision ordinance providing up to 5 per cent of each subdivision's area, exclusive of streets, be set aside for recreational purposes.

Three councilmen voted for it: Archie Munson, Sherman Wells and Walter Follin. One councilman, Sargent White, declined to vote, and two others were absent.

Edward Knouse, of the Falls Church planning commission, told the council the new ordinance represents a "major improvement" over the old subdivision ordinance.

The new ordinance, besides providing for recreational areas, bans residential zoning for areas subject to inundation and permits division of land into two or more parts. The old ordinance permitted division into three or more parts.

Agreement Ends First Eviction Suit Under New Law

Agreement was reached without court action yesterday in what was believed to be the first eviction case to arise under the new rent control law in Montgomery County, Md.

Walter and Elizabeth Scholl had filed eviction proceedings in Rockville Police Court to repossess the premises at 213 Monroe st., Rockville, from Edward and Anita Marth, tenants.

The Scholl's said they had served notice on the Marths that they wished to occupy the house themselves on July 1, but had been refused possession.

The Marths had rented the house from Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm S. McConihe, who sold it to the Scholls May 5.

When the case was called by Trial Magistrate Alger Y. Barbee, both sides announced that a compromise agreement had been reached whereby the Marths will vacate September 1.

Miss Sauderson, Mr. McChesney Are Married

Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament yesterday morning was the scene of the wedding of Miss Louise Sauderson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred R. Sauderson of Kenwood, Md., to Robert W. McChesney, jr., son of R. W. McChesney of Chevy Chase, Md. The Rev. Russell Plelan officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white satin and rosepoint lace. A seed pearl headdress held her long veil and she carried a white orchid and baby's-breath with her prayer book.

Mrs. Christopher Amussen and Miss Mary Ann Sauderson, the bride's sisters, were matron and maid of honor. They wore American Beauty roses and carried pink asters. Bridesmaids—the Misses Mary O'Brien, Ann Feely and Ann Lavelle and Mrs. Charles McDonald—were gowned in dusty pink and carried American Beauty asters.

Fred M. Dolan, jr., was best man and ushers were Christopher Amussen, Russell Hoagland, Gerald Cassidy, Charles Chambers, Lewis Strickland and Lieut. Lewis Donahoe.

A reception following the ceremony was held at Hotel Mayflower. The newlyweds will spend their honeymoon in Hot Springs, Va., and then reside in Worcester, Mass., while Mr. McChesney completes his studies at Holy Cross College. He is a veteran of three years' service with the Infantry. Mrs. McChesney was graduated from Rosemont College, Rosemont, Pa.

QUALITY UNSTINTED IN LINE AND FORSTMANN WORSTED—NOT ONE CENT FOR TRIMMING

JULIUS GARFINCKEL & CO. REPORTING

Halpert dresses look like custom-made clothes and fit as though they had been made for you. Only fine couturier fabrics are used. They sell from forty dollars to not more than eighty-five. We know of no greater value in quality merchandise than these.

Materials are cut with a free hand. The spotlight, as in all new fashions, is on skirts. Many are draped diagonally to accentuate the long line of the thigh. Many of the dresses are two-piece, giving the effect and composure of suits.

Joseph Halpert dresses are designed for women with beautiful figures. The fit for which they are famous reduces time and cost of alterations to a minimum. They make a woman more important than her clothes and form a serene background for her own jewels. Not one buckle, or fancy button mars the distinguished effect.

The three dresses illustrated are all of Forstmann's "Oriona"—wonderfully fine lightweight worsted wool.

'Years of Gloom'

Fascism Fades As Edda Turns With Italy's Tide

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

RECENTLY Edda Ciano, daughter of Mussolini and widow of Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano who was executed by Il Duce, has changed spots and is briskly swimming with Italy's new political tide. Edda is allowing herself to be interviewed and the results are appearing serially under the flabbergasting title "The Twenty Gloomy Years" ("Il Bieco Ventennio").

The articles have Roman society agog, are reported to be not only absorbing but witty and discouragingly cynical. Dubbing fascism's two decades gloomy has startled everyone, since during this period Edda soared to astronomical heights as uncrowned Queen of Italy, kowtowed to by everyone except the most unbending cavedwellers.

She was extravagant, morally unprincipled and given to jags of emotion. Early in her marriage, for instance, when her husband was stationed in China, she lost vast sums at poker. On the verge of suicide, she was bailed out by her doting father.

Honeymoon Haven

DURING THE LAST gasps of Mussolini's power, Edda sought refuge in Switzerland and after her husband's execution was supposed to have married Count Pucci. However, Pucci is no longer in evidence and no one knows whether the marriage really took place. For awhile she was exiled on the island of Lipari where, short of all luxurious trappings, she underwent an almost complete character metamorphosis.

Most of the Ciano property was appropriated by the state, the lavish villa on the Island of Capri having had a peculiarly ironic fate. The island was requisitioned as a United States Air Force rest spot, and the villa was specially reserved for honeymooning GIs and their Italian brides.

The Italians were mostly humble Neapolitan girls, and it was amusing to see them relaxing among the Ciano belongings—huge bathrooms lined with tiles painted with bright fish, oversize double beds with padded headboards, overstuffed living room chairs, an overcomplicated bar.

Now Edda is back in Italy, exposing fascism and all her father stood for. No one knows what her next step will be—but it's sure to be interesting.

No Time for Play

DURING last week's heat wave, old time State Department war horses downed their emplets (restorative salt tablets, more popular at the moment than vitamins) and wistfully daydreamed of the good old days. The g.o.d.'s were pre-World War I times when Washington, as a government, functioned nine months a year, spent the rest on leave in more refreshig climes. In those days, State Department big-wigs cleared out of town June first, some of them camping near the current summer White House. Most department business was finished in a few hours and by 11 the clerks had skipped out behind the White House to play baseball. The famous colored messengers, left to their own devices, retired to the building's cool nether regions and shot crap.

Today's State Department official is lucky to get any vacation. The higher he ranks, the less he gets, and oftener than not he has to work late nights.

Secretary Marshall's working day is the exception. He's hedged himself with many protective measures. He leaves the office at 4 and on Fridays after the 12:30 Cabinet luncheon he's off to Leesburg for the week end.

No one can get at the Secretary without first clearing through his military secretary, Col. Pat Carter. For relaxation, the Secretary often drops into an early evening movie, and he's reported to have seen "The Miracle on 34th Street" several times over. To save wading through innumerable, complicated reports, each one submitted to the Secretary has to be tailored to no more than two pages. All this is a novelty to the State Department. But Secretary Marshall sticks to the military pattern which stresses that no constructive work should be done in late afternoon, that no mind functions efficiently without exercise and relaxation.

Australian Visitor Feted At 3 Parties

The Australian Ambassador, Norman Makin, entertained at luncheon, dinner and a theater party yesterday. Purpose of the triple round of merrymaking was to honor A. A. Calwell, Minister for Immigration and Information of Australia, who came to Washington from Europe. There will be another dinner tonight at the Embassy on Woodland dr., scene of both the luncheon and private dinner yesterday.

Following the dinner, the Ambassador took his distinguished countryman from Down Under to the National Theater to see the current hit, "Red Mill."

Among those attending the luncheon yesterday were a group of Australian officials who are in town during Minister Calwell's visit. These included Gavin Casey, retiring director of the Australian News and Information Service in New York City, who is en route to England to hold a similar post; T. Dunbabin, new director of the Australian News Agency in Gotham; C. A. Roberts, chairman of the Victorian Country Roads Board; Gen. Kem Smart, Australian Consul General at San Francisco; J. Hewitt, press attache at the Australian Consulate in the Golden Gate City; Robert Armstrong, private secretary to the new Minister for Immigration.

Others present were Vice Admiral William W. Smith, USNR, chairman of Commissioner, United States Maritime Commission; William T. Stone, director, Office of International Information and Cultural Relations of the United States Department.

Let Him Work Out His Own Feeding Schedule

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Just as regulation was the keyword of the child care practices beginning around the 1900s, so 47 years later, self-demand is the keyword today. It represents the difference between those methods which established the baby on a schedule by the clock and the present ones in which the baby sets up his own schedule.

This is upsetting to the young parent who has in mind, from so many years of traditional thinking on regularity, that she must see that her baby eats only once in three or four hours and no more. It is well to begin by feeding the baby when he cries to be fed—not fusses, but is obviously awake and hungry. Keep account of the hours of feeding, it will be illustrative of the course the program takes. If the baby is nursed, this is no hardship to the mother. If the baby is bottle-fed, then bottles for a day and one-half should be prepared so if more feedings are used than were counted upon the bottle will be there for them.

The chief advantage of the self-demand feeding is that the baby, knowing best how much food he needs, satisfies his own hunger. A secondary one is that he doesn't cry because if his real cries are appeased by feeding, he has little real reason to cry.

Mothers who have tried this method, conscientiously, discover that quite naturally the baby cuts down his early frequent feedings to six, then five, then four, just as does the baby who has been "put" on a schedule.

Baby Quickly Learns

In a word, the baby quickly gets on to a schedule though it is of his own making and not an artificial one.

The complications arise when the mother does not recognize that when the baby eats too often, it may be indicative of his need for an improved formula or a complementary feeding. Even the young baby seldom eats oftener than once in two hours unless his rations are inferior to his needs.

With this exception, the self-demand feedings are a boon to the mother and to the baby. Maybe the feedings are irregular just at first, until baby gets into his stride, but eventually they will be as rhythmical as they are for any clock-scheduled baby. Nature is that way.

Your Questions On Homemaking

D. A.

To clean and protect the outside of the handbag, use saddle soap and a neutral cream or leather preserver. Clean the inside regularly, too (whether it's leather or fabric), by removing all the contents and brushing the dust from the folds.

Can you tell me where I can find someone to do machine quilting? I have two Dresden Plate quilts I would like to have finished in a rather intricate design.
C. S. I.

Can anyone supply the name of a good quilter for C. S. I.?

How can I remove a stain made by a bird on a pink chambray dress? I poured scalding water through the stain and have also tried vinegar and lemon, but with little result. Would I be safe in using some bleach?
V. W.

If the color of the dress changed where it was spotted, the stain may be acid. Try holding it over an open bottle of strong ammonia water. Or sponge with a weak ammonia or soda solution. Rinse well afterward. If this isn't successful, a bleach is about the only possibility left. Hydrogen peroxide and sodium perborate is gentler than commercial laundry bleach. Try it out first, though, on an inside seam of the dress to be sure it won't remove the color. Dampen the stain with peroxide, then sprinkle on sodium perborate. Let it remain for half an hour, then rinse it out well.

To E. H.: The following instructions for making "half-sour kosher cucumbers" have been sent in by D. A.:

"Pack washed cucumbers in a crock with a good-sized piece of dill. Use the head, stems, and leaves of dill. Put in 3 or 4 pieces of garlic and a couple of small red hot peppers. Pour boiling salted water (one cup of salt to 1 gallon of water) over the cucumbers. Weight the cucumbers down with a plate with a brick on top. Let stand 3 or 4 days, depending on the size of the cucumbers. The term 'half-sour' refers to the fact that the cucumbers are not thoroughly cured."

Many thanks to D. A. for this helpful information.

Can you tell me where I might be able to obtain some Black Knight Waldenberg china? This china was made in Germany before the war. My pattern is "Clarissa," and I need cups and saucers, as well as several other pieces, to complete my set.
M. D. K.

Local dealers say they have not handled any of this china in years. Perhaps some reader might supply information about where you might find the pieces you need.

Right you are, Petunia! Gelatine with vegetables or fruit is fine for both salad and dessert. And here's a suggestion: Mix your gelatine in a pitcher instead of a bowl, for easier pouring into molds.

Market Memo

By Lucia Brown

PRICES on frying chickens have been sliding higher in the past two weeks . . . now they're 47 to 55 cents a pound. It's partly a seasonal rise . . . partly the influence of high meat prices. Poultry prices in general are about the same at last year, though . . . still a pretty good budget bet.

Something new on the canned meat shelf . . . wieners in delicious barbecue sauce. Plenty of cold cuts available . . . goose liver, salami, cocktail loaf (beef, pork, dried milk, and spices), jellied beef, bologna, liverwurst and all sorts of smoked meats.

Speaking of smoking, have you tried the new smoked popcorn? It and its side-kick, French fried popcorn, are being introduced by the same company. "Green ripe" olives are back on the market . . . the kind put up when they are almost ripe but lightly specked with green. A popular brand of double and triple vanilla chocolate has also returned . . . wonderful for cooking or eating "as is."

California Seckle pears have joined the Bartletts on some local fruit counters. Lady finger grapes . . . pale green, sweet, and slender . . . coming in from California, too. Sizes of South Carolina peaches have been cut by drought down there . . . many on the local market are rather small. Bigger ones promised from Virginia soon. Snap beans and tomatoes still tops as plentiful vegetables . . . followed by corn, peppers, squash, cabbage, celery and carrots.

Job's Order of Teen-Agers To Convene Here This Week

The Supreme Guardian Council, International Order of Job's Daughters, will hold its twenty-seventh annual supreme session here through Sunday at the Mayflower Hotel, headquarters for the conclave.

Sessions will be presided over by Laura S. Wallace of 5406 13th st. nw., supreme guardian, and Adam Trapp of Chicago, associate supreme guardian.

The Supreme Guardian Council is the international legislative body, representing more than 75,000 teen-age girls related to Master Masons.

Two new bethels have recently been instituted in the District, making a total of eight bethels, with a total membership of approximately 1000.

The convention will open with an informal meeting and reception at the local Scottish Rite Temple, 2800 16th st. nw. Among the guest speakers will be Vernon E. West, corporation counsel of the District of Columbia government. B. M. Suttler, representing J. Edgar Hoover, will give an address on crime and juvenile delinquency. There will also be brief remarks from most of the presiding heads of the affiliated bodies of Masonry. During the banquet and ball, which will be held at the Mayflower Hotel's main ballroom, a local Job's Daughter will be crowned queen and a local De Molay will be crowned king of the ball. Afterwards they will lead the grand march.

On Friday afternoon in the Sapphire Room of the Mayflower Hotel local and visiting drill teams will compete for awards. Lester B. Hall, associate grand guardian of the D. C. grand council, is drillmaster and Col. William H. Bettelheim, jr., is chairman of the judges.

Another program feature will be held on Friday evening at the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple in Alexandria, Va., where a pageant will be given depicting George Washington, the boy, the man and the Mason. This will have a cast of several hundred, composed of Job's Daughters and De Molay of Washington, Virginia and Maryland.

Other activities planned for the girls include a trip to Glen Echo Park, sponsored by the grand guardian council of Maryland, and an educational tour through the important buildings in the Nation's Capital.

Mrs. Esther Fleming, grand guardian of the District, and Lester Hall, associate grand guardian of the grand council of the District, will act as official hostess and host during the convention. Frances Robinson, past grand guardian, is general chairman of arrangements.

14 Convicts Are Flogged In Alabama

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 18 (AP).—State Prison Director Frank Boswell said today 14 convicts had been flogged at State penal institutions since August 1, and that hereafter he would make a public report each month on the number whipped and the reasons for the punishment.

Boswell said that in addition to the 14 disclosed today, six others were strapped in the last two days of July. He explained that the lashing were administered on his verbal consent, which was followed up by written authority.

Five of the six in July were punished for escaping, the prison director said, a practice since ordered halted. As of August 1, Boswell has forbidden whipping of convicts for escaping and has ordered them instead to be brought into court on escape charges.

State law provides additional sentences of as much as 12 months for fleeing from custody.

Boswell said the number of lashes ranged from eight to 15, and averaged 10. He said all were administered in the presence of doctors.

The prison director listed these as the reasons for this month's whippings:

For insubordination and refusal to work—4.
For drunkenness and possessing alcoholic beverages—3.
For possessing knives—1.
For robbing other prisoners—2.
For possessing narcotics—1.

Eleven of the prisoners were white men, the director said, and three were Negroes.

AFL Planning Work Holiday Election Day

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 18 (AP).—A work holiday for ten million men next election day will highlight the American Federation of Labor's campaign to insure the largest possible vote against members of Congress who voted for the Taft-Hartley law, AFL President William Green said today.

At a news conference before he addressed the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, Green forecast the most intensive program of political action in the history of the AFL. He predicted that most congressmen who approved the bill would be defeated, adding that he never had seen the workers "so aroused."

Green's statemnt came at a time when one of the principal items of business at the State convention was a proposal for a one-third assessment increase per capita to finance a similar political action campaign in Wisconsin.

State President George Haberman predicted the convention would approve, without much controversy, a six cents monthly assessment instead of four. The additional revenue would amount to $33,000, which would be used to assist local trades and labor councils in forming political action groups.

Green and Haberman said the labor campaign would be nonpartisan, in line with AFL policy.

'Fix' Charges An Old Story, Steelman Says

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—Irving S. Olds, board chairman of the United States Steel Corp., said today that the Federal Trade Commission's charges that steelmakers were conspiring to fix prices were essentionally the same as those made "in earlier years" by the commission and "have no more basis in fact or in law."

Referring to hearings before the temporary National Economic Committee in 1939 and 1940, Olds said in a statement:

"It was testified in those hearings that the basing point practice of delivered prices in the steel industry is not a collusive or illegal arrangement, but on the contrary is a method of marketing steel products which has evolved over the past 50 years or more as a natural consequence of the fundamental economic and competitive conditions existing in that industry.

"As a substitute for the present marketing practice so developed over the years without agreement or conspiracy, the Federal Trade Commission seems to propose a uniform f. o. b. mill price system, to be established arbitrarily."

Under the government's proposed system, Olds said, the net return to a steel mill per ton of product would be the same on a sale to a customer a hundred or more miles distant as on a sale to a local customer, regardless of the length of haul.

"As a consequence, the competition which now exists between a steel mill near the customer and another steel mill or mills more distantly located would be eliminated," Olds said. "Each mill would be restricted in distribution to a limited area surrounding the mill. Each customer would be confined to a single or a very few sources of steel supply, instead of being able as formerly to deal with a number of steel companies."

Carriers Picket Newspaper on CIO Coaching

Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 18 (U.P.).—Fourteen young newsboys, armed with placards and chanting defiance of management, threw a picket line in front of the Herald-Press today and vowed they would not leave until they received a 3-cent pay increase per customer.

The boys, who make up practically the entire circulation staff of the newspaper, said they would deliver no more papers until their demands are met.

Rex Wfnkoop, Herald-Press editor, met unsuccessfully with the young pickets today in an attempt to halt the walkout. He then ordered reporters and other staff members to stand by to deliver papers.

The walkout originated Saturday when the newsboys asked for permission to take part in a VJ-Day parade. Management refused the request and, although the boys completed their deliveries, one boy began picketing the Herald-Press office.

CIO officials in a union hall across from the newspaper coached the boys, who range in age from 8 to 15 years. They said they wanted their pay raised from 7 cents per customer to 10 cents.

Bank Walkout Ended

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—A month-long strike against the Brooklyn Trust Co. was at an end today and the bank reported it was operating normally. Union officials said "all strikers are going back with pay increases in varying amounts."

Goodrich Strike Halted

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Aug. 18 (AP).—The week-end strike which closed the B. F. Goodrich tire plant here ended today as members of the United Rubber Workers of America (CIO) returned to their jobs in response to a request from a union official in Cleveland, Ohio. He asked that the local "withhold further strike action at this time, pending decision of policy committee to shut down company plants on company-wide basis."

Workers here walked out in support of demands for a union contract.

Court to Convene

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18 (AP).—The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals will convene at 9:30 a. m. September 1 in the Masonic Building at Staunton to hear arguments in seven cases.

Docket for the brief session, prepared by Clerk M. B. Watts, lists two slaying cases, a case involving a technical argument on the disorderly conduct law, a case involving a charge of child beating and three civil actions.

MINDING YOUR BUSINESS

The Holy War on Basing Points

IF THE AMERICAN iron and steel industry "conspired" to jack up steel prices, as the Federal Trade Commission charges, the plot was carried out with time-table finesse.

On July 8, United States Steel and Northern coal operators agreed to a 31-cent-an hour wage boost for John L. Lewis' miners. On July 15, because of high coal costs, Republic Steel and Sloss-Sheffield hiked pig iron quotations $3.50 a ton in the Birmingham district. That was the tipoff on what would happen in steel.

Livingston

Nine days later, American Rolling Mill raised steel prices $6 to $10 a ton. A smaller producer, Alan Wood Steel Co., followed with a boost on light plates. The next day National Steel and Republic acted. Next came Jones & Laughlin.

Then, on July 29—five days after American Rolling Mill and Alan Wood—United States Steel bowed to "higher costs." So did Bethlehem, thus making the price rise unanimous.

When the steel masters got through, prices were, as usual, identical. A New Yorker could buy steel from several companies, but the delivered price would be the same from all companies; ditto for a buyer in Canton, Ohio, or Washington, D. C., or Pittsburgh, or Atlanta. Steel prices are determined by a formula: the nearest basing point, or large producing center (like Pittsburg, Birmingham, Sparrows Point, Md., Chicago, etc.) plus freight. Steel makers farthest away from a consumer have to absorb freight.

ORIGINALLY, the FTC fight was directed against the "Pittsburgh plus" system. Then there was only one basing point. U. S. Steel, at Pittsburgh, held a price umbrella over the smaller producers and kept them from getting wet with red ink. In the process, U. S. Steel's profits were not hurt. But now there are many umbrella holders, many basing points, hence several points of competition.

A conspiracy in the recent price jumps would imply that U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Rolling Mill and others "talked things over," that they decided to have Sloss-Sheffield and Republic lead off with the pig iron boost and to have Armco and Alan Wood follow with sheets and light plates, and so on until a prearranged price structure emerged. That is what the FTC must show. It's not going to be easy.

Such a procedure implies an incredibly high rationale and camaraderie in the steel industry. What seems more likely is that the cost pressure was too much for certain companies. They saw their profit margins slipping away. They decided, regardless of Big Steel, to raise prices of products in which they had market strength and standing, if not absolute leadership. They knew they could sell. The "gray" market showed that.

PRICE IDENTICALITY, all by itself, does not demonstrate conspiracy. Camels, Chesterfields, and Lucky Strikes all sell for the same price. Yet will any one say that American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, and R. J. Reynolds are non-competitive? In shoes, prices aren't identical, but price differentials tend to be more or less identical. There's a shoe company, for example, that has found by experience that if its price is 75 cents a pair higher than a close competitor, it loses sales. If its price is 50 cents a pair higher, it gains sales. And if its price is 65 cents higher, why then, the relative sales positions remain the same. So, as you might imagine, price changes are long-considered and seldom.

In shoes, steel, and most industries, regardless of method or system, prices are a matter of workout and experience. And the method of setting them comes to be institutionalized. So the FTC's attack on the basing point raises fundamental questions: Can you have competition without price differentials? Can Bethlehem Steel and U. S. Steel both compete, though charging the same price? Do not all industries, inevitably, establish some kind of price pattern? Sometimes for self-protection? Sometimes for gaining maximum prices? Sometimes for the sake of internal order—both for the benefit of buyers and sellers?

In steel, costs are ultimately determined by long-term influences—by the amount of capital investment; by rates of obsolescence, by technological improvements; by wage rates; by fuel and material prices. Those are far more important than day-to-day price changes to get business.

SO THE INDUSTRY—as in cement—uses basing points. That means that there is no price competition, as such. But within the basing-point price pattern, there's competition on quality, on service, and, because freight rates vary, on rate of profit.

In a seller's market, as today, the higher cost producers tend to set the price. You can get what the traffic will bear. In a buyer's market, as tomorrow, the lower-cost producers will set the price. And, as during the depression, you even have price competition. The system then broke down, when producers, starved for business, sold below quoted prices.

The basing point pricing system is an established way of doing business. The FTC disapproves of it. It has brought action after action to have it destroyed. So far it has been unsuccessful. But the effect has been uncertainty and harassment. Perhaps the Supreme Court will settle the issue in October, when the FTC cease and desist order in cement comes up for a hearing. But if the Supreme Court doesn't decide the issue clearly, then Congress ought to. Some decision—once and for all, is necessary—both for industries like steel and cement which use it and for industries which don't, but might.

That, interestingly enough, was the proposal of the Temporary National Economic Committee. Only the committee urged that Congress declare such pricing systems "illegal." For the FTC and the TNEC, the war on basing points is holy.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP).—All wheat and oats contracts advanced to new seasonal peaks in another strong grain market on the Board of Trade today. Corn made sharp gains, but only the July delivery established a new seasonal high.

Continued dry, hot weather in the Midwest served to create buying in both corn and oats. A boost in the Government purchase price for cash grain supported wheat. In all pits the chief feature was lack of selling pressure rather than aggressive buying.

Wheat closed 2½@3½ higher; September, 2.41¼@2.41½; corn was 5 to 6 cents higher; September, 2.39@2.39½; and oats were 1¾@2⅛ higher; September, 1.06⅛@1.06⅜.

Cash interests and commission houses bought wheat. The CCC at Kansas City announced it would pay $2.31 a bushel for cash grain, representing an advance of 2 cents following a 3-cent price hike Saturday. From noon Thursday to noon Saturday the agency bought 1,746,850 bushels.

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—Cotton futures slumped $3.45 to $3.95 a bale today as the market experienced its first real pressure of hedging against the new crop movement which is now beginning to expand rapidly. Considerable selling also developed in late dealings on private advices indicating there were fairly widespread beneficial showers in Texas and a good rain in the Lubbock area. Crop observers there appeared less pessimistic over the drought condition in Texas.

Branch Bank Shows Growth In First Year

By S. Cliver Goodman

In its first year's operations the Highlands branch of National Capital Bank shows approximately $900,000 in deposits, President George A. Didden, jr., reported last night.

The total was gratifying, Didden added, because business of the branch was somewhat retarded by extensive work on Pennsylvania ave. se. during the past year. He expects the branch to show even more rapid progress now that the street work has been completed.

Manager of the branch is Gerald E. Burns. Bernard M. Eshleman, former manager, was transferred to the main office as assistant cashier. Burns started his banking career in 1937 with Liberty National, joined National Capital in 1941 and except for two years' naval service has been with the latter institution.

REFUNDING: Government's autumn refunding program, announced over weekend by Secretary Snyder, aggregates upward of 6½ billion dollars. Institutional investors are interested in long-term 2½ per cent bonds. Other phases involve new offering of 1 per cent short-term notes, a 10-month issue of certificates with a ⅞ of 1 per cent interest rate in August and still later a 12½-month issue of notes at 1 per cent, all in exchange for maturing securities.

TRADE WINDS: Safeway Stores' sales for 32 weeks ended August 9 totaled $664,025,441, gain of 35 per cent over same 1946 period . . . Tucker Corp. reported 25 special models of new rear-engined autos should be completed within 60 to 90 days . . . Scrap iron prices last week declined $2 to $3.50 a ton at virtually all major consuming points . . . Commercial Credit Co. net income in first half rose 73 per cent and earnings on common were $1.55 a share versus 79 cents in same 1946 period . . . Shell Pipe Line Corp. and Texas Pipe Line Co. to build 22-million-dollar petroleum pipe line from Cushing, Okla., to Salem, Ill. . . . This week's steel operations to drop from 93.2 per cent to 92.8 per cent due to furnace repairs . . . Willys-Overland Motors boosted prices $63.34 on station wagons and $47 on trucks . . . Eastern Air Lines, Inc., reported net profit of $1,317,177 equal to 55 cents a common share but President Eddie Rickenbacker frankly admitted that third quarter will show substantial loss due to extraordinary expenses conected with fleet of new-type Constellation planes.

PURELY LOCAL: Reasons for growing use of glass as electrical insulation were listed in "Watts in Glass," movie shown yesterday afternoon in Carlton Hotel here under auspices of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. . . . Johnston, Lemon & Co., in fortnightly review letter points out that averag ratio of Big Board stocks to corporate profits was 8 to 1 from 1935-1941; it is 3.3 to 1 now . . . Orvis Bros. & Co. in special study reviews earnings of 14 favorably situated steel companies.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Maj. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson, recently retired from Army Air Forces, elected director of E. R. Squibb & Sons. . . . Walter E. Jubien, formerly of French Supply Council in Washington, associated with Barium Steel Corp. . . . Charles F. Suter of Washington graduated from school in agency management of Life Insurance Agency Management Association in Chicago. . . . Samuel Sachs, lithographic consultant for United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, will sail September 5 to help as technical adviser for Swedish printing monopoly.

EARNINGS: Celanese Corp., reported net income of $11,033,445 for first six months, equal to $1.72 a comon share, compared with $7,444,403 or $1.07 a share in like 1946 period. Other income reports yesterday included:

Friends Prophetic

Altus, Okla. (U.P.)—When Evelyn Osburn was a little girl, new acquaintances mistakenly used to spell her last name "Osbourne." Now, she doesn't care if they do. She became the bride of W. P. Osborne in a wedding ceremony at Wilmington, Calif.

Bound to Be Hero

New York (U.P.)—Robert Merrill, Metropolitan Opera baritone, has announced a prize of $1000 for a one-act opera in English by an American composer and librettist. Merrill stipulated that the baritone must win the heroine and must not be cast as the villain. The contest closes February 29, 1948.

Had Fun, Anyway

New York (U.P.)—Arthur Levinson, 21, decided that the public dance in Poe Park was dull, even though 2000 dancers were keeping time to the music. He began tossing lighted firecrackers among the couples and their pace quickened—but a policeman hauled Levinson away to a $25 fine.

Md. Shipyard Vote Taken on Walkout End

Baltimore, Aug. 18 (AP).—Some 4500 shipyard workers at the Maryland Drydock Company voted by secret ballot today to decide whether they would return to work under terms of a tentative contract agreement reached in New York City by union and company officials.

Walter H. Oakes, regional director of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO), said the men would start the back-to-work movement at 8 a. m. tomorrow if they ratified the agreement in today's voting.

This would end a walkout that has stalled operations at the shipyard since July 2.

Oakes said terms of the tentative contacrt agreement included:

(1) A 12-cent hourly increase for day-work employes and a nine per cent increase for piece workers.

(2) Union recognition of the Independent Maryland Drydock Supervisors Association, organized during the strike by supervisors formerly affiliated with Local 31, of the IUMSWA.

(3) Change in the seniority clause of the former contract, providing that men with least experience be laid off first. However, the company would not be required to retain any experienced man who failed to meet ability requirements.

Hens Lay Eggs ir Air Raid Hats

Chicago (U.P.)—Reconversion has brought the little red hen a new type nest.

The War Assets Administration was trying to dispose of some old white-painted "tin hats," relics of World War I, which were used by air raid wardens in World War II.

For a while they were stumped, the WAA said, until an ingenious business man suggested chicken nests. He cut holes in planks, put the hats top down in the openings, mounted them in banks of two, four or six to a plank, and sold the finished products to chicken farmers.

A former soldier got the idea of using old air warden arm bands to decorate his oil station. He strung hundreds of them as pennants around his station, dressing it up like a county fair.

A shoe manufacturer used arm bands as tongue linings on children's play shoes.

Poor Rudolph Stops Airplane Propeller

Frankfort, Ky. (U.P.)—Accidents will happen, and Rudolph, whoever he is, has "nothing serious," only a dislocated kneecap as a result of an aircraft accident at one of Kentucky's landing fields.

Technical adviser Gerald O'Brien of the Kentucky Aeronautics Commission received the following report of an accident:

Dear Sir: Rudolph was propelling plane with student in plane. After calling for switchoff Rudolph pulled propeller through and motor started as switch was not off and propeller hit Rudolph on knee and knocked kneecap out of socket but no bones were broken, but broke end off propeller. Nothing serious. Rudolph will be off as instructor for a few days."

O'Brien would not reveal the name of field and did not have Rudolph's last name.

Sheriff Makes Hay Via Telephone

Sioux City, Iowa (U.P.)—Deputy Sheriff Ralph Hindman is beginning to believe that all things come to him who waits.

Hindman was sitting in his office wondering how he was going to find Ben Leedom of Winnebago, Nebr., who had been indicted by the Woodbury County grand jury on check forgery charges.

Then the telephone rang. The voice on the other end said, "This is Ben Leedom. I want you to find my wife." He said his wife had their car "and I just don't want her to drive."

Hindman told Leedom that he'd help him find his wife and added casually, "By the way, where are you so that we can let you know when we do?"

Leedom supplied the address and it wasn't long before Hindman was there to arrest him.

Casey Lays an Egg

Milwaukee, Wis. (U.P.)—Casey has been renamed Cassandra. Washington park zoo officials were startled to find a big green egg in the cassawary's quarters and promptly dubbed the ostrich-like bird with a femine counterpart.

Eminent Antelopes To Make Annual Hike

Portland, Oreg. (U.P.)—The Order of Antelope—one of America's most unusual hiking clubs—will gather for its annual convention on Hart Mountain again this year.

Among the men who expect to make the order's annual trek into Hart Mountain by car and afoot were Senator Wayne Morse and Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court; Palmer Hoyt, publisher of the Denver Post; James Conzelman, coach of the Chicago Cardinals; Ham Fisher, creator of the Joe Palooka comic strip; Dr. Paul Raver, head of the Benneville administration, and Stewart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War.

Bark Net and Smoke Got Indians Ducks

Vashon Island, Wash. (U.P.)—For untold generations and up until 100 years ago, the Indians in this Puget Sound community harvested wild ducks by an ingenious method.

They would stretch a net of cedar bark 10 feet above a sand spit where ducks were plentiful. Fires would be built under the net. The Indians would get in their canoes, driving the ducks to flight.

Reaching the smoky area, the ducks would become blinded and many would strike the net and fall to the ground. Indian women killed them with wooden clubs.

Airliner's Hostess Doubles as Pilot

Pittsburgh (U.P.)—Passengers on the AAXICO Airlines here are startled when they see an attractive hostess climb into the co-pilot seat on their ship and take off.

She is 26-year-old Mary Morrison, a Bryn Mawr graduate, one of the few women in the country to qualify as pilot on a giant commercial airliner.

Miss Morrison has some 1800 flying hours to her credit and recently was assigned to the regular Caribbean run for American Air Export and Import Lines.

Her big ambition is to fly one of the race-type planes in the Bendix Air Trophy race in Cleveland.

Milk Showers Down As Trucks Collide

Billings, Mont. (U.P.)—A milk bath may be quite the thing as a beauty treatment, but Sam W. Barger, Billings milk trucker, did not like his. Too much glass in it.

Barger's truck collided with another car at a downtown intersection, and the milk man was buried in 200 broken milk bottles—also their contents.

One of the policemen who dug him out of the mess cut his hand. Barger suffered minor cuts.

Hubby 100 Percenter

Milwaukee (U.P.)—Mrs. Shirley Pochert filed suit for divorce because her husband criticized the way she managed the household finances. In particular, Mrs. Pochert said her husband "expected her to save $100 out of every $100" he gave her for expenses.

Battle Waits While Guard Goes to Party

Camp Ritchie, Md., Aug. 18 (AP).—An all-night field operation along the Waynesboro road, interrupted temporarily for a party, was in prospect tonight for the 110th Field Artillery of the Maryland National Guard.

The other troops resting from a day of close-order drill, rifle-range practice and classroom lectures.

Brig. Gen. Henry C. Evans welcomed the troops on the parade ground at 7:30 a. m. today with a talk on the general patteern of their five-day training period.

Altogether, 1189 enlisted men and 196 officers, including eight major elements of the Twenty-ninth Division, encamped here for the training.

Tonight's battle was against a mythical enemy on the move for Pittsburgh after having theoretically destroyed Baltimore by atom bombing, and then having landed on the shores of the Chesapeake.

After taking up its position and pitching camp, the entire battalion retired to the nearby lodge of their commander, Lieut. Col. John P. Cooper, jr., where a hillbilly band entertained them until 11 p. m.

After that they were to return to the battle.

Wanna Buy A Locomotive?

New York (U.P.)—The War Assets Administration blandly announced it had a few locomotives it would like to sell.

Persons interested in obtaining one—without tracks—were advised they could buy a steam oiler model at $1200; two 80-ton steam coolers at $6000 each; a 15-ton gas engine switcher at $2200; two 30-ton diesels at $5100 and $3250, and a 60-ton bargain built in 1907 for only $1250.

The WAA office also offered 10 hand-push railroad cars (aching back type) for $10 each.

Seattle Youth Hostel Wins Popularity

Seattle (U.P.)—Youth hostel groups from the Eastern regions of the United States rate the Seattle unit as one of the most luxurious in the Nation.

Seattle's hostel is aboard a converted pleasure boat, the Atlanta, moored in Lake Union. The craft, anchored in midtown Lake Union, has hot and cold water, a refrigerator, a kitchen with a full size stove, facilities for washing clothes and comfortable bunks.

"It's one of the finest hostels we've run across in the United States and Canada," said Betty McCombe of Manchester, N. Y.

500 Flock to Wedding Of 'Friendless' Bride

Buffalo, N. Y. (U.P.)—Three hundred "friends" sat on the bride's side of the church when Austrian-born Jane H. Marks said "I do" to a former United States Army sergeant.

The 23-year-old girl, 5000 miles from family and friends in her native Vienna, faced a friendless wedding until the pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church intervened.

For two consecutive Sundays, the Rev. Martin Hoeppner urged his congregation to attend the girl's wedding and show the bride a true American, good-neighbor welcome. He followed his appeals with a notice on the church bulletin board, reiterating the invitation.

Army, Navy Outfits Merge on Their Own

Winston-Salem, N. C. (U.P.)—The Army and Navy here didn't wait for Congress to pass the unification bill—they went ahead and merged on their own.

Forced to move from their old quarters, the Naval reserve headquarters was forced to move, too. The Navy wasn't so lucky. It could find no place to go.

So the Army offered to share its space, and the Navy accepted with gratitude.

On Campus to Stay

Norman, Okla. (U.P.)—The married student is on the campus to stay and colleges and universities must provide permanent housing, says Henry L. Kamphoefner, professor of agriculture at the University of Oklahoma. Kamphoefner advocates long-range planning.

Speedboat Driver Is Facing Drunk Charge After Chase

There was water, water all around, and the speedboat driver had a drop too much to drink, police reported yesterday.

And so, John S. Wolf, 24, of 3206 Wisconsin ave. nw., was held in $500 bond for a jury trial October 7 on a charge of driving a motorboat while drunk.

Wolf was arrested by Sergt. Roy a Cunningham of the Harbor Police shortly after 4 a. m. yesterday when the 30-foot speed boat was run aground on mudflats in the Potomac near National Airport.

Cunningham said he first hailed the speedboat as it was cruising without lights near the Army War College seawall.

A companion of Wolf's, Lieut. William Brown of No. 1 Truck Co., Fire Department, told Cunningham that he would take over the wheel, th epolice said, and Cunningham agreed to let the craft proceed after a warning.

Shortly after, police again saw the speedboat, still without lights, and with Wolf at the helm, buzzing downstream. A chase ensued which ended on the mudflats.

According to Cunningham, Wolf told him that he was authorized by the owner of the boat to "tune it up." The "tuning up" process involved $500-$1000 damages to the hull incurred when it ran aground, according to police.

Brown declared that he had tied up the boat at the dock and walked off, leaving Wolf in the craft, prior to the chase.

Fairfax Tie Vote Settlement Given Blast by Va. GOP

Virginia Republicans meeting at Virginia Beach yesterday took a blast at the way State Democratic officials settled the tie vote in Fairfax County's primary election August 5.

Lester S. Parsons, Second District GOP chairman, compared the State Democratic organization to the Pendergast and Hague machines. He went on to say that instead of selecting the winner of the Fairfax race by lot, the State Board of Elections should have made the choice by recount or by another election.

Fairfax was still waiting to hear whether there would be another round in the fight for the House of Delegates nomination between incumbent Edwin Lynch and Robert J. McCandlish, jr. First, it seemed Lynch was winner by two votes. Then it was called a tie. Later, State officials again declared Lynch winner by pulling his name from a hat.

Eye Bank Appeals For More Corneas

New York (U.P.)—The Eye Bank for Sight Restoration, Inc., is seeking healthy, sound corneas which will make it possible for persons now blind to regain their sight.

The shortage of corneas was so great at the time of the appeal no less than 35 persons were waiting in the metropolitan area for the operation that for many would lift a curtain of darkness.

Mrs. Alda de Acosta Breckingridge, founder and executive director of the bank, said many persons have signed forms authorizing the organization to use their eyes after death, but that the number was not sufficient. The bank has no reserve of corneas.

The eye bank is located at 210 East 64th st., New York.

13 Kids Lucky

Indianapolis (U.P.)—Boyd Browder thinks 13 is his lucky number. Charged with disorderly conduct and taken before the judge, he learned that his wife had been taken to a hospital to await the birth of their 13th child. The judge postponed the case and said he would dismiss the charge if Browder would bring all his children to see him within two months.

Bouncing Baby Now

Seattle (U.P.)—A baby who weighed but two pounds and six ounces a year ago, recently celebrated her first birthday here. She weighed in at 22 pounds. Bouncing, healthy Elizabeth Anne Palm has no teeth, but has increased her weight nine times. Most babies treble their weight in the first year, doctors say.

Reforestation Test

Salem, Oreg. (U.P.)—A 30-acre experimental forest tract about 25 miles northeast of Prineville, Oreg., has been set aside by the State for studying reforestation of Ponderosa pine by directing seeding, State Forester Nels S. Rogers announced.

Bandits Foiled

New York (U.P.)—Paul Boses, proprietor of a Bronx bar, motioned nonchalantly toward the cash register when two men entered the place brandishing pistols. The men went to the register and took $20 from it. Boses knew that was all he could lose—he had already taken home the bulk of Saturday night's receipts. The bandits left with the $20.

PATIENCE, BRICK! IF MIKE DID WIN ALL THAT MONEY GAMBLING, HIS CONSCIENCE WILL FORCE HIM TO CONFESS BEFORE YOU'VE DRIVEN TWO BLOCKS!
I HOPE HE AT LEAST HAS THE DECENCY TO FEEL ASHAMED, AUNT MARY!
ZIPPETY-DOO-DAH-DEEDLE DE DUM...!
WONDERFUL DAY, FUNNY FACE! THAT AIR'S SO INTOXICATING IT SHOULD BE BOTTLED AND SEALED WITH REVENUE STAMPS... AND YOU, MY TREASURE, ARE LOVELY ENOUGH TO DRIVE MEN MAD!...
I'LL BE UP AS SOON AS I PARK THIS ROLLING REPAIR BILL, BRICK! GOT A BUSY DAY AHEAD--BUT I'M FULLA FIZZ AN' RARIN' TO GO!
VERY WELL, MIKE!
..HMM! IF HE HAS A CONSCIENCE, IT'S AFRAID TO OPEN IT'S MOUTH!
2 HOURS LATER...
MRS. MASON! ISN'T MIKE WORKING TODAY? HE HASN'T KEPT A SINGLE ONE OF HIS APPOINTMENTS THIS MORNING!

SO PHIL COULDN'T KEEP QUIET ABOUT GETTING THE $1000, EH, MICKEY?
NO, SERGEANT, AND NOW IT'S ALL OVER TOWN THAT IT WAS $20,000! WE'VE HAD GUYS AT THE HOUSE TRYIN' TO SELL HIM EVERYTHING FROM STATION WAGONS TO WASHING MACHINES
I HOPE IT DOESN'T GET INTO THE PAPERS -IT WOULD BE VERY EMBARRASSING TO MR. DUDD!
OH, HE HASN'T MENTIONED MR. DUDD, THANK GOODNESS! HE TOLD 'EM HE MADE IT IN THE STOCK MARKET--ON A TIP FROM ONE OF HIS MILLIONAIRE FRIENDS!
HO! THAT'S RICH! WELL I HOPE HE STICKS TO THAT STORY!
HE WILL, SERGEANT! HE'S TOLD IT TO SO MANY THAT I THINK HE'S BEGINNIN' TO BELIEVE IT HIMSELF!
LISTEN, PHIL--WE'VE BEEN FRIENDS A LONG TIME--WHAT'S A GOOD STOCK TO BUY!
I WOULDN'T ADVISE YOU TO TOUCH ANYTHING AT THE MOMENT, DONOVAN! THE MARKET IS TOO UNSTEADY!

What? No Complaints About "Government Inefficiency?"

We hear so many stories about frustrated people who remain frustrated that it's nice to know that at least one guy made out okay.

Before boarding ship in France to return to the States, George S. Wright handed over a bundle of francs to an officer.

George assumed that during the voyage he'd get about $296 in American dollars for his francs. But he never saw the officer again, and he never got his money.

The other day George found himself in Louisville, suffering from an acute shortage of dollars.

He'd been studying electronics under the GI bill, but his papers had gotten snarled up, and again he wasn't getting his money.

So he hitchhiked to Washington to register a beef—and of course he arrived here stone cold broke.

A story like this usually ends with the disillusioned young man going back home as broke and frustrated as he was when he arrived.

But the Salvation Army loaned George $75 worth of eating money, the GI subsistence records were untangled, and Army finance promised that the $296 would be paid in short order.

So George went back to Louisville convinced that Washington is a pretty nice place.

'PUN MY WORD

Most people would sue, but Mrs. M. S. Wright of 3610 35th st. nw. lets her sense of humor handle the situation. She postcards:

"While eating a candy bar the other day, I bit down on something hard and found a gold-faced bridge tooth embedded in the center.

"Could we call it a 'sweet tooth?'"

TRADEMARK

A casual acquaintance of mine vows he's going to reform and quit drinking.

It wouldn't do to use his right name, so let's call him Joe, and pass along his explanation of how he came to take the pledge.

One night Joe visited an old drinking companion and, after a long evening, he finally started for home.

Unsteadily negotiating the front porch steps, he hit a few with his feet and the remainder with other parts of his anatomy.

A cab pulled up to the curb, and Joe picked himself up and climbed wearily in. The cab drove off, and took him straight home.

As he was paying his fare it suddenly dawned on Joe that he hadn't given the driver any instructions. So he inquired, "Buddy, how did you know where I live?"

The hacker's answer made a teetotaler of our Joe.

"Oh, I've taken you home before," said the driver. "I recognized you by the way you came down the steps."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two white kittens, male; one gray maltese female; two tiger striped females. All healthy." (Ludlow 0292.)

PEPPER POSES PRACTICAL POLITICAL PROBLEM, EH?

J. N. H. of 37th st. nw. says we mustn't use his name with this item because it might be construed as "politics" under the Hatch Act.

A headline in The Washington Post recently proclaimed:

Pepper Sees Politics in Plane Probe

Which led J. N. H. to write:

Keith-Johnson's Censor Problem

New York.—Colin Keith-Johnson, the British star, tells of the time when he served as a censor in Alexandria during the war. One day an actor friend arrived in Alexandria and saw Keith-Johnson. They chatted about the stage and their friends . . . That night Keith-Johnson was at his desk censoring letters and found a note written by his actor friend, addressed to someone in Hollywood. It contained the line, "I saw dear old Colin Keith-Johnson today. He's as dreary as ever." He wondered what to do, and confessed his problem to a young naval officer who entered the office. "I understand a great many letters don't get through, because of submarines," consoled the officer. "So I wouldn't worry, sir, if I were you."

Former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma died last month. Owen, who was almost 80, knew that death was imminent. Shortly before he died he asked to see his old friend, Gen. Pat Hurley. He told Hurley that he had one last request to make. "If at any time you hear that I shot a man 50 years ago," said Senator Owen, "I want you to deny it. Tell them you can prove that at the time of the shooting I was in a town 60 miles away."

Ray Bolger will make his first New York nightclub appearance at Nick Blair's Carnival. Bolger will do the "Old Soft Shoe" and other favorite routines . . . When John Barrymore first arrived in Hollywood, W. C. Fields was asked: "Is Barrymore a drunkard?" Fields replied: "Devout."

Charles Lederer, the screenwriter, decided to invest some money in a silver stock. He started to buy shares at 5 cents a share. He bought thousands of them and his purchases drove the price to 23 cents a share. When he saw the price listed at 23 cents Lederer phoned his broker and said, "Now sell." The broker calmly reminded him, "To whom?" . . . Lederer, who is Hollywood's most practical joker, was stationed in India when he was in the Army. One day he visited the tent of Capt. George Oppenheimer and presented him with a package containing a collapsible rubber raft. Lederer removed the cap, thereby causing the raft to be inflated. Then he left while Oppenheimer became trapped by the blown-up raft.

Clinton P. Anderson, the Secretary of Agriculture, who was rumored last week to succeed Bob Hannegan as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said, "When a farmer becomes prosperous he joins the Republican Party. My job is to see that farmers get prosperous and also become receptive to Democratic talk." . . . Al Buck, the sports director of the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, promoted every conceivable angle in the Lesnevich-Mauriello fight, which netted the fund more than $25,000. Buck even had an emissary in Washington working to get Margaret Truman to sing the "Star-Spangled Banner" before the fight. . . . Lena Horne is drawing record-breaking crowds into the Copa, but couldn't get a room in the hotel above the nightclub.

A newspaperman who was in Palestine at the time tells of the day Maxim Litvinoff arrived there, en route to Russia after his recall as Ambassador to Washington. Litvinoff, accompanied by the American Consul General and a delegation, visited Rachel's Tomb, between Tel Aviv and Bethlehem. The old guard stood at the entrance to the tomb, saw the official and determined that there was an important visitor in the group. He studied Litvinoff and said "I know who you are." . . . Who am I?" asked Litvinoff. . . . "You," said the guard, "are Old Man Churchill." . . . Litvinoff told him, "I'll forgive you the "Old Man.'"

You Are My Life

This much I want to say to you . . . Whatever time may bring . . . You are the only one I love . . . And you are everything . . . You are my inspiration and . . . Wherever I may be . . . There is no other one on earth . . . Who means so much to me . . . smile . . . And you are always at my side . . . However long the mile . . . I could not without you, dear . . . hours dark or bright . . . Because you are the sweetest part . . . Of every day and night . . . You are the only joy that I . . . Desire to recall . . . You are the only reason for . . . My being here at all.

fashion quiz

We'll leave the answer to the sixty-fo ur dollar question to the Little Professor. That's his department. Ours is to provide the answers to the Fashion Quiz on the proper clothes to send Miss Teen-ager happily back to school this fall. You're mighty proud of that Teen-ager. You should be . . . she's one of the best-cared-for and healthiest children on earth . . . and you want to help her acquire the answers—not only to the questions from our quiz master—but to a complete and successful life. That's why you're getting her ready for a return to the classroom. We, of The Hecht Company, want to help her get off to a good start by outfitting her in a way to give her the confidence and well-being promoted by the knowledge that she is properly dressed for all occasions. She's been "boning up" on that fashion book, and she knows just what she wants. Our sales people, Professors of Fashion, will do their best to see that she gets the things she needs . . . at the prices you want to pay . . . so that your daughter will take her proper place—at the Head of the Fashion Class—with her Teen-ager Wardrobe from The Hecht Company's new bigger and better than ever Second Floor Teen Shops.
